Labor Bill Backers Are Threatened

Carey Says Reprisal For Tough Measure Is Due At The Polls

WASHINGTON (AP)—AFL-CIO Vice President James B. Carey threatened punishment at the polls Thursday for House members he accused of joining in a vindictive assault on the labor movement.

Carey flung his threat in blistering letters sent to 229 representatives — both Republicans and Democrats—who on a key vote last week supported a strict labor control bill endorsed by President Eisenhower.

Sends Pledges

At the same time, Carey sent pledges of support to 201 Democrats and Republicans who opposed the anticorruption bill introduced by Reps. Phil M. Landrum (D-Ga) and Robert P. Griffin (R-Mich).

House members who got the hostile letters were quick to blast back.

"A cheap effort at intimidation," said Rep. Hamer H. Budge (R-Idaho).

"You and too many other autocratic union bosses are guilty of the un-American philosophy of class hatred," Rep. Edward J. Derwinski (R-Ill) told Carey.

Leaders of organized labor have been smarting at their defeat, but Carey's letters to Griffin-Landrum supporters was the first open talk of reprisal.

An aide said Carey acted as president of the International Union of Electrical Workers and with the approval of that union's officers.

Has No Connection

Asked if Carey cleared the letters with AFL-CIO President George Meany, the aide replied: "It had no connection with Meany."

Carey now is at Forest Park, Pa., where he is meeting with other AFL-CIO chiefs — including Meany—to chart the federation's policies for the months ahead.

In his lteters, Carey directed his ire at House members who voted last Thursday to substitute the Griffin-Landrum bill for a milder version backed by the House Democratic leadership. Organized labor was cool toward the Democratic bill. But it fought the Griffin-Landrum measure as anti-labor.

Ike To Proclaim Hawaii Today

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — President Eisenhower welcomed his wife, worked at his office and relaxed at golf Thursday.

Friday he interrupts a vacation at his farm for a quick hop to Washington to usher Hawaii into the Union and fix the design of a new, 50-star Old Glory.

Eisenhower will sign a proclamation of statehood for Hawaii at the White House at 4 p.m. He will sign, too, an executive order which will determine how the stars in the new flag will be arranged.

Then he will unfurl the first of the new flags which will become the official national emblem next July 4.

The President put off both golf and a visit to his office this morning to wait for Mrs. Eisenhower to drive up from Washington. The First Lady had just returned from a nine day trip to Denver to be with her ailing 81-year-old mother, Mrs. John S. Doud.

Rebels Are Killed

Quake Death Toll Rises, New Tremors Felt

WEST YELLOWSTONE PARK, Mont. (AP)—A woman injured in an earthquake - caused avalanche died Thursday. Her death brought the known dead in Monday night's southwestern Montana shocks to nine.

Four others are believed dead. More victims may be hidden beneath landslides and in a lake and a river.

Mrs. Ray Painter, 42, Ogden, Utah, died in a hospital at Bozeman, Mont.

She was injured at Rock Creek campground when the side of a mountain toppled into the Madison River. She was brought out by helicopter and airplane.

Five more earth shocks shook the disaster area Thursday. There were no reports of damage. Frightened people in West Yellowstone ran into the street in midmorning.

The Yellowstone National Park area has been rattled by 372 aftershocks since the big quake, the U.S. Geodetic Survey said.

Skindivers searched the cold, muddy waters of Hebgen Lake, three miles north of Hebgen Dam Thursday. A section of highway fell into the lake there and is reported to have carried one or two cars with it.

After making several dives, the skindivers were ordered to quit because it was feared continuing quakes might cause an overhanging bluff to collapse.

Despite a driving rain, about 100 volunteers clambered over the landslides hunting for victims.

Officials decided against tackling a 50-million-ton landslide with bulldozers. A surface search failed to disclose any more victims.

The slide which bore down on Rock Creek campground after Monday night's heaviest shock is almost all rock.

The Army Engineers Corps said it will send crews in to check the landslide to determine what, if anything, can be done about burrowing into it.

Macmillan To Show Eisenhower Movies

Red Sabotage Teams Spread Through Laos

All-Out Offensive By Rebel Units Is Feared By Royalists

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Communist propaganda and sabotage teams were reported spreading through southern Laos Thursday and rebel units in the north appeared to be preparing for an all-out offensive.

Defense Secretary Col. Phoumi Nosavan said the rebels in the southern provinces were mostly political and sabotage teams sent to undermine the pro-Western government and spread propaganda.

Earlier the government made the surprising announcement that Red guerrillas are operating now in six provinces, some as far south as the South Viet Nam border.

Skirmishing Flares

The skirmishing that flared last month in two northern provinces — Sam Neua and Phong Saly — threatens to spread warfare over a 500-mile line.

Military reports said the rebels, though specialists in hit-and-run tactics, are holding a fifth of Sam Neua province. These advices said the government is losing men daily in patrol chashes.

Sam Neua province adjoins Communist North Viet Nam, which Laos charges has trained, armed and equipped border tribesmen for the uprising. Red China backs the action with its propaganda guns.

Man-to-man, the rebels would not have a chance in regular battle, the army of Laos believes. But that isn't the way they fight. They were authoritatively estimated to number only 3,500, against 25,000 in the American-equipped Laotian army.

Red units were reported in Saravane, Savannakhet, Takhek and Xiengkhouang provinces.

Thinning Forces

A Defense Ministry spokesman said the extension of Communist activities was aimed at thinning government forces so the rebels could concentrate on seizure of the two northern provinces once controlled by the Red Pathet Lao.

The spokesman said another Red goal is to force a return of the international control commission which was abolished last spring.

That would give the Communists an observation post in Laos through Communist Poland. Poland, India and Canada made up the commission, set up under the 1954 armistice that ended the fighting in Indochina. Laos refuses to let the commission return.

Dad's Prominence Brings Publicity To Rockefeller

KRISTIANSAND, Norway (AP) —Steven Rockefeller said Thursday the political prominence of his father, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, is the reason for the immense newspaper interest in his wedding Saturday to Anne Marie Rasmussen.

"It's obvious that if my father were not governor of New York and being considered as a possible presidential candidate, there wouldn't have been so much publicity," he told The Associated Press.

Gov. Rockefeller has been mentioned frequently as a possible rival to Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the Republicahn nomination in 1960. He has not committed himself.

Obliging Night Attendant Aids Gunman Rob Garage

NEW YORK (UPI) — James Reeves, the night attendant at an all night garage, was busy working under an auto early Wednesday when he felt a sudden sharp pain in his ribs.

He twisted and looked up—right into the muzzle of a shiny pistol.

The gunman ordered Reeves out from under the car and forced him to open the cash register.

After removing the $35 from the till the bandit said:

"You know, I could shoot you".

"Please don't," Reeves pleaded.

"You're bigger than me, you could take this gun away from me."

"I'm not going to try," Reeves assured him.

"Here, take it. I've got another gun," the gunman said and handed Reeves the pistol. Reeves handed it back.

The bandit then introduced himself, put the pistol back in his pocket and gave Reeves $10.

Just then two policemen on patrol entered the garage. The bandit strolled toward them, then turned to Reeves and asked: "is the gas all right?"

"Yes, the gas is okay," Reeves replied.

The cops left. The bandit followed them, waved goodbye to Reeves from the doorway and disappeared.

Reeves then telephoned the police — he was still out $25.

"He told me his name too," Reeves said, "but I forgot it."

Steel Company Exec Calls For More Support

NEW YORK (AP)—A top steel company executive Thursday appealed to the striking United Steelworkers Union to adopt a more cooperative attitude in support of the industry's gains.

J. L. Mauthe, board chairman of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., urged the union to recognize the desirability of the industry's financial strength, rather than attacking its record profits.

In a statement prepared for delivery on his company's weekly television program over station WKBN in Youngstown, Ohio, Mauthe agreed with the union that industry profits for the year's first half were the highest in history.

"We believe, however, that instead of continuing these attacks on the steel industry for earning these profits, the leaders of the union should join with management in recognizing the desirability and the absolute necessity for adequate profits," he added.

Mauthe, a member of Big Steel's coordinating committee, gave no indication that the 12 major steel firms affected by the five-week strike have modified their stand against any wage increase.

In Forrest Park, Pa., the AFL-CIO Executive Council adopted a resolution dedicating its 1959 Labor Day celebration Sept. 7 to sympathy and support for steel strikers

The resolution said the strike "has been forced upon the steelworkers and the American people and its outcome will affect the lives of every American who works for wages or salary."

Funds Added For Building

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee added more than 143 million dollars Thursday to a House-passed bill to pay for hundreds of military construction projects in the United States and overseas.

The group added millions of dollars to build 86 more armories for Army National Guardsmen in 30 states, to give the Air Force additional shops and machines to test and repair jet fighters and bombers, and to construct 10 additional military hospitals in this country.

The Senate agreed to take up the measure Friday. It contains $1,428,178,700, $143,176,000 more than the House allowed, 24 million dollars above last year's total but still 135 million below President Eisenhower's budget requests.

All of the armed services won increases from the Senate group but their reserve units received even more generous treatment.

The Senate committee boosted House allowances for the Army Reserve, Naval Reserve, Air Force Reserve and Air National Guard to the full budget requests.

And for the Army National Guard it added $12,219,000, or more than double the budget request. The House figure was 11 million dollars.

Batista Arrives In Portugal On Way To Home

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Fulgencio Batista, Cuba's ousted president, arrived Thursday en route to a new home in exile and put up at a swank hotel. He was guarded by swarms of police.

The chartered plane carrying the well-heeled ex-army sergeant and his party of 17 flew in from the Dominican Republic, where Batista has an uneasy exile since his fall last Jan. 1.

The dark, stocky little man who once ruled Cuba with an iron hand is expected to spend a few days in Lisbon before proceeding to his new home in exile in the Madeira Islands of Portugal.

Nash Slated To Die Tonight

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—One of the coldest killers California has ever known is scheduled to die here at 10 a.m. Friday.

Hard-eyed, tough-talking Stephen Nash, 36, goes to the gas chamber for two Southern California killings. He brags that he has killed at least 11 persons, and officers believe him.

Kicked around since infancy, ruled legally sane by court-pointed psychiatrists, Nash has stirred up wide controversy. Nash laughs as he describes the killings.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown, a personal foe of capital punishment, was amazed by Nash's long history of offenses, but refused clemency.

"I am concerned," said Brown, "that our laws allow a man as obviously dangerous as Nash to be released and to escape further restraint simply because we lack adequate controls."

The governor asked that a committee be appointed to study suggestions for revising California's legal definition of insanity.

Superior Court Judge H. Burton Nobe, sentenced Nash to die, after a Los Angeles jury convicted him in February, 1957, for murdering 10-year-old Larry Rice of Santa Monica and John Berg, 26, of Long Beach. Both had been stabbed to death. The boy's body was found under a pier. The body of Berg, a hairdresser, was found in his apartment.

Nash, who admitted being a homosexual, said sex was involved in all of his crimes.

Court Reviews Slayer's Appeal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—The Ohio Supreme Court had under consideration Thursday an appeal by condemned slayer Lewis Niday, 30, of Belpre. The high court granted Niday an indefinite stay of execution, delaying his scheduled death on Sept. 11.

Niday was convicted last October at Marietta in the slaying of Florence Cowdery of Marietta. Twice before he had received stays.

The Supreme Court granted the stay pending study of his appeal.

Vote-Swapping Criticized By AFL-CIO Heads

FOREST PARK, Pa. (AP)—The AFL-CIO's high command said Thursday Southern Democrats and Northern Republicans in Congress engaged in cynical vote-swapping to pass strict labor controls and kill off civil rights legislation.

George Meany, federation president, said he had no direct evidence of any such deal but he and other AFL-CIO chiefs feel sure there is one.

"We studied the roll call that put over the harsh labor control bill last week and we know such a coalition exists, he commented. "We jumped to our conclusions. Let 'em sue us."

Meany's reference was to the vote by which the House last week approved a labor control bill sponsored by Reps. Phil M. Landrum (D-Ga) and Robert P. Griffin (R-Mich) and backed by the Eisenhower administration. The AFL-CIO has termed it an anti-union measure.

Senate and House conferees in Washington now are trying to resolve differences between the Landrum-Griffin bill and one passed earlier by the Senate. The AFL-CIO also opposes the Senate bill with less vehemence.

The AFL-CIO Executive Council adopted a resolution charging a deal to pass stiff labor control and at the same time kill off any meaningful civil rights legislation this year.

Voting Heavy In Memphis City Election

MEMPHIS (UPI)—Negro voting was heavy but the balloting was slow city-wide Thursday in Memphis' municipal elections, featuring a bid by Negroes to capture major city offices here for the first time since reconstruction.

There was a lengthy ballot with 42 candidates vying for 14 offices. Although voting machines were in use, there were long lines of voters waiting at many of the city's 143 precincts.

The polls close at 9:30 p.m. and officials said anyone waiting in line at the time the polls closed would be allowed to vote. Thus delay in counting was indicated.

Campaigning was intense on behalf of five Negro candidates, and Memphis — long the stronghold of a dominant political organization of the late E. H. Crump—faced the situation of an overcrowded field of white candidates opposed by a bloc-voting Negro minority.

Interest was centered on a bid by Negro attorney Russell Sugarmon Jr., 30, to win election as city public works commissioner. He was the only Negro on a list of six candidates and observers conceded him a strong chance.

There were appeals by many Memphis political and civic leaders for the white candidates in the race to thin their ranks. Only one withdrew, however, and too late to get his name off the ballot.

Negroes, making up a third of the population of this mid south cotton capital, held all-night prayer meetings Wednesday night to climax fervent campaigns on behalf of their candidates. One other Negro, the Rev. Ben L. Hooks, was conceded a good chance of election as juvenile court judge. He was the only Negro in a field of five.

There were 57,109 registered Negro voters in the city total registration of 187,541. Observers predicted a record 100,000 vote turnout.

Friday is the bachelor princess' 29th birthday.

She plans to spend Friday at Balmoral Castle in Scotland.

Jet Fighter Takes Off In Distance Of An Inch

ANDREWS AIR FORCE BASE, Md. (AP) — A jet fighter was blasted into flight in a takeoff distance of less than one inch in a successful trial of operation from an atomic blast-proof shelter, the Air Force announced Thursday.

The Air Research and Development Command said the test proved that aircraft close to enemy territory can be protected against sneak attack and still be ready for an instantaneous counterpunch.

The Supersonic F100 was launched from a cavelike concrete and steel structure at the Air Force missile development center at Holloman Air Force Base near Alamagordo, N.M.

The takeoff run of less than an inch represented the distance the plane moved before actual disengagement of restraining lugs that held it down while pressure was built up by a rocket booster. Upon disengagement of the lugs, the plane was in flight. In four seconds it was making 275 miles an hour. Soon it was flying faster than sound—762 miles an hour at sea level.

A major purpose of the trial was to determine whether pressures, heat and exhaust gases could be handled in such a protective structure.

The pilot was Al Blackburn of North American.

Discoverer VI Cone Ejected Successfully

Planes And Ships Fail To Pick Up Its Radio Signals

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — The Air Force failed Thursday to recover a 300-pound capsule ejected from the Discoverer VI satellite high above the earth.

Two previous recovery tries in earlier discoverer satellite shots also failed.

The Defense Department said the capsule from Discoverer VI was successfully ejected as scheduled over the Pacific at 6:27 p.m. e.d.t. but that a fleet of planes and ships waiting to retrieve it as it parachuted down failed to sight it visually or pick up its radio signals.

"Therefore it is unlikely that the capsule will be recovered although the search will be continued for a number of hours," the department statement, released in Washington, said.

Would Have Been First

Successful recovery would have been a space-age first and a step in the program to return a man safely from his eventual first flight into space.

The capsule was to have fallen into a 10,000 square mile area of the Pacific 700 miles southwest of Hawaii.

Eight C 119 cargo planes, trailing trapeze-like devices, had been poised ready to try to grab the falling sphere out of the air.

Failing that, ships were prepared to pluck it out of the sea.

Thursday's failure was similar to one only eight days ago. On that occasion a capsule of the same weight was ejected from Discoverer V, but planes and ships failed to see it or hear its signals.

On an earlier Discoverer shot, the capsule was ejected too soon because of the failure of a timing mechanism. It failed to fall in the target area.

In North-South Orbit

The latest recovery failures tended to distract attention from Air Force success in putting two 1,700-pound satellites, the heaviest the U. S. has launched into orbit within one week.

Discoverer VI was launched Wednesday and went into a north-south polar orbit that takes it within 138 miles of earth at its closest point and 537 miles away at its fartherest point.

It is expected to remain aloft about a month.

Halsey Given Hero's Burial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fleet Adm. William F. Halsey was given a hero's burial in Arlington National Cemetery Thursday.

Old comrades from the Pacific campaigns of World War II, high government officials and hundreds of others attended the burial rites in Arlington after Episcopal funeral services at Washington Cathedral.

As the admiral's casket was carried up a winding drive in the cemetery by a horse-drawn gun caisson a flight of Navy jet fighters thundered above the funeral party in farewell salute to the man whose carrier planes beat the best Japanese sea and land-based aviation.

Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson, former Navy secretary, was in the funeral party, together with Deputy Secretary of Defense Thomas Gates, also a former civilian head of the Navy.

At the graveside, too, was the last survivor of the group of four fleet admirals, of five-star rank, appointed during the war. Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, the wartime Pacific commander in chief, white haired but trim and erect, was there to say goodby to "Bull Halsey."

The 76-year-old Halsey was found dead Sunday morning at Fishers Island, N.Y., the victim of a heart attack.

"You're bigger than me, you could take this gun away from me."

"I'm not going to try," Reeves assured him.

"Here, take it. I've got another gun," the gunman said and handed Reeves the pistol. Reeves handed it back.

The bandit then introduced himself, put the pistol back in his pocket and gave Reeves $10.

Just then two policemen on patrol entered the garage. The bandit strolled toward them, then turned to Reeves and asked: "is the gas all right?"

"Yes, the gas is okay," Reeves replied.

The cops left. The bandit followed them, waved goodbye to Reeves from the doorway and disappeared.

Reeves then telephoned the police — he was still out $25.

"He told me his name too," Reeves said, "but I forgot it."

Steel Company Exec Calls For More Support

NEW YORK (AP)—A top steel company executive Thursday appealed to the striking United Steelworkers Union to adopt a more cooperative attitude in support of the industry's gains.

J. L. Mauthe, board chairman of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., urged the union to recognize the desirability of the industry's financial strength, rather than attacking its record profits.

In a statement prepared for delivery on his company's weekly television program over station WKBN in Youngstown, Ohio, Mauthe agreed with the union that industry profits for the year's first half were the highest in history.

"We believe, however, that instead of continuing these attacks on the steel industry for earning these profits, the leaders of the union should join with management in recognizing the desirability and the absolute necessity for adequate profits," he added.

Mauthe, a member of Big Steel's coordinating committee, gave no indication that the 12 major steel firms affected by the five-week strike have modified their stand against any wage increase.

In Forrest Park, Pa., the AFL-CIO Executive Council adopted a resolution dedicating its 1959 Labor Day celebration Sept. 7 to sympathy and support for steel strikers

The resolution said the strike "has been forced upon the steelworkers and the American people and its outcome will affect the lives of every American who works for wages or salary."

Funds Added For Building

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee added more than 143 million dollars Thursday to a House-passed bill to pay for hundreds of military construction projects in the United States and overseas.

The group added millions of dollars to build 86 more armories for Army National Guardsmen in 30 states, to give the Air Force additional shops and machines to test and repair jet fighters and bombers, and to construct 10 additional military hospitals in this country.

The Senate agreed to take up the measure Friday. It contains $1,428,178,700, $143,176,000 more than the House allowed, 24 million dollars above last year's total but still 135 million below President Eisenhower's budget requests.

All of the armed services won increases from the Senate group but their reserve units received even more generous treatment.

The Senate committee boosted House allowances for the Army Reserve, Naval Reserve, Air Force Reserve and Air National Guard to the full budget requests.

And for the Army National Guard it added $12,219,000, or more than double the budget request. The House figure was 11 million dollars.

Batista Arrives In Portugal On Way To Home

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Fulgencio Batista, Cuba's ousted president, arrived Thursday en route to a new home in exile and put up at a swank hotel. He was guarded by swarms of police.

The chartered plane carrying the well-heeled ex-army sergeant and his party of 17 flew in from the Dominican Republic, where Batista has an uneasy exile since his fall last Jan. 1.

The dark, stocky little man who once ruled Cuba with an iron hand is expected to spend a few days in Lisbon before proceeding to his new home in exile in the Madeira Islands of Portugal.

Nash Slated To Die Tonight

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—One of the coldest killers California has ever known is scheduled to die here at 10 a.m. Friday.

Hard-eyed, tough-talking Stephen Nash, 36, goes to the gas chamber for two Southern California killings. He brags that he has killed at least 11 persons, and officers believe him.

Kicked around since infancy, ruled legally sane by court-pointed psychiatrists, Nash has stirred up wide controversy. Nash laughs as he describes the killings.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown, a personal foe of capital punishment, was amazed by Nash's long history of offenses, but refused clemency.

"I am concerned," said Brown, "that our laws allow a man as obviously dangerous as Nash to be released and to escape further restraint simply because we lack adequate controls."

The governor asked that a committee be appointed to study suggestions for revising California's legal definition of insanity.

Superior Court Judge H. Burton Nobe, sentenced Nash to die, after a Los Angeles jury convicted him in February, 1957, for murdering 10-year-old Larry Rice of Santa Monica and John Berg, 26, of Long Beach. Both had been stabbed to death. The boy's body was found under a pier. The body of Berg, a hairdresser, was found in his apartment.

Nash, who admitted being a homosexual, said sex was involved in all of his crimes.

Court Reviews Slayer's Appeal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—The Ohio Supreme Court had under consideration Thursday an appeal by condemned slayer Lewis Niday, 30, of Belpre. The high court granted Niday an indefinite stay of execution, delaying his scheduled death on Sept. 11.

Niday was convicted last October at Marietta in the slaying of Florence Cowdery of Marietta. Twice before he had received stays.

The Supreme Court granted the stay pending study of his appeal.

Vote-Swapping Criticized By AFL-CIO Heads

FOREST PARK, Pa. (AP)—The AFL-CIO's high command said Thursday Southern Democrats and Northern Republicans in Congress engaged in cynical vote-swapping to pass strict labor controls and kill off civil rights legislation.

George Meany, federation president, said he had no direct evidence of any such deal but he and other AFL-CIO chiefs feel sure there is one.

"We studied the roll call that put over the harsh labor control bill last week and we know such a coalition exists, he commented. "We jumped to our conclusions. Let 'em sue us."

Meany's reference was to the vote by which the House last week approved a labor control bill sponsored by Reps. Phil M. Landrum (D-Ga) and Robert P. Griffin (R-Mich) and backed by the Eisenhower administration. The AFL-CIO has termed it an anti-union measure.

Senate and House conferees in Washington now are trying to resolve differences between the Landrum-Griffin bill and one passed earlier by the Senate. The AFL-CIO also opposes the Senate bill with less vehemence.

The AFL-CIO Executive Council adopted a resolution charging a deal to pass stiff labor control and at the same time kill off any meaningful civil rights legislation this year.

Voting Heavy In Memphis City Election

MEMPHIS (UPI)—Negro voting was heavy but the balloting was slow city-wide Thursday in Memphis' municipal elections, featuring a bid by Negroes to capture major city offices here for the first time since reconstruction.

There was a lengthy ballot with 42 candidates vying for 14 offices. Although voting machines were in use, there were long lines of voters waiting at many of the city's 143 precincts.

The polls close at 9:30 p.m. and officials said anyone waiting in line at the time the polls closed would be allowed to vote. Thus delay in counting was indicated.

Campaigning was intense on behalf of five Negro candidates, and Memphis — long the stronghold of a dominant political organization of the late E. H. Crump—faced the situation of an overcrowded field of white candidates opposed by a bloc-voting Negro minority.

Interest was centered on a bid by Negro attorney Russell Sugarmon Jr., 30, to win election as city public works commissioner. He was the only Negro on a list of six candidates and observers conceded him a strong chance.

There were appeals by many Memphis political and civic leaders for the white candidates in the race to thin their ranks. Only one withdrew, however, and too late to get his name off the ballot.

Negroes, making up a third of the population of this mid south cotton capital, held all-night prayer meetings Wednesday night to climax fervent campaigns on behalf of their candidates. One other Negro, the Rev. Ben L. Hooks, was conceded a good chance of election as juvenile court judge. He was the only Negro in a field of five.

There were 57,109 registered Negro voters in the city total registration of 187,541. Observers predicted a record 100,000 vote turnout.

Friday is the bachelor princess' 29th birthday.

She plans to spend Friday at Balmoral Castle in Scotland.

Jet Fighter Takes Off In Distance Of An Inch

ANDREWS AIR FORCE BASE, Md. (AP) — A jet fighter was blasted into flight in a takeoff distance of less than one inch in a successful trial of operation from an atomic blast-proof shelter, the Air Force announced Thursday.

The Air Research and Development Command said the test proved that aircraft close to enemy territory can be protected against sneak attack and still be ready for an instantaneous counterpunch.

The Supersonic F100 was launched from a cavelike concrete and steel structure at the Air Force missile development center at Holloman Air Force Base near Alamagordo, N.M.

The takeoff run of less than an inch represented the distance the plane moved before actual disengagement of restraining lugs that held it down while pressure was built up by a rocket booster. Upon disengagement of the lugs, the plane was in flight. In four seconds it was making 275 miles an hour. Soon it was flying faster than sound—762 miles an hour at sea level.

A major purpose of the trial was to determine whether pressures, heat and exhaust gases could be handled in such a protective structure.

The pilot was Al Blackburn of North American.

Discoverer VI Cone Ejected Successfully

Planes And Ships Fail To Pick Up Its Radio Signals

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — The Air Force failed Thursday to recover a 300-pound capsule ejected from the Discoverer VI satellite high above the earth.

Two previous recovery tries in earlier discoverer satellite shots also failed.

The Defense Department said the capsule from Discoverer VI was successfully ejected as scheduled over the Pacific at 6:27 p.m. e.d.t. but that a fleet of planes and ships waiting to retrieve it as it parachuted down failed to sight it visually or pick up its radio signals.

"Therefore it is unlikely that the capsule will be recovered although the search will be continued for a number of hours," the department statement, released in Washington, said.

Would Have Been First

Successful recovery would have been a space-age first and a step in the program to return a man safely from his eventual first flight into space.

The capsule was to have fallen into a 10,000 square mile area of the Pacific 700 miles southwest of Hawaii.

Eight C 119 cargo planes, trailing trapeze-like devices, had been poised ready to try to grab the falling sphere out of the air.

Failing that, ships were prepared to pluck it out of the sea.

Thursday's failure was similar to one only eight days ago. On that occasion a capsule of the same weight was ejected from Discoverer V, but planes and ships failed to see it or hear its signals.

On an earlier Discoverer shot, the capsule was ejected too soon because of the failure of a timing mechanism. It failed to fall in the target area.

In North-South Orbit

The latest recovery failures tended to distract attention from Air Force success in putting two 1,700-pound satellites, the heaviest the U. S. has launched into orbit within one week.

Discoverer VI was launched Wednesday and went into a north-south polar orbit that takes it within 138 miles of earth at its closest point and 537 miles away at its fartherest point.

It is expected to remain aloft about a month.

Halsey Given Hero's Burial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fleet Adm. William F. Halsey was given a hero's burial in Arlington National Cemetery Thursday.

Old comrades from the Pacific campaigns of World War II, high government officials and hundreds of others attended the burial rites in Arlington after Episcopal funeral services at Washington Cathedral.

As the admiral's casket was carried up a winding drive in the cemetery by a horse-drawn gun caisson a flight of Navy jet fighters thundered above the funeral party in farewell salute to the man whose carrier planes beat the best Japanese sea and land-based aviation.

Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson, former Navy secretary, was in the funeral party, together with Deputy Secretary of Defense Thomas Gates, also a former civilian head of the Navy.

At the graveside, too, was the last survivor of the group of four fleet admirals, of five-star rank, appointed during the war, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, the wartime Pacific commander in chief, white haired but trim and erect, was there to say goodby to "Bull Halsey."

The 76-year-old Halsey was found dead Sunday morning at Fishers Island, N.Y., the victim of a heart attack.

Draper Report Calls For Stepup In Arms Spending

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's special committee on arms aid called anew Thursday for a big stepup in appropriations to equip America's allies with modern weapons.

The final report by a 10-man group of prominent citizens headed by investment banker William H. Draper Jr. ran counter to congressional foreign aid cuts and administration desires to hold down spending.

But Eisenhower, sending the unanimous report on to Congress with praise for its invaluable guide lines, agreed that funds authorized for military assistance this year are at what he calls a "dangerously low level."

Congressional informants said the administration has indicated it will seek a supplemental aid appropriation in January. Eisenhower said a variety of other Draper recommendations for strengthening the program will be studied by the administration before it decides what to do about them.

Eisenhower asked Congress for $1,600,000,000 in military aid this year. The legislators are in the process of chopping this down by 200 or 300 million dollars.

The Senate Appropriations Committee, at a hearing Thursday on the foreign aid program, heard it attacked as unconstitutional and contrary to the wishes of the great majority of Americans.

The criticism came from Clarence Manion of South Bend, Ind., former dean of the Notre Dame law school, and Walter Harnischfeger of Milwaukee, chairman of the Citizens Foreign Aid Committee.

Manion, who is counsel for the citizens committee, contended that an antiforeign aid candidate for president next year would sweep the country.

He and Harnischfeger testified against Eisenhower's over-all foreign aid program of 3½ billion dollars, which includes economic as well as arms aid.

The Draper committee set two billion dollars as the least needed for arms aid alone to keep the free world strong.

Rebellious College Grads Have No Respect For Country, General Says

EDGEWOOD, Md. (AP)—Some of the Army's soldier-scientists are in hot water again because their parents didn't teach them decent respect for their country. And neither did the schools and colleges they attended.

That, in effect, is how the commander of the strategic Army Chemical Center here sizes up the latest flareup by the young college grads against Army life.

About 60 of the drafted specialists kicked over the traces at a tavern near this hush-hush base last Thursday night. To put it mildly, they let everyone within range of a howitzer know they were fed up with being dogfaces.

One of the songs they sang, "Down with the Army," was one of the more tepid tunes they rendered between steins.

"Somewhere along the line," declared Brig. Gen. Harold Walmsley, base commander, "American parents and educational systems have failed to instill in these men an appreciation for their heritage and the desire to perform duties for their country."

He went on to say the outburst "has its origins in a lack of proper home training and home discipline into the higher education system."

Apparently Gen. Walmsley intends to give them some of that background before they leave.

Today he had all 400 of the base's well-schooled G.I.'s — formally called enlisted scientific and professional personnel (ESPP's)—out in parade formation.

The base's legal officer soberly reviewed the Army's code of military discipline. Then he asked that those who took part in the fling remain.

Two stayed. They were Specialist 4c Joseph A. Macaluso, Bronx, N.Y., and Pfc. Christopher W. Dungan, Marietta, Ohio.

Capt. Walter C. Norris, Edgewood public information said Dungan remained merely to ask "a legal question about a personal matter unrelated to the investigation" but Macaluso admitted being at the party. He said Macaluso refused to discuss the case with reporters.

About two hours after the formation broke up, Norris said, four more soldiers reported to officers and admitted they were at the party. All asked that their names be withheld and the request will be granted, at least until the filing of any charges, he said.

The Army did not say immediately what they said during the interrogation that came next.

Word Goes Out, Bonn To Lay It On For Ike

BONN, Germany (AP) — The word has gone out from Chancellor Konrad Adenauer: Lay it on for Ike.

And that means that President Eisenhower is going to get an especially warm welcome on his visit to West Germany next week.

They're letting the kids out of school. Factories and businesses are giving workers time off to join in the festivities.

Eisenhower is due here from Washington at 6:30 p.m. next Wednesday. He expects — if the proper kind of car can be found —to stand up in and wave and chat with the crowds.

He'll be traveling through some very narrow streets in and around this overgrown university town and that means the crowds frequently will be close enough for handshaking.

Chances are almost all of Bonn's 150,000 people will be out on the streets, along with thousands from nearby communities.

Eisenhower's visit here is bound to be a good deal different from his subsequent appearances in London and Paris. Those are big cities and can absorb easily the tumult.

Natural Resource Policy Change Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democratic Advisory Council called Thursday for new policies and programs in natural resource development and management. It urged greater emphasis on public power and new vigor on federal projects generally.

The council criticized Republican activity in this field as spineless.

"The time calls for a comprehensive breakthrough in our natural resource policies and programs, but President Eisenhower has given us something much closer to a comprehensive breakdown," it said.

If you wish to speak effectively, make sure your voice is pleasant!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Toward Voice Improvement

Few persons will take the trouble to find out whether what you say is interesting, or whether you are, if your voice is allowed to fall into uncharming habits. Today's wonders of communication have made people so voice conscious that when listeners are more aware of a peculiarity of delivery than of the thought expressed, that voice must be regarded as an actual handicap.

In your social life and in your business life, every time you speak you are being rated up or rated down by those who hear you, and your voice is a primary factor in the degree of success that you attain. If your ideas and reactions are not presented via an attractive voice, you are turning a key on your personality and shutting it up in a dark closet.

Many women are entirely unconscious of the effect their voice has on others. Since every woman wishes to be interesting to her family and friends, it is worth considerable effort to cultivate the voice characteristics that are an asset and to eliminate those that are a handicap. The following three steps will help you accomplish this purpose.

1. Jot down three pleasing qualities in voices you admire.

2. List three unpleasant qualities you hear in voices you consider unattractive.

3. Start consciously listening to your own voice. Can you spot any of the unpleasant qualities you listed? Can you hear the pleasant qualities you jotted down?

A good speaking voice is one that is easily understood, unaffected, harmonious and effective. If you will invest the same determination you have shown in perfecting your appearance to perfecting your voice, you will have taken a most important step toward a healthy self-confidence in your ability to earn the cherished title of "interesting."

Two Girls Arrested After 100 M.P.H. Auto Chase

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two 16-year-old Brooklyn, N.Y. girls, arrested after a 100 m.p.h. chase through city streets, were held for Connecticut police Thursday on charges of automobile theft.

Police identified them as Marie Vecchil of 602 Ocean Parkway Ave. and Victoria Ann Bayer of 2614 Ocean Parkway Ave. Lt. Philip M. Germack of the detective bureau said they earlier had given false names and addresses.

Germack said the girls were wanted in Windsor Locks, Conn. for larceny of an automobile registered to John J. Murphy of Third Street in Windsor Locks. The car was taken on Aug. 17th.

The girls were arrested here late yesterday after running through several red lights on U.S. 40. Patrolman Bernard Thanner said the car sideswiped three other cars at one intersection and stopped only after he had fired warning shots.

The girls told Thanner they had left home at 9 a.m. yesterday to hitchhike to Virginia and that they bought the car from a man here for $5.

They at first identified themselves as Jean Sprague of 1415 East 18th St. and Sophia Spano 2318 Avenue R. in Brooklyn. However, New York police checking the addresses notified Baltimore officers they were false.

They then identified themselves as Marie Vecchil and Victoria Ann Bayer, Germack said. He said he expected Connecticut officers to arrive for them Friday.

Sharks Seen In Bay Waters

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Tidewater Fisheries Commission Thursday alerted patrol boats north of the bay bridge to look for two sharks reported in Chesapeake Bay.

Mrs. Mae Brown of Baltimore told the Coast Guard she saw the sharks from her cabin cruiser. She said she spotted them near the middle of the bay, south of Baltimore Light and off Gibson Island in Anne Arundel County.

Coast Guard officials said they notified the TFC because the sharks were reported "somewhat near public beaches."

Mrs. Brown said the sharks were about eight feet long and swimming together. She said they dove once then surfaced close enough for her to get a good look at them.

Last month a commercial fisherman caught two seven-foot bull sharks in the bay, about a mile off Broadwater Creek in southern Anne Arundel County. Warren W. Hazard of Galesville landed the sharks in a pound net on successive days.

Murder Charge Put Against Motherwell

DOWNIEVILLE, Calif. (AP)—A murder charge was sworn out Thursday against ex-convict Larry Lord Motherwell, 42, accusing him of murdering wealthy Mrs. Pearl Ada Putney of Washington, D.C.

Bleached bones of the 72-year-old widow were found Sunday in the woods near Downieville, a year and a day after she vanished on a cross-country "last fling" with Motherwell.

Sierra County Dist. Atty. Gordon L. Smith swore out the complaint.

He did so although he wasn't sure where Mrs. Putney was killed and had no direct evidence that she was murdered. Smith acted after conferring with the state's Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation.

Smith said Motherwell a former construction worker, was the last person seen with Mrs. Putney, when they registered at a motel in Marysville, Calif., Aug. 15, 1958.

Mrs. Putney was believed to have had some $50,000 in cash and securities when the pair left Washington, D.C., six weeks earlier.

When arersted Jan. 18 in Las Vegas, Nev., Motherwell was carrying $1,600 cash and driving a new station wagon. He said he had driven Mrs. Putney to California Aug. 16 and left her there to marry another man. He claimed that was the last he saw of her, and that the money he had was pay for chauffering her across the country.

Motherwell was taken to Frederick, Md., for questioning in the death of his 14-month-old daughter, who was mentally retarded. Investigators uncovered remains of the girl in a dog cemetery.

They concluded Motherwell buried them there June 19, 1954, and told an inquisitive neighbor he was burying the body of a prized dog.

Police said the mongoloid baby strangled to death in Motherwell's apartment at Frederick after she had been fed. Motherwell admitted he intentionally allowed the subnormal baby to suffocate.

However, a grand jury failed to indict Motherwell.

When he left Frederick last February he was with his third wife and their two-year-old daughter.

The second wife drowned in a bath tub in Washington in 1953 and the death certificate listed it as accidental.

SALISBURY (AP) — Members of two Salisbury families were on their way home today after spending a terrifying night in Yellowstone National Park during this week's earthquakes.

The next day, Mrs. Shockley notified relatives here that they were safe and sound but that "the earth is still rumbling" and they weren't sure how they would get out. She said all of them were "scared to death."

She said she woke up to find rocks falling and the earth shaking. The rocks covered most of the roads.

Later, a call from Whayland informed relatives that the party of 10 had managed to leave the park safely and were heading home.

Fisherman's Body Found In Bay

DEALE, Md. (AP) — The body of a College Park, Md., man whose boat was found adrift in Chesapeake Bay Wednesday was recovered Thursday at the mouth of Parker Creek.

Anne Arundel County police identified him as Melvin N. Woods, 43, who resided in a trailer court at College Park.

His body was spotted about 9 a.m. by Sgt. Robert E. Zipp, a drummer with the U.S. Army Band of Ft. Myer, Va., while out fishing, police said. Zipp lives in Alexandria, Va.

A boat which Woods had rented from a waterman at Deale about 6 a.m. Wednesday was found adrift that afternoon.

Police said the 16-foot outboard motor boat contained fishing rods, Woods' watch in a tackle box, and some fish in a portable icebox.

Police speculated he may have fallen overboard or drowned while swimming.

The body was sent to the Baltimore morgue for an autopsy to determine the cause of death.

U.S. Having Political Experiment

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst

The United States is going through a political experiment with a so-called lame duck president which shows strong signs of turning out differently from what had been widely expected.

Heretofore presidents near the end of their second terms—with the exception of Franklin D. Roosevelt, who broke the third-term tradition—were considered to have reached the end of the road, with consequently reduced effectiveness in maneuvering with Congress.

A president like Calvin Coolidge, who did not choose to run for a second election after serving part of two terms because of Warren G. Harding's death in office, suffered losses in both political and administrative power.

The same thing was expected to happen to Eisenhower because of the new amendment prohibiting third terms, making his retirement something fixed long in advance. Democratic control of Congress was expected to contribute to an ineffective last year or two.

Instead, deprived of his chief of staff position by the death of John Foster Dulles and political elimination of Sherman Adams, two upon whom he chiefly relied, Eisenhower has begun running with the ball himself.

He has very definitely taken the initiative in foreign affairs.

He once was accused by his own party leaders of asking for domestic legislation and then forgetting about it, leaving to them the thankless task of pursuing what frequently were unhappy issues.

Now he personally pursues, with leaders of the Democratic opposition frequently helping him.

The White House seems to have lost a large part of the corporate entity with which it was endowed for Eisenhower's first six years. Nowadays it's not what the White House says, but what the President says. He has even gone so far as to brief the press on his attitude on a wide range of subjects in order that policies may be recognized as those of the President instead of just being products of an administration.

Only recently he has again proved his power of the veto.

Prior to the recent demonstration of Eisenhower individuality and effectiveness, there had been considerable conjecture that the anti-third term amendment would be repealed to avoid a period of impotency in the presidency.

Now this talk, or at least some of it, is beginning to give way to the consideration that perhaps a president, with no place to go except into history, will acquire new independence and display powerful leadership in a final effort to make that place what he wants it to be.

Bank Manager Arrested

KARLSRUHE, Germany (UPI)—Bank manager Hans Proesch and his wife, Else, supposedly refugees from Communist East Germany since 1955, were arrested Thursday on charges of directing a Red spy ring from the bank.

Clergy Hopes Council Will Serve Unity

RHODES (AP)—Leading Protestant and orthodox churchmen said Wednesday they hope and pray the Roman Catholic ecumenical council called by Pope John XXIII will serve Christian unity according to the will of Christ.

The Executive Committee of the World Council of Churches—bringing together 171 Protestant, orthodox and other churches, with a following estimated at 180 million—touched briefly on relations with the Roman Catholic Church in its report to the Central Committee of the World Council.

The Central Committee—a 90-member policy-making body—opened its annual nine-day meeting here. The 14-member Executive Committee met the past two days in Athens.

In its report, the Executive Committee said of the Pope's ecumenical council plan:

"As leaders of a movement which stands for church unity, we cannot be indifferent to an event which affects so large a number of Christians and which cannot avoid having a bearing on relations among the several churches. We hope and pray that bearing will be of a constructive nature and that it will serve the cause of unity according to the will of Christ."

Its statement said initial reports about the Roman council were not correct in saying that churches other than the Roman Catholic might be invited. The Executive Committee of the largely Protestant World Council added that it has been emphasized in Rome that the Pope's council would be a gathering of Roman Catholic bishops.

A Vatican preparatory commission has been given the task of deciding whether to invite non-Roman churches to the gathering, the date for which has not been fixed. The Pope has said only that the council would be an invitation to unity.

Socialist British Will Back Red China Bid

By HUGH WATERFIELD
United Press International

LONDON (UPI)—If a Socialist government should come to power in the British general election expected to take place in October, it will press for the admittance of Red China into the United Nations.

David Ennals, a Labor Party spokesman, professional party worker and foreign affairs specialist, said the Socialists regard this step as essential to ensure Chinese compliance with agreements to ban nuclear tests and weapons.

He said the Socialists are confident that a determined British campaign for Communist China's admission to the U. N. would win the support of a two-thirds majority in the General Assembly. He doubted whether the United States would use its veto in the Security Council to block this.

He also doubted whether the United States, even if it wanted to, would have a legal right to veto the admission of Communist China against a two-thirds majority of the assembly.

Ennals said in an interview he thought the question of Communist China's admission to the United Nations could be decided by the General Assembly's credentials committee.

With the support of a two-thirds majority in the assembly, he reasoned, the committee would have power to declare delegates from the mainland—and not those from Formosa—to be the representatives of China in the world body.

The British Labor Party has long been on record as regarding the exclusion of the Red Chinese from the U. N. as unrealistic.

The Conservative government of Harold Macmillan probably feels much the same in private, but it would never say it in public.

The British recognize the Chinese Reds. They have a legation in Peiping. They conduct trade with them. But the Conservatives would not buck the United States so much as to open a bid now to get the Communists into the United Nations.

A Socialist government, however, would feel less inhibited.

U.S. Having Political Experiment

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

The United States is going through a political experiment with a so-called lame duck president which shows strong signs of turning out differently from what had been widely expected.

Heretofore presidents near the end of their second terms—with the exception of Franklin D. Roosevelt, who broke the third-term tradition—were considered to have reached the end of the road, with consequently reduced effectiveness in maneuvering with Congress.

A president like Calvin Coolidge, who did not choose to run for a second election after serving part of two terms because of Warren G. Harding's death in office, suffered losses in both political and administrative power.

The same thing was expected to happen to Eisenhower because of the new amendment prohibiting third terms, making his retirement something fixed long in advance. Democratic control of Congress was expected to contribute to an ineffective last year or two.

Instead, deprived of his chief of staff position by the death of John Foster Dulles and political elimination of Sherman Adams, two upon whom he chiefly relied, Eisenhower has begun running with the ball himself.

He has very definitely taken the initiative in foreign affairs.

He once was accused by his own party leaders of asking for domestic legislation and then forgetting about it, leaving to them the thankless task of pursuing what frequently were unhappy issues.

Now he personally pursues, with leaders of the Democratic opposition frequently helping him.

The White House seems to have lost a large part of the corporate entity with which it was endowed for Eisenhower's first six years. Nowadays it's not what the White House says, but what the President says. He has even gone so far as to brief the press on his attitude on a wide range of subjects in order that policies may be recognized as those of the President instead of just being products of an administration.

Only recently he has again proved his power of the veto.

Prior to the recent demonstration of Eisenhower individuality and effectiveness, there had been considerable conjecture that the anti-third term amendment would be repealed to avoid a period of impotency in the presidency.

Now this talk, or at least some of it, is beginning to give way to the consideration that perhaps a president, with no place to go except into history, will acquire new independence and display powerful leadership in a final effort to make that place what he wants it to be.

Clergy Hopes Council Will Serve Unity

RHODES (AP)—Leading Protestant and orthodox churchmen said Wednesday they hope and pray the Roman Catholic ecumenical council called by Pope John XXIII will serve Christian unity according to the will of Christ.

The Executive Committee of the World Council of Churches—bringing together 171 Protestant, orthodox and other churches, with a following estimated at 180 million—touched briefly on relations with the Roman Catholic Church in its report to the Central Committee of the World Council.

The Central Committee—a 90-member policy-making body—opened its annual nine-day meeting here. The 14-member Executive Committee met the past two days in Athens.

In its report, the Executive Committee said of the Pope's ecumenical council plan:

"As leaders of a movement which stands for church unity, we cannot be indifferent to an event which affects so large a number of Christians and which cannot avoid having a bearing on relations among the several churches. We hope and pray that bearing will be of a constructive nature and that it will serve the cause of unity according to the will of Christ."

Europe's Major Cities Are On The Way Up Architecturally

By RONALD THOMSON

LONDON (AP) — Europe's major cities are on the way up.

Something of a revolution in business architecture is under way in this old continent, with its sprawling towns and cities. And the influence is straight from the new world.

Architects are suddenly entranced with a vision of tall office and apartment blocks jutting dramatically toward the skies among the pygmy structures all around.

Their ideas, born out of cramped space and high-priced land, will transform the low-lying city silhouettes favored by generations of European architects and town planners.

A strong rearguard action is being fought all over the continent by old school architects who talk testily of skyscraper jungles despoiling the traditional urban scene.

But skyscraper — in the American sense, at least—is too overdrawn to describe most of the new office and apartment buildings. Most are being designed in the 10-story range.

One of them really will be a giant, however, although it's still in the planning stage in Paris. The 52-story project, approved after much soul-searching and opposition, will pierce the skyline of the French capital to half the height of the 1,000-foot Eiffel Tower.

Shell Petroleum began work last year on building a new international headquarters with a tower block 330 feet high overlooking the Thames. That will be only 40 feet lower than the cross atop St. Paul's Cathedral, a mile away across the river.

Approval in principle has been given for a London financier's scheme to build a hotel in Park Lane, the very heart of fashionable Mayfair, with a tower block around 350 feet high.

In Paris, too, a 20-story apartment building is nearing completion. Plans have been drawn for a 40-story office and hotel tower west of the city in a new area being prepared for conventions and expositions.

A new city for about 20,000 residents is to be built at Courneuve, with a 31-story apartment block surrounded by a dozen smaller towers. Many similar projects dot the map of France.

Over the border in Italy the skyline of the bustling industrial city of Milan has drastically altered since the end of World War II, with several buildings more than 10 stories tall.

Milan's new Pirelli Tower, 31 stories and 360 feet above ground, is claimed to be Europe's highest reinforced concrete building.

In both Paris and London, authorities long have limited the height of most buildings to about 10 stories. Special permission is needed to go higher. Three-quarters of London's buildings are four stories or less in height.

Europe finally has caught up with the skyscraper age. Its cities never will be quite the same again.

Oil Company Counsel Spanks Political Plan

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rarely does one segment of the oil industry spank another publicly. Differences usually are kept "within the family" for the good of public relations.

But general counsel Russell B. Brown of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, representing thousands of domestic oil and natural gas producers, chose the harsher course. His target was Gulf Oil Corp., of Pittsburgh, one of the nation's biggest integrated companies.

In a letter to IPAA members, Brown challenged the philosophy behind Gulf's plan to participate actively in politics, but not the plan itself.

Gulf announced the plan—titled "a political program for Gulf Oil Corporation" — last September. It argued that every industry, and oil in particular, owed it to itself to compete with labor and other voting elements in electric candidates dedicated to programs which they found acceptable.

Brown commented that at the outset many in the industry were encouraged by Gulf's objective and recognized that such activity is "a right, privilege and duty of every citizen." But now, he wrote, "the program, as spelled out by Gulf in its official publication, The Orange Disc, is alarming."

Gulf Position Summarized

He quoted from Gulf's background statement on why the political program was set up.

Summed up, Gulf warned against "creeping federal encroachment"; asserted that oil imports from its overseas holdings "had been arbitrarily curtailed by administrative decree"; assailed members of Congress who have tried repeatedly to cut the industry's 27½ per cent assets depletion income tax allowance; charged it had been brought into court by one branch of the government for doing what another branch had specifically requested it to do; and finally, that coongressional committees, after taking testimony from company officers at great expense and loss of time, "have distorted, decimated or discarded" facts and sworn testimony to make way for "fiction that tends to put the witness and his company in the worst possible light."

Gulf announced in connection with the program that it would establish regional political supervisors to make legislative contacts and gather information which would be sent to a Washington representative who, at the appropriate time, "would produce evidence of real grassroots support for a particular legislative action."

In addition, Dossiers would be kept on congressmen from states where Gulf has interests, along with their voting records and data that would "assist Gulf's people in obtaining a more complete understanding of their elected representatives."

Did Not Dispute Right

Brown did not dispute Gulf's right to take issue with Congress and government agencies but he said its charges "constitute a blanket indictment of our government."

"Nowhere in the program," he wrote, "is there any recognition of the many sound national oil policies adopted after careful study. The program ignores the careful manner in which most congressional committees conduct their studies. These have provided the industry with ample opportunity to present its views.

"As to its objectives, the company makes the statement that its program will encompass everything that politically affects Gulf. It is significant that oil imports (which the IPAA waged a long fight to have reduced) is the first of only two specific issues to which the program refers."

In conclusion, Brown declared that Gulf's plan to keep tabs on congressmen "would invite resentment by Congress."

Tribal Wars Fought

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI) — Strong police patrols were reported Thursday to be putting down a flurry of tribal warfare in Uganda's wild northern frontier district of Karamoja. Fighting began after a Karamojong war party rustled four herds of cattle belonging to Jie tribesmen and kidnaped a Jie. Then Jie warriors killed four Karamojong while getting back the cattle. It was reported police had found the kidnaped Jie's severed head in the bushes and arrested eight Karamojong tribesmen.

Skirt Saves Life

VORDINGBORG, Denmark (UPI) — Police feverishly rowed out to drag for the body of a 40-year-old woman Wednesday after she jumped from a 100-foot bridge into the river. They found the woman swimming and uninjured. Witnesses said her full skirt acted as a parachute to break her fall.

Drivers Steal Sausages

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) —Police disclosed Thursday that 20,000 hot sausages sold in Frankfurt during the past two years were hotter than the customers thought. The sausages were stolen by seven truck drivers employed by a local firm and sold privately, police said.

Prison, School May Be Neighbors

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Frederick County legislator expressed concern Wednesday that poor planning might make next door neighbors of an elementary school and a state prison.

Del. Mathias (R - Frederick) raised the question in a letter to Gov. Tawes.

Mathias pointed out that plans for the elementary school in eastern Frederick County already are far advanced, and that the Department of Correction is negotiating to take an option on land only one-quarter of a mile away.

The prison site—if plans go through—is a 300-acre tract on Route 75 between Liberty Road and U.S. 40. What kind of an institution would go up there is not definite, but the Board of Correction last week approved plans to take up the option.

Mathias said in his letter he questioned neither the need nor the sites chosen for each institution. But he wondered about putting them only a relatively short distance away from one another.

Oil Company Counsel Spanks Political Plan

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rarely does one segment of the oil industry spank another publicly. Differences usually are kept "within the family" for the good of public relations.

But general counsel Russell B. Brown of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, representing thousands of domestic oil and natural gas producers, chose the harsher course. His target was Gulf Oil Corp., of Pittsburgh, one of the nation's biggest integrated companies.

In a letter to IPAA members, Brown challenged the philosophy behind Gulf's plan to participate actively in politics, but not the plan itself.

Gulf announced the plan—titled "a political program for Gulf Oil Corporation" — last September. It argued that every industry, and oil in particular, owed it to itself to compete with labor and other voting elements in electric candidates dedicated to programs which they found acceptable.

Brown commented that at the outset many in the industry were encouraged by Gulf's objective and recognized that such activity is "a right, privilege and duty of every citizen." But now, he wrote, "the program, as spelled out by Gulf in its official publication, The Orange Disc, is alarming."

Gulf Position Summarized

He quoted from Gulf's background statement on why the political program was set up.

Summed up, Gulf warned against "creeping federal encroachment"; asserted that oil imports from its overseas holdings "had been arbitrarily curtailed by administrative decree"; assailed members of Congress who have tried repeatedly to cut the industry's 27½ per cent assets depletion income tax allowance; charged it had been brought into court by one branch of the government for doing what another branch had specifically requested it to do; and finally, that coongressional committees, after taking testimony from company officers at great expense and loss of time, "have distorted, decimated or discarded" facts and sworn testimony to make way for "fiction that tends to put the witness and his company in the worst possible light."

Gulf announced in connection with the program that it would establish regional political supervisors to make legislative contacts and gather information which would be sent to a Washington representative who, at the appropriate time, "would produce evidence of real grassroots support for a particular legislative action."

In addition, Dossiers would be kept on congressmen from states where Gulf has interests, along with their voting records and data that would "assist Gulf's people in obtaining a more complete understanding of their elected representatives."

Did Not Dispute Right

Brown did not dispute Gulf's right to take issue with Congress and government agencies but he said its charges "constitute a blanket indictment of our government."

"Nowhere in the program," he wrote, "is there any recognition of the many sound national oil policies adopted after careful study. The program ignores the careful manner in which most congressional committees conduct their studies. These have provided the industry with ample opportunity to present its views.

"As to its objectives, the company makes the statement that its program will encompass everything that politically affects Gulf. It is significant that oil imports (which the IPAA waged a long fight to have reduced) is the first of only two specific issues to which the program refers."

In conclusion, Brown declared that Gulf's plan to keep tabs on congressmen "would invite resentment by Congress."

Tribal Wars Fought

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI) — Strong police patrols were reported Thursday to be putting down a flurry of tribal warfare in Uganda's wild northern frontier district of Karamoja. Fighting began after a Karamojong war party rustled four herds of cattle belonging to Jie tribesmen and kidnaped a Jie. Then Jie warriors killed four Karamojong while getting back the cattle. It was reported police had found the kidnaped Jie's severed head in the bushes and arrested eight Karamojong tribesmen.

Skirt Saves Life

VORDINGBORG, Denmark (UPI) — Police feverishly rowed out to drag for the body of a 40-year-old woman Wednesday after she jumped from a 100-foot bridge into the river. They found the woman swimming and uninjured. Witnesses said her full skirt acted as a parachute to break her fall.

Drivers Steal Sausages

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) —Police disclosed Thursday that 20,000 hot sausages sold in Frankfurt during the past two years were hotter than the customers thought. The sausages were stolen by seven truck drivers employed by a local firm and sold privately, police said.

Prison, School May Be Neighbors

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Frederick County legislator expressed concern Wednesday that poor planning might make next door neighbors of an elementary school and a state prison.

Del. Mathias (R - Frederick) raised the question in a letter to Gov. Tawes.

Mathias pointed out that plans for the elementary school in eastern Frederick County already are far advanced, and that the Department of Correction is negotiating to take an option on land only one-quarter of a mile away.

The prison site—if plans go through—is a 300-acre tract on Route 75 between Liberty Road and U.S. 40. What kind of an institution would go up there is not definite, but the Board of Correction last week approved plans to take up the option.

Mathias said in his letter he questioned neither the need nor the sites chosen for each institution. But he wondered about putting them only a relatively short distance away from one another.

Cooperative Housing Solution For Middle Income People

By EDWARD COWAN
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Enthusiasts think cooperative housing is one solution for middle income people whose income is too high for public housing but who cannot afford to meet regular mortgage payments.

For such people, co-op housing is said to be a way to secure shelter at modest monthly cost and at the same time acquire ownership.

The Cooperative League of the U. S. A. estimates that about 70,000 families in 38 states live in co-op housing projects.

But they represent a tiny portion of all middle income families, according to the league. It reports that families with incomes from $3,000 to $7,500 represent about half the nation's population of 177 million.

"These families are the backbone of America, but 11,300,000 (46 per cent) of them do not own their own homes," the league says. Many of them "simply cannot afford to buy a home at today's prices."

These families might be able to acquire home ownership if they pooled their resources in a cooperative venture, co-op supporters point out.

Most co-op housing has been built for more than one-family. But some single-family co - op projects have also been built.

In essence, co-op housing means that the occupants themselves have jointly arranged for the construction and financing of their dwelling. Thus, they eliminate what might be called the landlord's profit.

Co-op housing has been able to cut costs in another way—interest on mortgages. In 1950 the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) began insuring mortgages on co-op housing. It set maximum interest rates below generally prevailing market rates.

These rates are now 4½ per cent on rental co-op housing and 5 per cent on sales housing. A housing bill vetoed by President Eisenhower recently would have lifted these maximums to 5¼ and 5¾ per cent.

Co - op housing cuts monthly costs still further because the FHA allows repayment of co-op mortgages over 40 years. This is a longer repayment period than lenders' might accept on conventional loans. It lowers monthly payments. There is, however, the disadvantage that always attends long amortization of a mortgage—the borrower pays more in interest the longer he takes to repay the principal.

Housing and other co-op enterprises usually follow the rule that the venture's affairs are controlled by the members. Each member in a co-op project has one vote. In housing co-ops, a family counts as a member.

Another common practice, especially among housing co-ops, is to return to the members any money surplus that accrues if aggregate monthly payments exceed the project's expenses. The refund either takes the form of a lump sum or a reduction in future monthly charges.

Statue Coming Apart At Seams

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The lady statue of freedom at the top of the U.S. capitol dome got her first physical examination in nearly 100 years this week.

A workman found she was coming apart at the seams. Bronze straps will be used to girdle her.

City Workers Have Varied Reactions To First General Wage Increase Granted Since 1955

The wage boosts granted nearly all city employes at Wednesday's special session of the Mayor and Council have been greeted with varied reactions.

The reactions were in line with the "you are not going to make and friends" comment made by one city official as the Mayor and Council attempted to find the formula for the distribution of some $90,000 which is expected to be available when the Thruway bond issue is sold.

An "its better than nothing" attitude has been expressed in most instances, while others have said they would rather have not received their increases since they were small. Some few individuals received no increase and some were decreased.

The wage-setting order stipulated that the increases will become effective on the first of next month, which also has drawn the ire of individuals who claim the pay increases should have been retroactive to July 1.

The wage boosts were the first general increase made since 1955, although there have been scattered increases since then. The order was passed unanimously, with only Mrs. Lucile Roeder, finance commissioner, explaining her vote with a statement.

Mrs. Roeder, while casting her vote in approval of the salary increases, said she did so although not in agreement with the wage schedule in its entirety.

The finance commissioner said she felt more of an adjustment should have been made in the cases of various employes because of their job duties and tenure with the city. With but few exceptions, she continued, she felt the increases amounted to a flat across-the-board wage boost.

Mrs. Roeder said she also felt the new salary schedule was a step in the direction of a wage scale for municipal employes in which the job, duties and schedule of increases would be spelled out.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech reported he felt the pay increases were handled as fairly as possible. He pointed out that the employes benefitted from savings that were a direct result of a businesslike and economically run administration.

Each department head cut costs as much as was economically feasible, with the result that a considerable savings was on hand at the end of the past fiscal year, the mayor stated.

The increases were necessarily limited to the amount of money available, he continued, and this was distributed in as fair a manner as was possible.

He added that he felt the wage boosts were also a step toward a wage scale that would cover all city employes. This was concurred in by Water Commissioner G. Ray Light, who added that he felt the Council should work towards establishing a minimum and maximum wage for each job classification in the city government.

The Mayor and Council also adopted an order Wednesday placing six employes of the sewage treatment plant on an hourly-paid basis. This wa. done at the recommendation of Franklin J. Blaney, assistant city engineer-sanitary, who said the men would thus qualify for overtime-pay if called to the plant in emergencies.

The men affected were John G. Kreitzburg, Henry A. Wotring, Richard M. Johnson, Robert A. Wilson and Floyd E. Jenkins, all based on an hourly rate of $1.83, and Louis A. Rattini, $1.74 an hour.

High School Mechanics Program To Be Expanded

The vocational courses in auto mechanics and machinist training were so successful for the pilot group of 20 Allegany High School boys the program will be expanded during the school year that starts on Wednesday, September 9.

This was reported yesterday by J. D. Lonnholm, supervisor of vocational and adult education for the Allegany County Board of Education.

The program was started last year when the facilities at the Allegany Trade School on Paca Street became idle.

The trade school had been used for a number of years for veterans training in a Board of Education sponsored program.

But the last of the Korean war veterans were trained in 1958 and benefits ran out.

So the Board of Education decided to use the idle shops and a pilot group of 20 Allegany seniors started in on machine shop training last fall. In the second semester, they studied auto mechanics.

They would spend one half of the day at the trade school and then be transported by a small bus back to Allegany for related and required academic subjects.

The results exceeded the aim of the educators. Some of the boys in the class showed a marked advance in academic subjects.

Others remarked that the related trade mathematics now meant something to them. Before, it had not been as interesting.

During the auto mechanics session, one boy who would have dropped out of school, Lonnholm said, became so interested in the course that he remained to graduate. Since graduation, some have been employed in machine shops here.

So, armed with the evaluation of the program, Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster, Lonnholm and Dr. W. Ardell Haines, Allegany principal, last spring set up a class of 50 seniors for this year's program.

During the first semester, they will spend a half day at the trade school taking machine shop training, and during the second half, will take auto mechanics.

Besides required academic subjects such as English they will take related trade mathematics, blue print reading and shop sketching.

Wallace Walker will continue to be in charge of the trade school instruction, Lonnholm said.

Miss Creegan is a 1955 graduate of Ursuline Academy and Miss Parker graduated from Allegany High the same year.

City Workers Have Varied Reactions To First General Wage Increase Granted Since 1955

The wage boosts granted nearly all city employes at Wednesday's special session of the Mayor and Council have been greeted with varied reactions.

The reactions were in line with the "you are not going to make and friends" comment made by one city official as the Mayor and Council attempted to find the formula for the distribution of some $90,000 which is expected to be available when the Thruway bond issue is sold.

An "its better than nothing" attitude has been expressed in most instances, while others have said they would rather have not received their increases since they were small. Some few individuals received no increase and some were decreased.

The wage-setting order stipulated that the increases will become effective on the first of next month, which also has drawn the ire of individuals who claim the pay increases should have been retroactive to July 1.

The wage boosts were the first general increase made since 1955, although there have been scattered increases since then. The order was passed unanimously, with only Mrs. Lucile Roeder, finance commissioner, explaining her vote with a statement.

Mrs. Roeder, while casting her vote in approval of the salary increases, said she did so although not in agreement with the wage schedule in its entirety.

The finance commissioner said she felt more of an adjustment should have been made in the cases of various employes because of their job duties and tenure with the city. With but few exceptions, she continued, she felt the increases amounted to a flat across-the-board wage boost.

Mrs. Roeder said she also felt the new salary schedule was a step in the direction of a wage scale for municipal employes in which the job, duties and schedule of increases would be spelled out.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech reported he felt the pay increases were handled as fairly as possible. He pointed out that the employes benefitted from savings that were a direct result of a businesslike and economically run administration.

Each department head cut costs as much as was economically feasible, with the result that a considerable savings was on hand at the end of the past fiscal year, the mayor stated.

The increases were necessarily limited to the amount of money available, he continued, and this was distributed in as fair a manner as was possible.

He added that he felt the wage boosts were also a step toward a wage scale that would cover all city employes. This was concurred in by Water Commissioner G. Ray Light, who added that he felt the Council should work towards establishing a minimum and maximum wage for each job classification in the city government.

The Mayor and Council also adopted an order Wednesday placing six employes of the sewage treatment plant on an hourly-paid basis. This wa. done at the recommendation of Franklin J. Blaney, assistant city engineer-sanitary, who said the men would thus qualify for overtime-pay if called to the plant in emergencies.

The men affected were John G. Kreitzburg, Henry A. Wotring, Richard M. Johnson, Robert A. Wilson and Floyd E. Jenkins, all based on an hourly rate of $1.83, and Louis A. Rattini, $1.74 an hour.

High School Mechanics Program To Be Expanded

The vocational courses in auto mechanics and machinist training were so successful for the pilot group of 20 Allegany High School boys the program will be expanded during the school year that starts on Wednesday, September 9.

This was reported yesterday by J. D. Lonnholm, supervisor of vocational and adult education for the Allegany County Board of Education.

The program was started last year when the facilities at the Allegany Trade School on Paca Street became idle.

The trade school had been used for a number of years for veterans training in a Board of Education sponsored program.

But the last of the Korean war veterans were trained in 1958 and benefits ran out.

So the Board of Education decided to use the idle shops and a pilot group of 20 Allegany seniors started in on machine shop training last fall. In the second semester, they studied auto mechanics.

They would spend one half of the day at the trade school and then be transported by a small bus back to Allegany for related and required academic subjects.

The results exceeded the aim of the educators. Some of the boys in the class showed a marked advance in academic subjects.

Others remarked that the related trade mathematics now meant something to them. Before, it had not been as interesting.

During the auto mechanics session, one boy who would have dropped out of school, Lonnholm said, became so interested in the course that he remained to graduate. Since graduation, some have been employed in machine shops here.

So, armed with the evaluation of the program, Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster, Lonnholm and Dr. W. Ardell Haines, Allegany principal, last spring set up a class of 50 seniors for this year's program.

During the first semester, they will spend a half day at the trade school taking machine shop training, and during the second half, will take auto mechanics.

Besides required academic subjects such as English they will take related trade mathematics, blue print reading and shop sketching.

Wallace Walker will continue to be in charge of the trade school instruction, Lonnholm said.

Homemakers At The Fair

Urban Renewal Plan May Aid Keyser, Weirton

Gov. Underwood Cites Program

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Gov. Cecil H. Underwood said Wednesday that creation of the newly - formed state Economic Development Agency was instrumental in putting the state in position to start urban renewal planning programs.

He said demonstration of the agency's ability to carry out such programs has enabled the state to receive federal funds to carry out the projects in state communities.

"Communities in West Virginia now should be able to receive federal funds as fast as they themselves are in a position to request such and as fast as the federal government appropriates funds for the program," Underwood said.

The governor said he met in Philadelphia Tuesday with federal officials in the regional offices of the Home and Housing Finance Agency.

A check on long - standing urban renewal applications by Keyser and Weirton was one of the main reasons for the meeting, Underwood said. Both seek federal funds to initiate their programs.

Weirton would raise $19,600, to be matched by federal funds while Keyser would raise $5,500 to match government funds when they become available. He said $2,400 from the EDA also would be matched.

The governor said a total of $27,000 had been requested from the federal government to match an equal amount to be raised in the state for urban renewal programs.

Funds available for West Virginia cities for urban renewal programs will depend on the outcome of housing legislation now pending in congress, Underwood said.

But he added, "the basic ground work has been established. The federal government has been assured of the ability of the EDA to supervise such programs."

Lawrence H. Rogers, Huntington, chairman of the EDA, accompanied the governor to the Philadelphia meeting.

HELEN VIRGINIA PAULL

Miss Paull Is Named Princess

ELKINS—Miss Helen Virginia Paull, 18, of Wellsburg, a student at West Virginia University is one of 36 of the state's pretty young women who have been chosen to serve as princesses in the royal court of Queen Silvia XXII for the Mountain State Forest Festival to be held here October 1 to 4.

A graduate of Wellsburg High School, Miss Paull was a member of the school band, Tri-Hi-Y, Student Council, Chemistry Club, the Women's Athletic Association and was granted a Westminister Fellowship.

She attended Greenbrier College before enrolling in West Virginia University.

Miss Paull's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Paull of Wellsburg. He is a manufacturer.

Senator Herbert Traubert selected Miss Paull as a princess, and her appointment was announced by festival director-general, John P. Carr.

Westernport Council Considers Reservoir Work

WESTERNPORT—The quotation of $22,220 for placing a steel lining in the town reservoir from the Graver, Tank and Manufacturing Company of Pittsburgh, was considered at the regular meeting of Mayor Ray L. Wilt and Town Council Wednesday.

The letter also stated that necessary materials for the work could be shipped within six weeks and the work would be completed three weeks after arrival of the materials.

The mayor will contact the company for further information before sending the purchasing order to them, he said.

Council plans to charge for water meters to commercial customers who require a one-inch water meter or over. The town attorney, Horace P. Whitworth will be requested to prepare an amendment to the water ordinance to provide for this change.

Earl E. Riggleman, 39, of 115 Front Street, was appointed extra police officer, following the recommendation of Leo Herbert, police commissioner.

Riggleman, a former Celanese Corporation of America employe has served 15 years with the U.S. Air Force.

Curbs at intersections were ordered repainted red and the white lines for pedestrians will be renewed.

Mrs. Edna Roderick, Wood Street, complained of water running into her basement from rains.

Edwin Ross, Ross Street, recommended the road be capped with something permanent at upper end of Ross Street.

Robert Martin, inquired about securing water and sewer taps. Due to the fact he lives about 800 feet out of the corporation above the filtration system he would have the expense of pumping the water to his residence. He was assured that when he is ready for the taps he may secure them from the town.

A letter from several citizens, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Imperio, Mr. and Mrs. William Trenum, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy House Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Price, called attention to heavy trucks and equipment, plus other vehicles using First Street. There are deep holes and cuts in the road which fill with water after rains creating a nuisance to the neighborhood they complained.

Police Commissioner Herbert reported that three new tires had been purchased for the police cruiser.

Joins Her Son

WESTERNPORT—Mrs. Myrtle Youst, Maryland Avenue, moved to Mardela Springs, to make her home with her son, Rev. Donald Goff, who is pastor of the First Baptist Church, there.

Record Attendance Being Predicted For 78th Annual Maryland State Fair

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — Officials are confident that a new attendance record will be set during the 78th annual Maryland State Fair which opens here Monday, Aug. 31.

A spokesman for the 13-day fair predicts that the combination of demonstrations, judging, exhibits, flat racing and the midway will attract about 18,000 more customers than last year's record of 281,524.

This year, under Timonium's new president, Daniel B. Brewster, the fair will include nightly entertainment, parades, bands and a record number of entries in the livestock competition.

The prettiest miss from among 23 entries — one for each Maryland county — will be selected as the Maryland Farm Queen Monday night. The queen will carry her scepter at events throughout the two weeks of the fair.

One of her prizes will be a four-year scholarship to the University of Maryland. If she is ineligible to attend the university or for some reason does not wish to accept the scholarship, she will be awarded $200.

Contestants must be between 16 and 18 years old, single and from a farm family. In addition to appearance and personality, the winner must outscore her competitors in farm, home, organization and community activities.

The Farm Queen will be officially crowned Sept. 6 during the annual 4-H Parade at the fair.

A record number of entries have been listed in all categories for the two-week fair, including cattle, lamb, swine, poultry, horses and various home arts and farm and garden demonstrations.

More than $98,000 in prize money will be awarded to exhibitors in the livestock and farm products shows. Housewives and 4-H girls will compete in a series of demonstrations daily in the exhibition hall.

During the first week, the judges will select the best of 4-H and Future Farmers of America livestock, ponies, horsemanship and home arts. Open classes in all categories will be judged during the second week.

Gov. Tawes, making his first official visit to the fair, will be honored on Governor's Day, Sept. 10. The feature at the race track that day will be the Governor's Day Purse.

To top off the entertainment, there will be a midway with 25 rides and a "Kiddie Land."

Road Contracts Are Awarded

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Contracts for 17 West Virginia highway improvements projects have been awarded, State Road Commissioner Pat C. Graney said Wednesday.

Graney said bids were received Aug. 11 but contract awards were delayed because of a possible shortage of federal aid funds. But Graney said he now believed an agreement was near in Congress on the highway financing problem. Sixteen of the projects will be financed partly with federal funds.

The projects include two bridge jobs and some 67 miles of highway improvements in Cabell Clay, Grant, Jackson, Kanawha, Marshall, Ohio, Pocahontas, Preston, Putnam, Tucker and Wood.

Homemakers At The Fair

Typical of the demonstrations conducted at the Great Cumberland Fair by homemakers' clubs in the county was this scene yesterday at the rug-weaving demonstration of the Town Creek Homemakers Club. Record Attendance Being Predicted For 78th Annual Maryland State Fair

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — Officials are confident that a new attendance record will be set during the 78th annual Maryland State Fair which opens here Monday, Aug. 31.

A spokesman for the 13-day fair predicts that the combination of demonstrations, judging, exhibits, flat racing and the midway will attract about 18,000 more customers than last year's record of 281,524.

This year, under Timonium's new president, Daniel B. Brewster, the fair will include nightly entertainment, parades, bands and a record number of entries in the livestock competition.

The prettiest miss from among 23 entries — one for each Maryland county — will be selected as the Maryland Farm Queen Monday night. The queen will carry her scepter at events throughout the two weeks of the fair.

One of her prizes will be a four-year scholarship to the University of Maryland. If she is ineligible to attend the university or for some reason does not wish to accept the scholarship, she will be awarded $200.

Contestants must be between 16 and 18 years old, single and from a farm family. In addition to appearance and personality, the winner must outscore her competitors in farm, home, organization and community activities.

The Farm Queen will be officially crowned Sept. 6 during the annual 4-H Parade at the fair.

A record number of entries have been listed in all categories for the two-week fair, including cattle, lamb, swine, poultry, horses and various home arts and farm and garden demonstrations.

More than $98,000 in prize money will be awarded to exhibitors in the livestock and farm products shows. Housewives and 4-H girls will compete in a series of demonstrations daily in the exhibition hall.

During the first week, the judges will select the best of 4-H and Future Farmers of America livestock, ponies, horsemanship and home arts. Open classes in all categories will be judged during the second week.

Gov. Tawes, making his first official visit to the fair, will be honored on Governor's Day, Sept. 10. The feature at the race track that day will be the Governor's Day Purse.

To top off the entertainment, there will be a midway with 25 rides and a "Kiddie Land."

Road Contracts Are Awarded

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— Contracts for 17 West Virginia highway improvements projects have been awarded, State Road Commissioner Pat C. Graney said Wednesday.

Graney said bids were received Aug. 11 but contract awards were delayed because of a possible shortage of federal aid funds. But Graney said he now believed an agreement was near in Congress on the highway financing problem. Sixteen of the projects will be financed partly with federal funds.

The projects include two bridge jobs and some 67 miles of highway improvements in Cabell Clay, Grant, Jackson, Kanawha, Marshall, Ohio, Pocahontas, Preston, Putnam, Tucker and Wood.

Urban Renewal Plan May Aid Keyser, Weirton

Gov. Underwood Cites Program

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— Gov. Cecil H. Underwood said Wednesday that creation of the newly - formed state Economic Development Agency was instrumental in putting the state in position to start urban renewal planning programs.

He said demonstration of the agency's ability to carry out such programs has enabled the state to receive federal funds to carry out the projects in state communities.

"Communities in West Virginia now should be able to receive federal funds as fast as they themselves are in a position to request such and as fast as the federal government appropriates funds for the program," Underwood said.

The governor said he met in Philadelphia Tuesday with federal officials in the regional offices of the Home and Housing Finance Agency.

A check on long - standing urban renewal applications by Keyser and Weirton was one of the main reasons for the meeting, Underwood said. Both seek federal funds to initiate their programs.

Weirton would raise $19,600, to be matched by federal funds while Keyser would raise $5,500 to match government funds when they become available. He said $2,400 from the EDA also would be matched.

The governor said a total of $27,000 had been requested from the federal government to match an equal amount to be raised in the state for urban renewal programs.

Funds available for West Virginia cities for urban renewal programs will depend on the outcome of housing legislation now pending in congress, Underwood said.

But he added, "the basic ground work has been established. The federal government has been assured of the ability of the EDA to supervise such programs."

Lawrence H. Rogers, Huntington, chairman of the EDA, accompanied the governor to the Philadelphia meeting.

HELEN VIRGINIA PAULL

Miss Paull Is Named Princess

ELKINS—Miss Helen Virginia Paull, 18, of Wellsburg, a student at West Virginia University is one of 36 of the state's pretty young women who have been chosen to serve as princesses in the royal court of Queen Silvia XXII for the Mountain State Forest Festival to be held here October 1 to 4.

A graduate of Wellsburg High School, Miss Paull was a member of the school band, Tri-Hi-Y, Student Council, Chemistry Club, the Women's Athletic Association and was granted a Westminister Fellowship.

She attended Greenbrier College before enrolling in West Virginia University.

Miss Paull's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Paull of Wellsburg. He is a manufacturer.

Westernport Council Considers Reservoir Work

WESTERNPORT—The quotation of $22,220 for placing a steel lining in the town reservoir from the Graver, Tank and Manufacturing Company of Pittsburgh, was considered at the regular meeting of Mayor Ray L. Wilt and Town Council Wednesday.

The letter also stated that necessary materials for the work could be shipped within six weeks and the work would be completed three weeks after arrival of the materials.

The mayor will contact the company for further information before sending the purchasing order to them, he said.

Council plans to charge for water meters to commercial customers who require a one-inch water meter or over. The town attorney, Horace P. Whitworth will be requested to prepare an amendment to the water ordinance to provide for this change.

Earl E. Riggleman, 39, of 115 Front Street, was appointed extra police officer, following the recommendation of Leo Herbert, police commissioner.

Riggleman, a former Celanese Corporation of America employe has served 15 years with the U.S. Air Force.

Curbs at intersections were ordered repainted red and the white lines for pedestrians will be renewed.

Mrs. Edna Roderick, Wood Street, complained of water running into her basement from rains.

Edwin Ross, Ross Street, recommended the road be capped with something permanent at upper end of Ross Street.

Robert Martin, inquired about securing water and sewer taps. Due to the fact he lives about 800 feet out of the corporation above the filtration system he would have the expense of pumping the water to his residence. He was assured that when he is ready for the taps he may secure them from the town.

A letter from several citizens, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Imperio, Mr. and Mrs. William Trenum, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy House Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Price, called attention to heavy trucks and equipment, plus other vehicles using First Street. There are deep holes and cuts in the road which fill with water after rains creating a nuisance to the neighborhood they complained.

Police Commissioner Herbert reported that three new tires had been purchased for the police cruiser.

Unemployment In W.Va. May Affect Fair

Low Attendance Is Anticipated

By BILL BARRETT
United Press International

LEWISBURG, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia State Fair Secretary C. T. Sydenstricker indicated Wednesday that the present high rate of unemployment in the Mountain State may have an adverse effect on the Fair near here next week.

The secretary said he is somewhat doubtful that attendance will reach the 200,000 mark which it has attained in recent years. Sydenstricker said the fall would be due to the high number of jobless coal miners.

He explained with many coal mines not operating, "I don't know if they will have any money to spend."

"But I don't care if they don't spend any money on the grounds after they get here," he said. "I just want them to see the fair this year and all it will take is the nominal general admission fee.

However, the secretary is still pretty optimistic, he said he expects the 1959 event "to be a plumb good one." The fair opens a week long stand Monday at nearby Fairlea.

Sydenstricker said "our mail for grandstand reservation is heavier than in recent years and people are writing from more distant places.

"We've gotten letters from the Northern Panhandle and Richmond, Va. asking for reserved tickets to the horse show and trotting races."

The secretary said entries for the livestock show and other displays were setting records. Final entry lists will be prepared this weekend following several county fairs in West Virginia and Virginia.

He said "we've already won national fame for our livestock shows and now it appears we'll have some good competition in our others." But the secretary just hopes enough people come to see them.

Keyser Adopts Traffic Plan

KEYSER—Lincoln Street, between Mineral and Main Streets, was opened to two-way traffic Thursday by an order adopted at the regular meeting of the Mayor and Council. For the past several years the street has been one way east.

The street was made two-way to give access to homes and businesses on the thoroughfare. The two-way traffic order is permanent and will continue in force after the work of relocating Route 220 through Keyser is completed.

Most of the council session was taken up by a discussion concerning a new backhoe for the street and water departments. The one the city has now is beyond repair, but no definite action was taken on the purchase of a new one because funds are not readily available.

The tax levy for the current fiscal year was approved, leaving the tax rate the same as it was last year.

Two building permits were granted. One went to M. E. Minnich for the construction of a one story concrete block building, 40 by 60 feet, on the alley between Church and Sharpless Streets. Minnich said he planned to use the building, which is estimated to cost $6,000, for his Mineral County Feed and Supply Company at the corner of West and Patrick Streets.

Paul Kesner was granted a permit to build a concrete block garage at the rear of his residence at 248 South Main Street at an estimated cost of $2,500.

The hearing was held Tuesday before Justice of the Peace Gay Mellon, and Mrs. Oates was ordered to appear before the October grand jury.

Unemployment In W.Va. May Affect Fair

Low Attendance Is Anticipated

By BILL BARRETT
United Press International

LEWISBURG, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia State Fair Secretary C. T. Sydenstricker indicated Wednesday that the present high rate of unemployment in the Mountain State may have an adverse effect on the Fair near here next week.

The secretary said he is somewhat doubtful that attendance will reach the 200,000 mark which it has attained in recent years. Sydenstricker said the fall would be due to the high number of jobless coal miners.

He explained with many coal mines not operating, "I don't know if they will have any money to spend."

"But I don't care if they don't spend any money on the grounds after they get here," he said. "I just want them to see the fair this year and all it will take is the nominal general admission fee.

However, the secretary is still pretty optimistic, he said he expects the 1959 event "to be a plumb good one." The fair opens a week long stand Monday at nearby Fairlea.

Sydenstricker said "our mail for grandstand reservation is heavier than in recent years and people are writing from more distant places.

"We've gotten letters from the Northern Panhandle and Richmond, Va. asking for reserved tickets to the horse show and trotting races."

The secretary said entries for the livestock show and other displays were setting records. Final entry lists will be prepared this weekend following several county fairs in West Virginia and Virginia.

He said "we've already won national fame for our livestock shows and now it appears we'll have some good competition in our others." But the secretary just hopes enough people come to see them.

Keyser Adopts Traffic Plan

KEYSER—Lincoln Street, between Mineral and Main Streets, was opened to two-way traffic Thursday by an order adopted at the regular meeting of the Mayor and Council. For the past several years the street has been one way east.

The street was made two-way to give access to homes and businesses on the thoroughfare. The two-way traffic order is permanent and will continue in force after the work of relocating Route 220 through Keyser is completed.

Most of the council session was taken up by a discussion concerning a new backhoe for the street and water departments. The one the city has now is beyond repair, but no definite action was taken on the purchase of a new one because funds are not readily available.

The tax levy for the current fiscal year was approved, leaving the tax rate the same as it was last year.

Two building permits were granted. One went to M. E. Minnich for the construction of a one story concrete block building, 40 by 60 feet, on the alley between Church and Sharpless Streets. Minnich said he planned to use the building, which is estimated to cost $6,000, for his Mineral County Feed and Supply Company at the corner of West and Patrick Streets.

Paul Kesner was granted a permit to build a concrete block garage at the rear of his residence at 248 South Main Street at an estimated cost of $2,500.

Keyser Woman Faces Check Charge

KEYSER—A young Keyser woman is free on $500 bond after being arrested on a charge of forgery.

Mrs. Teresa Trenum Oates, 20, of 37 South Water Street, was charged with forging the name of Dayton Ours to a check for $94. Authorities said she also forged the name of Attorney Joseph A. Blundon, who is in Scotland, as an endorser on the check.

The hearing was held Tuesday before Justice of the Peace Gay Mellon, and Mrs. Oates was ordered to appear before the October grand jury.

Other employes receiving safety award pins were (left to right, kneeling) Willis MyIntyre, machine coating; Carleton Bell, paint shop; Edgar Alkire, welding shop; Kingsley Skidmore, billing department; (standing) Clyde Cook, crews and shops; William Richardson, crews and shops; Sheriff Tranum, general mechanics; George Wilson, general mechanics; Browne Kooken, power and piping; Walter Uhl, pulp mill laboratory, and Fred Podelco.

Stanley Hawse Outlines Experiences With TV Teaching In Washington Co.

MOOREFIELD—Stanley Hawse, assistant superintendent of Hardy County schools, addressed the Moorefield Lions Club at Hotel McNeill on the subject of the closed circuit TV teaching experiment used in the Washington County, Maryland, schools. Hawse spent a year in the experimental new teaching methods and was in charge of one department of the project. Hawse said that it is a wonderful aid in teaching but "it is an aid and not a teacher." Hawse said the teachers still had to teach.

Mr. Hawse said that the Ford Foundation made the revolutionary new teaching aid possible with the cooperation of Washington County school officials and a public that backed the school policies. He said it was the first in the United States and that school authorities had no pattern to follow. He said that the closed circuit TV was used in all 12 grades and was used in all subjects. He said he had charge of sixth grade reading in the schools and achieved remarkable results as a teaching aid. Hawse said that use of TV is wonderful in science as experiments, microscopic pictures and materials could be used that would be impossible to secure in an average classroom. The use of the TV classrooms made it possible for all students to have the best teachers in the school system, provided incentive for students to compete to appear on TV in demonstrations, and best of all, improved the standards of the teachers in the classrooms as they had the best examples to pattern their methods.

Hawse pointed out that the use of TV requires considerable preparation before the actual presentations, a readiness period which consisted of briefing on the lesson, the use of material during the TV period and the follow-up after the lesson.

He pointed out that the public could observe the actual classroom presentations, that it was used for teachers meetings, for county wide announcements, for elections and other uses. He said that the use of TV is a mass teaching aid and the only disadvantage is the problem of questions and answers from the TV instructor.

Hawse said that his experience in going from a state ranking seventh from the bottom in education to one ranking seventh from the top was revealing. He said the attitude of the teachers is a big difference, and he heard no gripes from the teachers in Washington County. He said the teachers work from 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. and came in a half hour before to prepare for the day.

He said the teachers, students and the public have pride in the school system and that there is no waste. He said discipline in the schools is excellent and all students take care of school property. He had nothing but praise for the way the general public backed the policies of the school administrators in Maryland.

Miss Ruth Knox, clothing specialist with West Virginia University, who is in Hardy County judging the sewing projects of the 4-H girls, explained the fifth and sixth year projects and had four girls model their work for the club. The girls are required to make a complete ensemble to compete in the county contest and winners are eligible to enter the state contest at Jackson Mills.

Miss Susan Shobe modeled a wool plaid dress ensemble.

Miss Kay Judy Harper also modeled her wool ensemble with matching bermuda shorts.

Miss Pat Mathias modeled a wool walking suit and Miss Jane Welton a taffeta dress ensemble. The girls did all the sewing and all the work on these clothes.

In the business meeting of the club, it was announced that the Lions barbecue will be held in October on a date to be announced. Attendance pins were awarded to C. B. Bishoff, William Clark, E. L. Puffenberger, R. E. Fisher, Clyde Grimes, Guy Lang, C. B. Hiett and Del Hester. Roy Hamilton presided in the absence of the president, Richard Troughton.

Maryland Scientists Will Survey Deep Creek Lake To Determine Reasons For Improvement In Fishing

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Why is fishing so much better on Deep Creek Lake this year than in recent past?

Some 100 scientists, wildlife experts and volunteer helpers will spend seven days on the Garrett County lake next month trying to find the answer.

The amphibious force of scientists will descend on Hoop Pole Cove on Sept. 9 and begin distributing 1,100 pounds of rotenone, a fish-suffocating agent.

About 2,000 spectators are expected to watch the fish census-taking, a 40-boat operation.

In charge of the project will be Harold J. Elser, fishery biologist for the Department of Research and Education. Elser's department, the Department of Game and Inland Fish and Deep Creek improvement associations are sponsoring the census.

Elser said glowing reports of catches in the lake this year already have been backed up to some extent by preliminary spot checks and there is evidence that fishing may be even better in 1960.

By comparison, the lake had been rated one of the poorest fishing grounds in the state during the past eight years.

A similar census operation in 1955 gave scientists a major reason — the majority of the lake's population was yellow perch whose stunted growth showed they were overcrowded and underfed.

A fish stocking and management operation was begun in 1956, and predatory fish such as chain pickerel, northern pike, walleyes and striped bass were introduced in hopes they would cut down on the yellow perch population.

Spot checks this year have shown perch to be averaging an inch longer than in 1955. The stocking programs has been given tentative credit for this improvement, but next month's check will provide the final answer. The census will also indicate what future program should be adopted.

Teams of specialists will begin spreading the rotenone powder at 6:30 a.m. on Sept. 9. Half an hour later pick-up of floating fish will begin, and aqualung divers will submerge at 2 p.m. to collect fish off the bottom.

The collected fish will be weighed and measured and their stomach contents will be examined for feeding information. After they have been checked, the fish will be distributed to the volunteer helpers, spectators and hospitals. About 2,500 pounds of fish were distributed in 1955, and the scientists buried another 2,500 pounds collected too late to be edible.

Use of rotenone in the coves will have little effect on fishing elsewhere in the lake, Elser said. The material deteriorates rapidly and loses half its strength in one day.

Stanley Hawse Outlines Experiences With TV Teaching In Washington Co.

MOOREFIELD—Stanley Hawse, assistant superintendent of Hardy County schools, addressed the Moorefield Lions Club at Hotel McNeill on the subject of the closed circuit TV teaching experiment used in the Washington County, Maryland, schools. Hawse spent a year in the experimental new teaching methods and was in charge of one department of the project. Hawse said that it is a wonderful aid in teaching but "it is an aid and not a teacher." Hawse said the teachers still had to teach.

Mr. Hawse said that the Ford Foundation made the revolutionary new teaching aid possible with the cooperation of Washington County school officials and a public that backed the school policies. He said it was the first in the United States and that school authorities had no pattern to follow. He said that the closed circuit TV was used in all 12 grades and was used in all subjects. He said he had charge of sixth grade reading in the schools and achieved remarkable results as a teaching aid. Hawse said that use of TV is wonderful in science as experiments, microscopic pictures and materials could be used that would be impossible to secure in an average classroom. The use of the TV classrooms made it possible for all students to have the best teachers in the school system, provided incentive for students to compete to appear on TV in demonstrations, and best of all, improved the standards of the teachers in the classrooms as they had the best examples to pattern their methods.

Hawse pointed out that the use of TV requires considerable preparation before the actual presentations, a readiness period which consisted of briefing on the lesson, the use of material during the TV period and the follow-up after the lesson.

He pointed out that the public could observe the actual classroom presentations, that it was used for teachers meetings, for county wide announcements, for elections and other uses. He said that the use of TV is a mass teaching aid and the only disadvantage is the problem of questions and answers from the TV instructor.

Hawse said that his experience in going from a state ranking seventh from the bottom in education to one ranking seventh from the top was revealing. He said the attitude of the teachers is a big difference, and he heard no gripes from the teachers in Washington County. He said the teachers work from 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. and came in a half hour before to prepare for the day.

He said the teachers, students and the public have pride in the school system and that there is no waste. He said discipline in the schools is excellent and all students take care of school property. He had nothing but praise for the way the general public backed the policies of the school administrators in Maryland.

Miss Ruth Knox, clothing specialist with West Virginia University, who is in Hardy County judging the sewing projects of the 4-H girls, explained the fifth and sixth year projects and had four girls model their work for the club. The girls are required to make a complete ensemble to compete in the county contest and winners are eligible to enter the state contest at Jackson Mills.

Miss Susan Shobe modeled a wool plaid dress ensemble.

Miss Kay Judy Harper also modeled her wool ensemble with matching bermuda shorts.

Miss Pat Mathias modeled a wool walking suit and Miss Jane Welton a taffeta dress ensemble. The girls did all the sewing and all the work on these clothes.

In the business meeting of the club, it was announced that the Lions barbecue will be held in October on a date to be announced. Attendance pins were awarded to C. B. Bishoff, William Clark, E. L. Puffenberger, R. E. Fisher, Clyde Grimes, Guy Lang, C. B. Hiett and Del Hester. Roy Hamilton presided in the absence of the president, Richard Troughton.

Maryland Scientists Will Survey Deep Creek Lake To Determine Reasons For Improvement In Fishing

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Why is fishing so much better on Deep Creek Lake this year than in recent past?

Some 100 scientists, wildlife experts and volunteer helpers will spend seven days on the Garrett County lake next month trying to find the answer.

The amphibious force of scientists will descend on Hoop Pole Cove on Sept. 9 and begin distributing 1,100 pounds of rotenone, a fish-suffocating agent.

About 2,000 spectators are expected to watch the fish census-taking, a 40-boat operation.

In charge of the project will be Harold J. Elser, fishery biologist for the Department of Research and Education. Elser's department, the Department of Game and Inland Fish and Deep Creek improvement associations are sponsoring the census.

Elser said glowing reports of catches in the lake this year already have been backed up to some extent by preliminary spot checks and there is evidence that fishing may be even better in 1960.

By comparison, the lake had been rated one of the poorest fishing grounds in the state during the past eight years.

A similar census operation in 1955 gave scientists a major reason — the majority of the lake's population was yellow perch whose stunted growth showed they were overcrowded and underfed.

A fish stocking and management operation was begun in 1956, and predatory fish such as chain pickerel, northern pike, walleyes and striped bass were introduced in hopes they would cut down on the yellow perch population.

Spot checks this year have shown perch to be averaging an inch longer than in 1955. The stocking programs has been given tentative credit for this improvement, but next month's check will provide the final answer. The census will also indicate what future program should be adopted.

Teams of specialists will begin spreading the rotenone powder at 6:30 a.m. on Sept. 9. Half an hour later pick-up of floating fish will begin, and aqualung divers will submerge at 2 p.m. to collect fish off the bottom.

The collected fish will be weighed and measured and their stomach contents will be examined for feeding information. After they have been checked, the fish will be distributed to the volunteer helpers, spectators and hospitals. About 2,500 pounds of fish were distributed in 1955, and the scientists buried another 2,500 pounds collected too late to be edible.

Use of rotenone in the coves will have little effect on fishing elsewhere in the lake, Elser said. The material deteriorates rapidly and loses half its strength in one day.

The entrance road, Georges Creek Boulevard, has been widened by a bulldozer, and a turnaround constructed. Plans call for the roadway to be graded and rolled.

Plans for the placement of tables, fireplaces and recreation areas are being drawn by club members, and a fund raising campaign will be conducted to finance completion of the park.

Celanese Wins Ruling Against Label

NEW YORK—Celanese Corporation of America was granted a temporary restraining order in Supreme Court Friday enjoining Katos Sportswear Company, Inc., from using the Arnel trademark and hangtag.

The restraint was approved pending a hearing on a show cause order for injunctive relief. The restraint also bars use of "You Can Relax—This Is Arnel."

Celanese seeks $100,000 damages, in addition to an accounting and injunctive relief.

The suit charges Katos attached Arnel tags to garments which had no Arnel fiber. Katos used the tags on women's garments of acetate and cotton, papers state. The tags should only be used on garments having the Celanese triacetate fiber, it is said.

Improper use of the tags, it is charged, constitutes a fraud on the retailer and the public. The Katos actions, it is claimed, are designed to damage the goodwill of Celanese and to cause serious loss and damage.

Gainsburg, Gottlieb, Levitan & Cole represent Celanese.

Investment Abroad Takes A New Turn

Results of a new survey of spending abroad by American private industry show that outlays for new plant, expanding as had been foreseen, are taking a new and significant turn. A McGraw-Hill study discloses that new money for plant, equipment, and property outside the United States this year will run to $2,143,600,000—up five per cent from 1958 investment. A like expenditure is expected for 1960.

Even more important, U.S. manufacturers next year expect to spend more on new facilities in Europe than in Canada, and Latin America combined. This is a reversal of a long-term trend and must certainly be attributable to new conditions brought about by the European Common Market. In contrast, in 1957, about 92 per cent of the capital of American industry invested in manufacturing abroad was in these regions—44.4 per cent in Canada, 21.3 per cent in Latin America, and 25.3 per cent in Western Europe.

In search of a better basis of competition with foreign firms, U.S. companies are pushing sales by foreign subsidiaries to such an extent that they are expected to increase faster than U.S. exports. Total exports are reversing a downward trend this year and are expected to continue upward next year. Even so, the new figures support the contention of Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) that "the export of American jobs has just begun." American capital invested abroad, American automation and know-how, on top of lower foreign wages, Proxmire holds, are a combination "not only cutting a terrible swath in the export market for American factories," but also "beginning to cost them some of their domestic U.S. markets."

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Conflict Of Interest

When I raised the question of conflict of interest among members of Congress, I had no intention of attacking or pillorying any particular Senator or Representative. After all, the conflicts of interest are fairly universal and arise from the fact that Congress is intended to be representative of all classes and all elements in the country so that class legislation would be impossible, or at least difficult. That has not quite worked out to be so.

In showing how the conflict of interest works in relation to government subsidies, I mentioned Senator Clinton Anderson and gave some figures. He has sent me a differing set of figures as correct. I herewith give his statement:

". . . If you desire, I will be happy to send you a photostat of a letter from the United States Department of Agriculture—Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, dated August 5, 1959, reviewing this situation.

"Briefly, it shows that the farm (Anderson's) received three wheat loans. My share of the 1956 loan was $1,506.87; of the 1957 loan it was $2,190.29; and of the 1958 loan it was $3,273.45. This does not check with my records on which I paid income tax. My figures for these years were as follows: 1956—$1,502.85; 1957—$2,184.40; 1958—$3,263.58. That is because the Department deducts prepaid interest when making the loan. But taking the Department's figures, the total of the wheat loans was $6,970.61, all of which was repaid with interest and storage charges promptly.

"The only reason the loan was made was for the convenience of the tenant. He wanted to hold his grain from various farms—and he operates more than the one in which I am interested — and have an accounting all at one time. Therefore, all the wheat went under the loan, and whenever he wished to dispose of it it was sold. But all these loans were repaid with interest. The Dickson Preston article says that I received $19,377.55. I say that the most that could be claimed was that I received $6,970.61, and this was repaid with interest and storage charges, and was not for my convenience. The Department now admits the $6,970.61 figure is correct."

There is more detail. I shall not go further into this because it was never my intention to take the position that Senator Anderson did anything crooked or involving moral turpitude. My point was, in the previous article and it is now, that we insist that appointees to Executive positions disclose their holdings and in some instances divest themselves of their possessions for which they may have labored all their lives. The case of Harold Talbott is pertinent. He was forced to resign from his position as Secretary of the Air Force because of a conflict of interest. He died in 1957 and it is now obvious that Harold Talbott was not what is these days called a rich man. He was driven from a useful public life because he wrote a letter of introduction from which he might or might not have profited.

I make the point that many members of Congress are lawyers, continuing their connections with law firms while they are members of Congress and benefiting by the earnings of such firms. In some instances, members of such firms appear before Congressional Committees or bureaucratic hearings where the fact that a member of the particular firm is also in Congress cannot and will not be ignored.

I made the point in a prior article, and I do so now, that this nation needs to mobilize its brainpower in the national interest. Much of that brainpower is today unavailable because many competent men decline to deprive themselves of their interests or leave their current work permanently for a temporary engagement in government activity.

Let us say that the government requires a highly experienced financier to negotiate a trade agreement with highly experienced European financiers. The European, or for that matter, the Asiatic or Latin American nations will recruit their best bankers and economists for such a task and send them to negotiate, without requiring them to divest themselves of the fruits of their labor. We become involved in this conflict of interest absurdity. Naturally, the highly experienced person will have done something before this government job, will be doing something after this job is finished, and will be associated with various interests.

My point is that we need to grow up.

Aesop And Nicodemus Figure In Senate's Civil Rights Hearings

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Sen. Tom Hennings of Missouri, whose great-grandfather owned more slaves than any other plantation owner in Georgia and whose grandfather was an officer in the Confederate army, has been waging a quiet, frustrating drive to put across a civil rights bill at this session of Congress. Up until this week he was extremely patient.

For over a month Hennings has been presiding over the judiciary subcommittee considering a civil rights bill. But Southern Senators have stalled. They have been polite, good-humored, effective. Sen. Sam Ervin of North Carolina has quoted at length from Aesop's fables and recited Biblical quotations from Nicodemus, the Pharisee who came to see Jesus in the night to question him about his miracles.

During one of the last closed-door committee sessions, when Hennings moved to speed up the civil rights bill, Senator Ervin asked delay in order to read the record.

"Will the Senator from North Carolina change his mind if he reads the record?" asked the Senator from Missouri. "He's readmost of it anyway. He made most of it with his own testimony. Will rereading it change his position even an inch?

"Is he like Joseph Smith, waiting to receive the word from the Angel Moroni?" continued Hennings, referring to the Mormon angel who appeared before the prophet Joseph Smith in a vision.

"I've learned Aesop's fables by heart. I've heard the Senator extol the virtues of Nicodemus. I'm quite sure he was a great man. But he's been dead many years and it's time to take up the present. I move that we terminate our hearings now."

When there was further objection, the grandson of the pre-Civil War slave-holder finally bypassed his committee and introduced the civil rights bill as an amendment to a minor Senate bill from the Government Operations Committee.

Note—Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas has stated that a civil rights bill will be passed before Congress adjourns.

Two Candidates For President

Minnesota's Senator Hubert Humphrey, who spent eight hours with Premier Khrushchev in the Kremlin, telephoned Vice President Nixon after his return from visiting with Khrushchev.

"Dick, I want you to know," greeted Humphrey, "that I am one of those who think your trip was good for America, good for world peace, and," he added slyly, "good for you."

Gloria And Miss Dulles

A hitherto unrevealed incident in the long, tragic illness of John Foster Dulles has just been disclosed by Gloria Swanson, the famed actress, who has starred in more movies than she can remember.

When Dulles was stricken with cancer, Miss Swanson telephoned his sister, Eleanor Dulles, who is the German expert in the State Department.

"I'm only a movie actress but I know krebiozen has helped many cancer patients," she said, referring to the treatment for cancer pioneered by Dr. Stevan Durovic of Chicago and championed by Dr. Andrew Ivy of the University of Illinois Medical School.

"Your brother should take it," Miss Swanson urged.

"I agree with you," Miss Dulles replied, "but my brother is surrounded by too many people —his wife and all those doctors —who are frightened by the AMA."

Miss Swanson points out that the American Medical Association has fought a long battle against krebiozen, though such famed physicians as Dr. Ivy have championed it as a treatment to alleviate, though not a surefire cure for, cancer.

Navy Should Handle Space Ships

Rear Admiral Jack Monroe, commander of the Pacific Missile Range and outspoken advocate of the Navy's role in space, has come up with a new reason why sailors should man future space ships.

"It is quite likely," he explained in a recent speech, "they will resemble destroyers in size and weight more than they will aircraft . . . If one looks at the second and third generation of space vehicles, one can envision an extremely large space ship that will be nuclear-propelled. One could imagine a vehicle that is probably the size of a destroyer or larger and possessing five or ten or more million pounds of thrust."

Admiral Monroe described his vision of rocket-powered destroyers whizzing through space as a logical extension of sea power.

"The sea power of this nation," he declared, "will be wedded to usable space power . . . We hope that from space will come benefits to increase the Navy's mobility and flexibility, for mobility is the ageless story of sea power . . . Throughout all history each new instrument has added to the totality of sea power, and we hope that space technology also will."

GOVERNOR EARL LONG of Louisiana, Baton Rouge—I have talked to your nephew, Senator Russell Long, and am convinced he did not deliberately conspire to have you committed to further his own political purposes. Russell had been offered an honorary degree of doctor of laws by Loyola University, the same degree awarded his father Huey. He flew down to New Orleans to deliver the graduation address, so by mere coincidence happened to be in the state at the time your commitment proceedings took place. Russell tells me that he has been and still is concerned over your health and feels that you should take an extended rest. However, he insists he doesn't want to run for governor of Louisiana. I am convinced he much prefers being in the U. S. Senate where he is doing a good job.

Advertisements Illustrate Meaning Of Freedom

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — There's beginning to be a bit of sensitivity about what Nikita Khrushchev should hear or see or read while he is in the United States. But if he is well-advised and really wants to know how the capitalistic system functions, there are two advertisements published in the newspapers in the last few days which will tell him things that may surprise him. They constitute a dramatic lesson in economics.

Pronouncement No. 1 is on the subject of inflation and shows that in America everybody has a right to speak out in the hope of influencing public opinion so as to bring about self-restraint among organized groups. Remedies that in the Soviet Union would be applied by police or military force are left to the people of America themselves to work out through appeals to reason.

Pronouncement No. 2 gives the viewpoint of the steel companies in answer to a previous advertisement by the Steelworkers Union which had pointed to the profits of the employer companies as "fantastic," and had argued that these provide money enough to pay increased wages without a price rise. The steel companies reply that this year the "steelworkers' increased pay outstripped the owners' dividend increase by 86 to 1."

But more important than the debate over whether the profits were large enough to pay more wage increases is the news contained in the statement by the steel companies as to what they did with their profits. The explanation was as follows:

"Roughly one-third of the profit was 'phantom profit' which had to be used to cover the inflated cost of replacing worn-out tools and facilities. This one-third provided nothing for the owners — nothing for expansion. It had to be used to stand still. Otherwise the steel industry would die a little each year as its plants wore out. And so would the jobs of its over 600,000 employes and the invested savings of its more than one million shareowners.

"Another third or so of the profit went to meet the continuing need for improved or enlarged plants and equipment, necessary working capital, new sources of raw materials, new research facilities, and to improve productive efficiency generally. This was the 're-invested profit' that provides for America's industrial growth, sustains job security, and steadily raises the standard of living of the American people.

"What was left of the profit—$268 million—went to the owners of the steel companies in the form of dividends. This was the only payment they received from their companies for the use of all the tools that their savings have provided; and it represented an annual return of about 3 per cent on the present market value of their investment.

"That is about the same return you get on your savings account at the bank — less than on a government bond."

This debate, revealing how the capitalistic system works, goes on in the midst of a strike that has tied up the entire steel industry and is an example of the free interplay of the forces of public opinion which will eventually influence a settlement of the dispute.

Pronouncement No. 1 was presented more graphically in an advertisement from another quarter. A big photograph of a pistol, with a lot of bullets beside it, carried the heading: "The biggest robbery this country has ever known." This was published by Young & Rubicam, an advertising agency in the famous Madison Avenue district in New York which is often referred to as the source of many ideas that influence the political battles of our democracy. The declaration was undoubtedly designed to affect public opinion by dramatizing the inflation issue. It said:

"Last year, a thief stole money from 160 million people — including you. He stole some of your food money, some of your savings, some of all the money you learned. He stole some the year before last, the year before that. And unless something is done about it, he'll keep on stealing.

"Who is the thief? The name isn't important — call him 'Inflation,' 'High Cost of Living,' 'The Shrinking Dollar,' anything you like.

"But what is important is the historical fact that in any country where this inflationary process has been carried to a conclusion, the result has been depression; not 'recession,' but depression — a dark, agonizing period of hardship, poverty and suffering, often leading to revolution and dictatorship."

The argument continues with the suggestion that the government can help by living within its income, while business and labor should be "both judicious and responsible" with respect to pricing and profit-taking and to requests for increased pay. The people as a whole, moreover, are urged not to demand the spending of money by the government for "improvements" unless they are willing to shoulder increased taxes to pay for them.

Here we have debate on the free-enterprise and the free-trade-union system. Both may from time to time bring xecesses but, precisely because these are recognized and publicly discussed, they are eventually resolved by the processes of American public opinion. By noting this form of discussion, Nikita Khrushchev may learn something constructive about what is meant by freedom as opposed to the rule of dictatorship.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

The imperturbability of a diplomatic mission to Washington was severely shaken recently by the appearance of 11 refugees on embassy property.

However, in the true tradition, all difficulties were surmounted and a happy solution reached at the Nicaraguan embassy.

Foul odors began to permeate the embassy in one of Washington's swankiest districts, and the staff was frantically trying to trace them down. An exterminator was unable to trace the odors to their source.

The answer was provided by a stranger who knocked at the embassy door and informed them that he had seen a strange animal creep into a heating duct in the building.

Tracing the animal to its lair, the diplomats found 11 refugees—a mother oppossum and her 10 newly-born young. The animal rescue league did the rest and now the Nicaraguan embassy is once again experiencing the sweet smell of success.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Fred C. Shapiro

(Jim Bishop is on vacation. Today's column is written by Fred C. Shapiro of the Baltimore News-Post.)

They were unimportant stories; they were the overset.

There was the story about a small fire; another about the appointment of a deputy commissioner of sewers, a third that announced the arrest of a drunken driver.

There was the story about the girl who won a scholarship to a university, and the one about the young man who won an indeterminate sentence for the burglary of a candy store.

These were the stories that didn't get in the paper. They are stories that have been reported, written, edited and set in type. Then they are thrown away. In the race for news, these are the also-rans.

Sometimes the stories killed in the overset seem better than the ones that made the paper. Take that one about the small fire for instance. It was my story.

It was a quiet summer evening. I was working in police headquarters from four till midnight. Nothing happened until 10:30 when somebody pulled a fire box.

It didn't look like much of a fire. It was in a row house in the worst part of town, but it was close to headquarters and I felt like taking a ride.

There wasn't much outside damage to the house, just a gutted interior. My experienced colleagues from the competition kissed it off and went back to work. I didn't have anything better to do, so I hung around.

The fire was out by that time, and the firemen were carrying smouldering rubble from the first floor of the house. Then the owner walked around the corner and came down the street.

He was a middle-aged Negro. He walked with just a little bit of a lurch and there was a smile on his face—until he saw the firemen. He screamed. It was a high-pitched, woman's kind of a scream.

"What are you doing in my house," he yelled.

He tried to run into the building and almost knocked over the fire captain who was walking out. He swung at the captain. it was a wild swing, and a few of the firemen came over and grabbed him.

They pinned his arms and they held him there.

"I just finished fixing it," he said. "I worked two years."

He stood quietly and his face contorted in spasms and tears stained his sports shirt. The firemen let him go and walked away. They didn't want to look at him.

One of the firemen walked over to me.

"It was the nicest house I ever saw around here," he said. "It had paneling and it had fixtures. The wood was all hand-rubbed. There wasn't anything in there that cost much money, but he did everything a guy could do to make it beautiful."

The engine driver is the man responsible for getting the basic information for the department reports. He questioned the man and I listened to pick up what I needed. The man stood there, facing away from his house.

The engine driver said the chief thought the fire started because of a short circuit in the basement wiring. Then the firemen got on their truck and went away. All the neighbors who had come out to watch went back to their homes.

The man and I stood alone before the gaping hole of what had been his doorway. Behind him I could see the ashes and the rubble. He looked at me and wiped his eyes for the first time. "I just finished," he said.

"I wanted to get it fixed up. I thought if I had a nice place I'd be able to offer it to some woman. I wanted to get married.

"For two years I worked. Funny, tonight was my first night out."

He turned and he walked quietly into his house. I wanted to follow him and say something, but I didn't know then, and I don't know now, what I could have said.

I went back and wrote the story. It wound up in overset. It wasn't important . . .

Coronary Victims Need Not Become Invalids

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Coronary thrombosis is the leading cause of death but for every two who succumb to an attack, more than eight survive. These survivors are far from through and the majority return to work. Statistics show that those who remain active live longest.

When can a person who has had a heart attack resume exercise? This question is best answered by the family physician who has firsthand information, but several well established rules may serve as a guide along this line. Once the heart has healed there is no logical reason why the victim cannot or should not resume the activities incident to everyday living.

In general, it is not advisable to indulge in any type of exertion that brings on pain, shortness of breath, or irregularities of the pulse. In such instances, the heart is taxed by the added work and is beginning to complain. Exercise to the point of fatigue is taboo.

Walking and playing golf may be encouraged within two or three months after recovery. Mild calisthenics, climbing stairs, and swimming are a bit more strenuous. They ought to be started slowly and increased gradually, depending upon the individual tolerance. Don't swim in cold water.

Studies have shown that the heart works about the same when the individual climbs a flight of stairs slowly as when walking on the level. Ballroom dancing falls into the same category; sit out the more lively tunes and jitterbug numbers.

The basic cause of coronary thrombosis is hardening of the arteries. This process is not affected by activity except that exercise may lessen a high blood cholesterol, which is one of the causative factors in arteriosclerosis. The ex-coronary patient should avoid exertion during extremes in temperature and high winds. It is best to rest after eating because digestion adds to the burden of the heart.

(Dr. Van Dellen will send a leaflet on coronary disease if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

FEARS GERMS

Mrs. W. writes: Last year I had a friend for dinner. I washed her dishes with mine and used them the next day. Later I found out she has a touch of tuberculosis. Now I can't stop worrying about whether caught her germs. Is this possible?

REPLY

No. Forget it if your chest X-ray is now normal. The disease develops within a few months after contact and there is no need for concern if tuberculosis has not developed by now.

OLD AGE FRECKLES

D. H. writes: Is there something lacking in the system to cause senile freckles on the hands in the late 50s?

REPLY

Yes—youth. These spots appear sooner in some than in others and are more prevalent in persons who have been overexposed to the elements.

SUGAR AND CAVITIES

R. K. writes: Are the natural sugars, such . i fruits, as prone to cause dental cavities as are the manufactured sugars?

REPLY

No, because manufactured sugars usually are more concentrated and remain in contact with the teeth longer.

NOT TOO LONG

Mrs. D. writes: How long must a woman wait after a miscarriage before becoming pregnant again?

REPLY

Pregnancy is possible and safe within a month, depending upon the reestablishment of the menstrual cycle.

ARTHRITIS AND EXERCISE

H. C. C. writes: My husband is going to retire soon because of arthritis of the spine. Our doctor advises him not to sit around and get crippled. How much exercise or work can he do?

REPLY

This is a matter of trial and error but in general your husband should avoid undue strain from chores like heavy lifting. Bending exercises will keep the spine limber without doing harm.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Charles Pettibone is famous — and deeply admired — for his unique recipe for making pancakes. Here is his precious secret: "Whip up the pancakes just the way you always have. Then take the juice of one half lime, the juice of one half lemon, a generous jigger of bourbon, and one of maple syrup. Shake well with cracked ice, strain and decorate with fruit. This results in the finest whisky sour you have ever tasted. As for the pancakes . . . use them for potholders."

Mel Dodson, of Atlantic City, likes to ask the kids who wander into Convention Hall, "What's the difference between 'unlawful' and 'illegal?'" The answer, of course, is that "unlawful" means "against the law" and "illegal" is a sick bird.

Investment Abroad Takes A New Turn

Results of a new survey of spending abroad by American private industry show that outlays for new plant, expanding as had been foreseen, are taking a new and significant turn. A McGraw-Hill study discloses that new money for plant, equipment, and property outside the United States this year will run to $2,143,600,000—up five per cent from 1958 investment. A like expenditure is expected for 1960.

Even more important, U.S. manufacturers next year expect to spend more on new facilities in Europe than in Canada, and Latin America combined. This is a reversal of a long-term trend and must certainly be attributable to new conditions brought about by the European Common Market. In contrast, in 1957, about 92 per cent of the capital of American industry invested in manufacturing abroad was in these regions—44.4 per cent in Canada, 21.3 per cent in Latin America, and 25.3 per cent in Western Europe.

In search of a better basis of competition with foreign firms, U.S. companies are pushing sales by foreign subsidiaries to such an extent that they are expected to increase faster than U.S. exports. Total exports are reversing a downward trend this year and are expected to continue upward next year. Even so, the new figures support the contention of Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) that "the export of American jobs has just begun." American capital invested abroad, American automation and know-how, on top of lower foreign wages, Proxmire holds, are a combination "not only cutting a terrible swath in the export market for American factories," but also "beginning to cost them some of their domestic U.S. markets."

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Conflict Of Interest

When I raised the question of conflict of interest among members of Congress, I had no intention of attacking or pillorying any particular Senator or Representative. After all, the conflicts of interest are fairly universal and arise from the fact that Congress is intended to be representative of all classes and all elements in the country so that class legislation would be impossible, or at least difficult. That has not quite worked out to be so.

In showing how the conflict of interest works in relation to government subsidies, I mentioned Senator Clinton Anderson and gave some figures. He has sent me a differing set of figures as correct. I herewith give his statement:

". . . If you desire, I will be happy to send you a photostat of a letter from the United States Department of Agriculture—Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, dated August 5, 1959, reviewing this situation.

"Briefly, it shows that the farm (Anderson's) received three wheat loans. My share of the 1956 loan was $1,506.87; of the 1957 loan it was $2,190.29; and of the 1958 loan it was $3,273.45. This does not check with my records on which I paid income tax. My figures for these years were as follows: 1956—$1,502.85; 1957—$2,184.40; 1958—$3,263.58. That is because the Department deducts prepaid interest when making the loan. But taking the Department's figures, the total of the wheat loans was $6,970.61, all of which was repaid with interest and storage charges promptly.

"The only reason the loan was made was for the convenience of the tenant. He wanted to hold his grain from various farms—and he operates more than the one in which I am interested — and have an accounting all at one time. Therefore, all the wheat went under the loan, and whenever he wished to dispose of it it was sold. But all these loans were repaid with interest. The Dickson Preston article says that I received $19,377.55. I say that the most that could be claimed was that I received $6,970.61, and this was repaid with interest and storage charges, and was not for my convenience. The Department now admits the $6,970.61 figure is correct."

There is more detail. I shall not go further into this because it was never my intention to take the position that Senator Anderson did anything crooked or involving moral turpitude. My point was, in the previous article and it is now, that we insist that appointees to Executive positions disclose their holdings and in some instances divest themselves of their possessions for which they may have labored all their lives. The case of Harold Talbott is pertinent. He was forced to resign from his position as Secretary of the Air Force because of a conflict of interest. He died in 1957 and it is now obvious that Harold Talbott was not what is these days called a rich man. He was driven from a useful public life because he wrote a letter of introduction from which he might or might not have profited.

I make the point that many members of Congress are lawyers, continuing their connections with law firms while they are members of Congress and benefiting by the earnings of such firms. In some instances, members of such firms appear before Congressional Committees or bureaucratic hearings where the fact that a member of the particular firm is also in Congress cannot and will not be ignored.

I made the point in a prior article, and I do so now, that this nation needs to mobilize its brainpower in the national interest. Much of that brainpower is today unavailable because many competent men decline to deprive themselves of their interests or leave their current work permanently for a temporary engagement in government activity.

Let us say that the government requires a highly experienced financier to negotiate a trade agreement with highly experienced European financiers. The European, or for that matter, the Asiatic or Latin American nations will recruit their best bankers and economists for such a task and send them to negotiate, without requiring them to divest themselves of the fruits of their labor. We become involved in this conflict of interest absurdity. Naturally, the highly experienced person will have done something before this government job, will be doing something after this job is finished, and will be associated with various interests.

My point is that we need to grow up.

Pronouncement No. 1 is on the subject of inflation and shows that in America everybody has a right to speak out in the hope of influencing public opinion so as to bring about self-restraint among organized groups. Remedies that in the Soviet Union would be applied by police or military force are left to the people of America themselves to work out through appeals to reason.

Pronouncement No. 2 gives the viewpoint of the steel companies in answer to a previous advertisement by the Steelworkers Union which had pointed to the profits of the employer companies as "fantastic," and had argued that these provide money enough to pay increased wages without a price rise. The steel companies reply that this year the "steelworkers' increased pay outstripped the owners' dividend increase by 86 to 1."

But more important than the debate over whether the profits were large enough to pay more wage increases is the news contained in the statement by the steel companies as to what they did with their profits. The explanation was as follows:

"Roughly one-third of the profit was 'phantom profit' which had to be used to cover the inflated cost of replacing worn-out tools and facilities. This one-third provided nothing for the owners — nothing for expansion. It had to be used to stand still. Otherwise the steel industry would die a little each year as its plants wore out. And so would the jobs of its over 600,000 employes and the invested savings of its more than one million shareowners.

"Another third or so of the profit went to meet the continuing need for improved or enlarged plants and equipment, necessary working capital, new sources of raw materials, new research facilities, and to improve productive efficiency generally. This was the 're-invested profit' that provides for America's industrial growth, sustains job security, and steadily raises the standard of living of the American people.

"What was left of the profit—$268 million—went to the owners of the steel companies in the form of dividends. This was the only payment they received from their companies for the use of all the tools that their savings have provided; and it represented an annual return of about 3 per cent on the present market value of their investment.

"That is about the same return you get on your savings account at the bank — less than on a government bond."

This debate, revealing how the capitalistic system works, goes on in the midst of a strike that has tied up the entire steel industry and is an example of the free interplay of the forces of public opinion which will eventually influence a settlement of the dispute.

Pronouncement No. 1 was presented more graphically in an advertisement from another quarter. A big photograph of a pistol, with a lot of bullets beside it, carried the heading: "The biggest robbery this country has ever known." This was published by Young & Rubicam, an advertising agency in the famous Madison Avenue district in New York which is often referred to as the source of many ideas that influence the political battles of our democracy. The declaration was undoubtedly designed to affect public opinion by dramatizing the inflation issue. It said:

"Last year, a thief stole money from 160 million people — including you. He stole some of your food money, some of your savings, some of all the money you learned. He stole some the year before last, the year before that. And unless something is done about it, he'll keep on stealing.

"Who is the thief? The name isn't important — call him 'Inflation,' 'High Cost of Living,' 'The Shrinking Dollar,' anything you like.

"But what is important is the historical fact that in any country where this inflationary process has been carried to a conclusion, the result has been depression; not 'recession,' but depression — a dark, agonizing period of hardship, poverty and suffering, often leading to revolution and dictatorship."

The argument continues with the suggestion that the government can help by living within its income, while business and labor should be "both judicious and responsible" with respect to pricing and profit-taking and to requests for increased pay. The people as a whole, moreover, are urged not to demand the spending of money by the government for "improvements" unless they are willing to shoulder increased taxes to pay for them.

Here we have debate on the free-enterprise and the free-trade-union system. Both may from time to time bring xecesses but, precisely because these are recognized and publicly discussed, they are eventually resolved by the processes of American public opinion. By noting this form of discussion, Nikita Khrushchev may learn something constructive about what is meant by freedom as opposed to the rule of dictatorship.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

The imperturbability of a diplomatic mission to Washington was severely shaken recently by the appearance of 11 refugees on embassy property.

However, in the true tradition, all difficulties were surmounted and a happy solution reached at the Nicaraguan embassy.

Foul odors began to permeate the embassy in one of Washington's swankiest districts, and the staff was frantically trying to trace them down. An exterminator was unable to trace the odors to their source.

The answer was provided by a stranger who knocked at the embassy door and informed them that he had seen a strange animal creep into a heating duct in the building.

Tracing the animal to its lair, the diplomats found 11 refugees—a mother oppossum and her 10 newly-born young. The animal rescue league did the rest and now the Nicaraguan embassy is once again experiencing the sweet smell of success.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Fred C. Shapiro

(Jim Bishop is on vacation. Today's column is written by Fred C. Shapiro of the Baltimore News-Post.)

They were unimportant stories; they were the overset.

There was the story about a small fire; another about the appointment of a deputy commissioner of sewers, a third that announced the arrest of a drunken driver.

There was the story about the girl who won a scholarship to a university, and the one about the young man who won an indeterminate sentence for the burglary of a candy store.

These were the stories that didn't get in the paper. They are stories that have been reported, written, edited and set in type. Then they are thrown away. In the race for news, these are the also-rans.

Sometimes the stories killed in the overset seem better than the ones that made the paper. Take that one about the small fire for instance. It was my story.

It was a quiet summer evening. I was working in police headquarters from four till midnight. Nothing happened until 10:30 when somebody pulled a fire box.

It didn't look like much of a fire. It was in a row house in the worst part of town, but it was close to headquarters and I felt like taking a ride.

There wasn't much outside damage to the house, just a gutted interior. My experienced colleagues from the competition kissed it off and went back to work. I didn't have anything better to do, so I hung around.

The fire was out by that time, and the firemen were carrying smouldering rubble from the first floor of the house. Then the owner walked around the corner and came down the street.

He was a middle-aged Negro. He walked with just a little bit of a lurch and there was a smile on his face—until he saw the firemen. He screamed. It was a high-pitched, woman's kind of a scream.

"What are you doing in my house," he yelled.

He tried to run into the building and almost knocked over the fire captain who was walking out. He swung at the captain. it was a wild swing, and a few of the firemen came over and grabbed him.

They pinned his arms and they held him there.

"I just finished fixing it," he said. "I worked two years."

He stood quietly and his face contorted in spasms and tears stained his sports shirt. The firemen let him go and walked away. They didn't want to look at him.

One of the firemen walked over to me.

"It was the nicest house I ever saw around here," he said. "It had paneling and it had fixtures. The wood was all hand-rubbed. There wasn't anything in there that cost much money, but he did everything a guy could do to make it beautiful."

The engine driver is the man responsible for getting the basic information for the department reports. He questioned the man and I listened to pick up what I needed. The man stood there, facing away from his house.

The engine driver said the chief thought the fire started because of a short circuit in the basement wiring. Then the firemen got on their truck and went away. All the neighbors who had come out to watch went back to their homes.

The man and I stood alone before the gaping hole of what had been his doorway. Behind him I could see the ashes and the rubble. He looked at me and wiped his eyes for the first time. "I just finished," he said.

"I wanted to get it fixed up. I thought if I had a nice place I'd be able to offer it to some woman. I wanted to get married.

"For two years I worked. Funny, tonight was my first night out."

He turned and he walked quietly into his house. I wanted to follow him and say something, but I didn't know then, and I don't know now, what I could have said.

I went back and wrote the story. It wound up in overset. It wasn't important . . .

Coronary Victims Need Not Become Invalids

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Coronary thrombosis is the leading cause of death but for every two who succumb to an attack, more than eight survive. These survivors are far from through and the majority return to work. Statistics show that those who remain active live longest.

When can a person who has had a heart attack resume exercise? This question is best answered by the family physician who has firsthand information, but several well established rules may serve as a guide along this line. Once the heart has healed there is no logical reason why the victim cannot or should not resume the activities incident to everyday living.

In general, it is not advisable to indulge in any type of exertion that brings on pain, shortness of breath, or irregularities of the pulse. In such instances, the heart is taxed by the added work and is beginning to complain. Exercise to the point of fatigue is taboo.

Walking and playing golf may be encouraged within two or three months after recovery. Mild calisthenics, climbing stairs, and swimming are a bit more strenuous. They ought to be started slowly and increased gradually, depending upon the individual tolerance. Don't swim in cold water.

Studies have shown that the heart works about the same when the individual climbs a flight of stairs slowly as when walking on the level. Ballroom dancing falls into the same category; sit out the more lively tunes and jitterbug numbers.

The basic cause of coronary thrombosis is hardening of the arteries. This process is not affected by activity except that exercise may lessen a high blood cholesterol, which is one of the causative factors in arteriosclerosis. The ex-coronary patient should avoid exertion during extremes in temperature and high winds. It is best to rest after eating because digestion adds to the burden of the heart.

(Dr. Van Dellen will send a leaflet on coronary disease if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

FEARS GERMS

Mrs. W. writes: Last year I had a friend for dinner. I washed her dishes with mine and used them the next day. Later I found out she has a touch of tuberculosis. Now I can't stop worrying about whether caught her germs. Is this possible?

REPLY

No. Forget it if your chest X-ray is now normal. The disease develops within a few months after contact and there is no need for concern if tuberculosis has not developed by now.

OLD AGE FRECKLES

D. H. writes: Is there something lacking in the system to cause senile freckles on the hands in the late 50s?

REPLY

Yes—youth. These spots appear sooner in some than in others and are more prevalent in persons who have been overexposed to the elements.

SUGAR AND CAVITIES

R. K. writes: Are the natural sugars, such as in fruits, as prone to cause dental cavities as are the manufactured sugars?

REPLY

No, because manufactured sugars usually are more concentrated and remain in contact with the teeth longer.

NOT TOO LONG

Mrs. D. writes: How long must a woman wait after a miscarriage before becoming pregnant again?

REPLY

Pregnancy is possible and safe within a month, depending upon the reestablishment of the menstrual cycle.

ARTHRITIS AND EXERCISE

H. C. C. writes: My husband is going to retire soon because of arthritis of the spine. Our doctor advises him not to sit around and get crippled. How much exercise or work can he do?

REPLY

This is a matter of trial and error but in general your husband should avoid undue strain from chores like heavy lifting. Bending exercises will keep the spine limber without doing harm.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Charles Pettibone is famous — and deeply admired — for his unique recipe for making pancakes. Here is his precious secret: "Whip up the pancakes just the way you always have. Then take the juice of one half lime, the juice of one half lemon, a generous jigger of bourbon, and one of maple syrup. Shake well with cracked ice, strain and decorate with fruit. This results in the finest whisky sour you have ever tasted. As for the pancakes . . . use them for potholders."

Mel Dodson, of Atlantic City, likes to ask the kids who wander into Convention Hall, "What's the difference between 'unlawful' and 'illegal?'" The answer, of course, is that "unlawful" means "against the law" and "illegal" is a sick bird.

The U. S. has a new type radar that can see things happening 5,000 miles away. Looks like that modern miracle of miracles — television — may have to take a back seat, after all.

King Francis of France had a costume covered by 13,600 buttons—Factographs. Must have been mighty uncomfortable when he sat down.

Ancient Egyptians raised chickens—historical item. Those pyramids must have made dandy roosts.

After having played "Eliza Doolittle" in "My Fair Lady" for hundreds of performances, actress Julie Andrews retires from the role. There's a girl who almost made a career of going from rags to riches.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Come next spring we'll all be singing "It Might As Well Be Spring" again because, for the third time, "State Fair" will be made by 20th, this new one starring Pat Boone.

Made originally in 1933 with Will Rogers, Janet Gaynor and Lew Ayres, it was a big hit as straight drama. Then in 1945 it was remade with the wonderful Hammerstein and Rodgers musical score, starring Dick Haymes and Jeanne Crain, and it set the whole world humming the beautiful tunes.

The third time around gets Pat Boone in Dick Haymes' part and it's a natural for Pat with his fine voice. Shirley Jones is top choice for the girl's role and by the time you read this she should be set. No one could sing it better. Now just completing "Journey To The Center Of The Earth," Pat has to turn his attention to his fall TV show before reporting for "State Fair" early in '60.

With a family in Italy and an uncle who is a count, Ernie Borgnine told me he is a little worried about the theme of the movie "Pay Or Die," an expose of the Mafia, or "black hand" as it was called.

"There could be some retaliation against my family," said Ernie, "because there probably still are some Mafia organizations in existence."

Ernie told me that he had given Mrs. Borgnine their home with swimming pool, a car, $2,000 a month for her and $150 for their daughter. He was very grateful when the judge said the sums were ample. He said he bears her no ill will, and hopes she will be happy. Ernie and Katy Jurado hope to be married in the church since neither were married in a religious ceremony heretofore, and have tentatively set the middle of September for the date.

Josh Logan feels he has achieved something of a casting scoop in getting Horst Buchholtz, 23-year-old German star, for the male lead in "Fanny." Buchholtz will star in Anita Loos' Broadway show, "Cherie," which will open in late fall, and he'll do the movie "Fanny" later.

When Josh met his seven-year-old daughter Sue (his and Nedra's daughter) who flew home over the polar route after spending the summer with her English nurse in London, she greeted her father in a very British accent with, "Daddy, I've had a terribly good time."

There was a widespread rumor that Yul Brynner had slipped into Mexico incognito to get a divorce from Virginia. But it's only a rumor. Yul is in Switzerland and is expected to stay there until Sept. 24 when he goes to England and Greece to star in "Winter Crossing" for Stanley Donen.

It's no secret that once again Yul and Virginia have separated and she is in Easthampton. Their son, Rocky, visits both his parents. But the Brynners have parted before and always Yul returns, realizing no matter how many other fascinating young females there are in the world, Virginia is best for him.

Shoppers at one of the leading grocery stores in Beverly Hills saw Anna Kashfi with her son, Christian Devi, sitting atop the shopping cart. He looks exactly like his father, Marlon Brando, with brown eyes and heavy brows.

Anna and the baby had taken all their shots and were ready to leave for India on a holiday when she received a letter from Brando's attorney telling her she could not take little Devi out of the country. Apparently the legal lights thought the child was too young to take to India, so far away from America. Anna seems to be afraid to talk — perhaps because she's been hurt so much.

One of the many lovers in the life of Lana Turner in "Streets Of Montmartre" will be Louis Jourdan. He's been signed by Allied Artists to co-star with Lana in the Stephen and Ethel Longstreet story which is being produced and directed by Douglas Sirk.

Louis will play Andrew Utter who was very much in love with the mother of the great painter Utrillo. The picture will be filmed abroad in the spring after Lana finishes "Portrait In Black" for Ross Hunter at Universal-International.

COOL OFF WITH FRESH PEARS—The best way to keep cool is to eat cool! Ice-cold pears (the extra-juicy fresh California Bartletts are at peak-season now) with a tart dressing and a few slices of cold meat and cheese make a refreshing summer antipasto. Or use the same good combination for a snack or cool luncheno salad. However you use them, use them now. It's a long, cold winter 'til next pear season!

'Platter-Pop Mix' Hit With Partying Teen-Agers

Teen-age platter parties can have a special perky pop these days. And it's the pop in popcorn that adds the perk.

The pin-up dish is Platter-Pop Mix. Combining popcorn with nuts and pretzels, bite-size shredded wheat, raisins, and popular flavor-filled condiments, it will hold the number one spot on any platter party's hit parade. (It's a favorite with "oldsters," too — even those well out of their teens.)

A close contestant for the No. 1 spot on the youngsters' hit parade is the caramel Apple Pop—a small red apple covered with a coating of caramel and popcorn. And here's a hint: start off with a jar of popcorn-in-oil to make things easier.

It's a record way for serving something special at the next teen-age popping platter party.

Platter-Pop Mix

- 1 9-oz. jar popcorn-in-oil
- 1 cup salted peanuts or mixed nuts
- 1 cup little pretzel sticks or nuggets
- 2 cups bite-size shredded wheat
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- ½ cup raisins
- ½ cup butter or margarine
- 2 teaspoons seasoned salt
- ¼ teaspoon chili powder

Prepare popcorn as directed on jar to make approximately 6 quarts. Reserve 1 to 1½ quarts for use in apple recipe (below). Combine remaining popcorn, approximately 5 quarts, with nuts, pretzel sticks or nuggets, cereal and raisins. Spread mixture in a large shallow baking or roasting pan. Melt butter, stir in seasonings and simmer minute or two. Drizzle buttery seasoning mixture over popcorn mixture, then toss or turn (use hands or large spoons) until well combined. Heat in a slow oven (250°) about 40 minutes, mixing and tossing again at the end of 20 minutes. Cool and heap in big bowl to serve. Makes approximately 6 quarts of crunchy pop mix.

Caramel Apple Pops

- 1 pound vanilla caramels
- 2 tablespoons hot water or coffee
- 6 small firm apples
- 1½ quarts popped corn

Combine caramels and water or coffee in top of double boiler and melt over hot water. Stir frequently until the sauce is smooth. Stick a metal or wooden skewer in the stem end of each apple. Dip apples, one at a time, in the hot sauce and turn until coated with caramel. Immediately dip coated apples into bowl of popcorn and turn until well coated. Place apples on wax paper or foil in cool place until ready to serve. Makes six apples.

Flavor Variations:

Use light cream or milk in place of water or coffee when melting caramels.

Season popcorn with a light sprinkle of cinnamon before dipping apples. This gives a pleasant spice flavor to the apples.

Sprinkle and mix popcorn with 1 tablespoon sweetened chocolate cocoa powder before dipping apples.

Drizzle each apple-on-a-stick with a tablespoon or more melted sweet cooking chocolate.

Mix about ½ cup finely chopped nuts with popcorn before dipping apples.

Short Cut Biscuit Tortoni

- 1 quart vanilla ice cream
- ¼ teaspoon almond extract
- 2 cups whole wheat shreds

Cut ice cream into thin slices and allow to soften slightly. Quickly blend almond extract and 1½ cups whole wheat shreds into softened ice cream. Pack ice cream mixture into a 3-cup refrigerator freezer tray. Top with remaining cereal. Freeze. To serve cut into squares or slices. Serve plain or topped with whipped cream, or a peach or cherry sauce. Yield: 6 servings.

Summer Desserts

During the hot summer months, most women share one thought . . . to stay out of the kitchen as much as possible. As a result, many summer meals are dull and unimaginative, the desserts flat and ordinary.

There is a way to spark meals with unusual desserts that require a minimum of baking and in some cases no baking at all. Prepared pie fillings provide the key to this culinary conquest. They may be used straight from the can by placing in sherbet dishes, topping with whipped cream and a cherry. Or, they may be used as a topping on ice cream, giving you the easiest dessert possible.

If the housewife feels a little more ambitious, she can use blueberry or peach pie mix between two sponge layers. Topped with the same mix, the cake is ready to serve. It's wonderful for individual sponge shells, too.

Here are more no-cook desserts:

Lady Fair

Use an 8-inch square or rectangular cake pan for this luscious frozen dessert which can be made in a few minutes. Split six lady fingers in half and line on bottom of pan. Pour one-half can of blueberry pie filling over the lady fingers. Place a layer of ice cream over the berries. Repeat with lady fingers, berries and ice cream. Freeze. Serve in slices topped with whipped cream.

Fruit Wafer Pie

Vanilla or chocolate wafers may be used for this simple to prepare summer dessert.

Line an 8 - inch cake pan (square) with 16 to 18 vanilla or chocolate wafers. Prepare vanilla or chocolate pudding. Cool. Pour over the wafers. Top with pineapple pie filling. Refrigerate for two to three hours. Slice and serve. Note: This may also be prepared in layers by repeating the process.

Pancakes

- 1 cup pancake mix
- 1 cup milk
- 1 egg
- 2 to 3 tablespoons fat, melted
- 1½ cups whole wheat flakes

Combine pancake mix, milk, egg, and melted fat. Stir just until dry ingredients are moistened. Fold in cereal. Pour batter (about 3 tablespoons) onto heated griddle. Bake until brown, edges dry, and top covered with bubbles. Turn and brown second side. Yield: 8 4-inch pancakes.

It's no secret that once again Yul and Virginia have separated and she is in Easthampton. Their son, Rocky, visits both his parents. But the Brynners have parted before and always Yul returns, realizing no matter how many other fascinating young females there are in the world, Virginia is best for him.

Shoppers at one of the leading grocery stores in Beverly Hills saw Anna Kashfi with her son, Christian Devi, sitting atop the shopping cart. He looks exactly like his father, Marlon Brando, with brown eyes and heavy brows.

Anna and the baby had taken all their shots and were ready to leave for India on a holiday when she received a letter from Brando's attorney telling her she could not take little Devi out of the country. Apparently the legal lights thought the child was too young to take to India, so far away from America. Anna seems to be afraid to talk — perhaps because she's been hurt so much.

One of the many lovers in the life of Lana Turner in "Streets Of Montmartre" will be Louis Jourdan. He's been signed by Allied Artists to co-star with Lana in the Stephen and Ethel Longstreet story which is being produced and directed by Douglas Sirk.

Louis will play Andrew Utter who was very much in love with the mother of the great painter Utrillo. The picture will be filmed abroad in the spring after Lana finishes "Portrait In Black" for Ross Hunter at Universal-International.

COOL OFF WITH FRESH PEARS—The best way to keep cool is to eat cool! Ice-cold pears (the extra-juicy fresh California Bartletts are at peak-season now) with a tart dressing and a few slices of cold meat and cheese make a refreshing summer antipasto. Or use the same good combination for a snack or cool luncheno salad. However you use them, use them now. It's a long, cold winter 'til next pear season!

'Platter-Pop Mix' Hit With Partying Teen-Agers

Teen-age platter parties can have a special perky pop these days. And it's the pop in popcorn that adds the perk.

The pin-up dish is Platter-Pop Mix. Combining popcorn with nuts and pretzels, bite-size shredded wheat, raisins, and popular flavor-filled condiments, it will hold the number one spot on any platter party's hit parade. (It's a favorite with "oldsters," too — even those well out of their teens.)

A close contestant for the No. 1 spot on the youngsters' hit parade is the caramel Apple Pop—a small red apple covered with a coating of caramel and popcorn. And here's a hint: start off with a jar of popcorn-in-oil to make things easier.

It's a record way for serving something special at the next teen-age popping platter party.

Platter-Pop Mix

- 1 9-oz. jar popcorn-in-oil
- 1 cup salted peanuts or mixed nuts
- 1 cup little pretzel sticks or nuggets
- 2 cups bite-size shredded wheat
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- ½ cup raisins
- ½ cup butter or margarine
- 2 teaspoons seasoned salt
- ¼ teaspoon chili powder

Prepare popcorn as directed on jar to make approximately 6 quarts. Reserve 1 to 1½ quarts for use in apple recipe (below). Combine remaining popcorn, approximately 5 quarts, with nuts, pretzel sticks or nuggets, cereal and raisins. Spread mixture in a large shallow baking or roasting pan. Melt butter, stir in seasonings and simmer minute or two. Drizzle buttery seasoning mixture over popcorn mixture, then toss or turn (use hands or large spoons) until well combined. Heat in a slow oven (250°) about 40 minutes, mixing and tossing again at the end of 20 minutes. Cool and heap in big bowl to serve. Makes approximately 6 quarts of crunchy pop mix.

Caramel Apple Pops

- 1 pound vanilla caramels
- 2 tablespoons hot water or coffee
- 6 small firm apples
- 1½ quarts popped corn

Combine caramels and water or coffee in top of double boiler and melt over hot water. Stir frequently until the sauce is smooth. Stick a metal or wooden skewer in the stem end of each apple. Dip apples, one at a time, in the hot sauce and turn until coated with caramel. Immediately dip coated apples into bowl of popcorn and turn until well coated. Place apples on wax paper or foil in cool place until ready to serve. Makes six apples.

Flavor Variations:

Use light cream or milk in place of water or coffee when melting caramels.

Season popcorn with a light sprinkle of cinnamon before dipping apples. This gives a pleasant spice flavor to the apples.

Sprinkle and mix popcorn with 1 tablespoon sweetened chocolate cocoa powder before dipping apples.

Drizzle each apple-on-a-stick with a tablespoon or more melted sweet cooking chocolate.

Mix about ½ cup finely chopped nuts with popcorn before dipping apples.

Short Cut Biscuit Tortoni

- 1 quart vanilla ice cream
- ¼ teaspoon almond extract
- 2 cups whole wheat shreds

Cut ice cream into thin slices and allow to soften slightly. Quickly blend almond extract and 1½ cups whole wheat shreds into softened ice cream. Pack ice cream mixture into a 3-cup refrigerator freezer tray. Top with remaining cereal. Freeze. To serve cut into squares or slices. Serve plain or topped with whipped cream, or a peach or cherry sauce. Yield: 6 servings.

Summer Desserts

During the hot summer months, most women share one thought . . . to stay out of the kitchen as much as possible. As a result, many summer meals are dull and unimaginative, the desserts flat and ordinary.

There is a way to spark meals with unusual desserts that require a minimum of baking and in some cases no baking at all. Prepared pie fillings provide the key to this culinary conquest. They may be used straight from the can by placing in sherbet dishes, topping with whipped cream and a cherry. Or, they may be used as a topping on ice cream, giving you the easiest dessert possible.

If the housewife feels a little more ambitious, she can use blueberry or peach pie mix between two sponge layers. Topped with the same mix, the cake is ready to serve. It's wonderful for individual sponge shells, too.

Here are more no-cook desserts:

Lady Fair

Use an 8-inch square or rectangular cake pan for this luscious frozen dessert which can be made in a few minutes. Split six lady fingers in half and line on bottom of pan. Pour one-half can of blueberry pie filling over the lady fingers. Place a layer of ice cream over the berries. Repeat with lady fingers, berries and ice cream. Freeze. Serve in slices topped with whipped cream.

Fruit Wafer Pie

Vanilla or chocolate wafers may be used for this simple to prepare summer dessert.

Line an 8-inch cake pan (square) with 16 to 18 vanilla or chocolate wafers. Prepare vanilla or chocolate pudding. Cool. Pour over the wafers. Top with pineapple pie filling. Refrigerate for two to three hours. Slice and serve. Note: This may also be prepared in layers by repeating the process.

Pancakes

- 1 cup pancake mix
- 1 cup milk
- 1 egg
- 2 to 3 tablespoons fat, melted
- 1½ cups whole wheat flakes

Combine pancake mix, milk, egg, and melted fat. Stir just until dry ingredients are moistened. Fold in cereal. Pour batter (about 3 tablespoons) onto heated griddle. Bake until brown, edges dry, and top covered with bubbles. Turn and brown second side. Yield: 8 4-inch pancakes.

Opening lead: King of ♣.

A slip in the defense permitted declarer to make a game contract today against a very bad trump break.

South was presented with an immediate problem after West's opening one club bid was raised to two. South's holding surely looks like a game in hand; he must, therefore, make a bid which will insure reaching a game contract and yet allow for the possibility that the hand might have to play in diamonds or spades if partner happens to be very short in hearts and long in either of the other two suits.

The only way to make a 100 per cent game forcing bid is to "cue" the opponents' suit. Such a bid announces the ability to win the first trick, but South decided to tell this little white lie, as the best means of describing a hand that was a game in itself. North had no choice but to keep the bidding open which at the time he found anything but pleasant. Fortunately, South realized his partner was broke and did not prolong the agony.

The king of clubs was opened and the suit continued, South ruffing. The ace of hearts revealed the bad news in trumps and South shifted to the ace and queen of spades. West won and had he returned a third round of spades, retaining the jack of clubs for a future exit card, the contract would have been set, but he continued to force declarer, who was now reduced to three trumps.

All the high diamonds and the remaining spade were now cashed and West was given the lead with the ten of trumps. His last two cards were the queen and eight of hearts from which he was obliged to lead into declarer's ace-nine. The possession of the jack of clubs at this time would have been a great comfort.

Simple Egg Test

When in doubt about the freshness of eggs, here's a simple test: Add two teaspoonfuls of salt to a cup filled with water. A fresh egg will sink to the bottom of the cup, but a doubtful egg will float.

Corned Beef Cue

Carving brisket corned beef? Glance at the lean side of the brisket to see how the grain of the meat goes, then slice thinly across it.

Lamb Stew 'n' Dumplings

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Lamb Stew:

2 lb. boneless lamb shoulder, cubed
3 tablespoons melted shortening
4 cups hot water
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons cold water
2 tablespoons flour
8 medium carrots, cut in quarters
3 medium onions, cut in half
½ cup chopped celery
One 10-oz. pkg. frozen peas

Dumplings:

One 12-oz. pkg. corn muffin mix
1 egg
⅓ cup milk
¼ cup chopped parsley

Dredge meat with a little flour; brown meat in melted shortening in 4½ quart Dutch oven or deep kettle. Add hot water, salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce; cover and simmer 1 hour. Stir occasionally to prevent sticking. Combine cold water and flour to form paste. Gradually stir into meat mixture. Add carrots, onions, celery; continue cooking about 15 minutes. Add peas.

For dumplings, empty contents of package into bowl; add egg, milk, and parsley. Mix until well blended. Drop by tablespoons on top of gently boiling stew. Cover tightly; simmer 15 minutes. (Don't peek, for that will make heavy dumplings.) Serve immediately.

Making corn fritters? You'll need four medium-sized ears of corn to yield a cup of cut corn kernels.

Jam Is Magic For Table And Lunches

To have delicious homemade pear jam on the table all winter long, you must make it now. Make it, of course, the quick, short-boil way with powdered fruit pectin. Here's the easy recipe.

Pear Jam

Yield: about 9 medium glasses (4½ lbs. jam)

4 cups prepared fruit (about 3 lbs. ripe pears)
5 cups (2-¼ lbs.) sugar
1 box (1¾ oz.) powdered fruit pectin.

First, prepare the fruit. Peel and core about 3 pounds fully ripe pears. Chop very fine or grind. Measure 4 cups into a very large saucepan.

Then make the jam. Measure sugar and set aside. Add powdered fruit pectin to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover jam at once with ⅛ inch hot paraffin. If jars are used, seal.

Pineapple Bavarian Cream

Many people shy away from Bavarian creams because they seem too difficult to make. Here is a simple version of a hot summer favorite.

Prepare a package of lemon gelatin. Refrigerate until almost firm. Whip one cup of sweet cream until stiff. Beat gelatin until it is foamy. Combine whipped cream and one cup of pineapple pie filling. Spoon into one quart mold or six to eight individual molds. Then set, unmold and garnish with cherries.

Processing Foods

The proper strength salt solution for processing vegetables for freezer storage needn't be a matter of guesswork. The Salt Institute offers these measurements for most commonly used concentrations:

A two per cent salt solution is approximately one heaping tablespoon of salt to one quart of water.

A three per cent solution is approximately one-and-one-half tablespoon of salt per quart of water.

Apple Chutney

2½ cups (1 can) sliced apples
1 cup light brown sugar
¼ cup cider vinegar
½ cup slivered candied ginger
½ cup thinly sliced onion
1 cup seedless white raisins
1 teaspoon chili powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons mustard seeds
½ cup diced pimiento
½ cup chopped walnut meats

Chop apples; combine with sugar, ginger, onion, raisins, chili powder, salt and mustard seeds. Bring to boil; simmer about 30 minutes. Add pimiento and nut meats. Makes about 2½ cups.

WIFE PRESERVERS

When you have fresh pineapple, save the top and plant it in a pint jar of water. It will sprout and root, making an exotic, palm-like plant.

A single particle of surface soil may contain 60 million bacteria.

Jam Is Magic For Table And Lunches

To have delicious homemade pear jam on the table all winter long, you must make it now. Make it, of course, the quick, short-boil way with powdered fruit pectin. Here's the easy recipe.

Pear Jam

Yield: about 9 medium glasses (4½ lbs. jam)

1 box (1¾ oz.) powdered fruit pectin.

First, prepare the fruit. Peel and core about 3 pounds fully ripe pears. Chop very fine or grind. Measure 4 cups into a very large saucepan.

Then make the jam. Measure sugar and set aside. Add powdered fruit pectin to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover jam at once with ⅛ inch hot paraffin. If jars are used, seal.

Pineapple Bavarian Cream

Many people shy away from Bavarian creams because they seem too difficult to make. Here is a simple version of a hot summer favorite.

Prepare a package of lemon gelatin. Refrigerate until almost firm. Whip one cup of sweet cream until stiff. Beat gelatin until it is foamy. Combine whipped cream and one cup of pineapple pie filling. Spoon into one quart mold or six to eight individual molds. Then set, unmold and garnish with cherries.

Processing Foods

The proper strength salt solution for processing vegetables for freezer storage needn't be a matter of guesswork. The Salt Institute offers these measurements for most commonly used concentrations:

A two per cent salt solution is approximately one heaping tablespoon of salt to one quart of water.

A three per cent solution is approximately one-and-one-half tablespoon of salt per quart of water.

Apple Chutney

2½ cups (1 can) sliced apples
1 cup light brown sugar
¼ cup cider vinegar
½ cup slivered candied ginger
½ cup thinly sliced onion
1 cup seedless white raisins
1 teaspoon chili powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons mustard seeds
½ cup diced pimiento
½ cup chopped walnut meats

Chop apples; combine with sugar, ginger, onion, raisins, chili powder, salt and mustard seeds. Bring to boil; simmer about 30 minutes. Add pimiento and nut meats. Makes about 2½ cups.

WIFE PRESERVERS

When you have fresh pineapple, save the top and plant it in a pint jar of water. It will sprout and root, making an exotic, palm-like plant.

A single particle of surface soil may contain 60 million bacteria.

Shrimp Kabobs

INGREDIENTS:

2 green peppers
4 tomatoes

God's Less Angry Man

David Susskind, still God's angry man but not as angry as last year, is plunging into a fall schedule that would curl the hair of a less energetic man, his metabolism purring along at a rate that makes me nervous to think about.

To put it as succinctly as possible, Susskind this fall will do forty-one television specials ($15,000,000 worth); he's got two plays under option he hopes to get on this season; and in a spare minute he plans to do the film of the Critics Award winning play "Raisin in the Sun."

Everyone needles Susskind about the fact that he won't take a chance on an author unless her name is Charlotte Bronte, so I asked him about his avoidance of originals the other day: "I don't feel I should be on the defensive," said Mr. Susskind blithely. "Talent Associates (his company) is doing some originals. But I never stressed preference for originals. I spoke up for quality and for living television from New York and I still do.

"We're doing an original with Art Carney (no puppets, thank God) which is an adult review of our shrinking world. It's good; it has a point of view and it's original, being written by Sheldon Keller and Larry Geibhardt. I have an original called 'Full Moon over Brooklyn' which is what Wolcott Gibbs was writing at the time of his death. Ann Honeycutt is pulling it together for us. Carney will be in that one, too. Altogether, Carney will be doing eight specials."

The largest single operation of the Susskind entertainment foundry this year will be the birth of famous old movies on TV. By this I don't mean they're going to get the prints of old movies and run them, which would be sensible. But distinguished old movies such as "Mrs. Miniver," "The Bells of St. Mary's," "The Philadelphia Story," "Ninotchka," will be done live from New York with brand new casts to what could easily be the outraged howls of all the fans of the fine movies that many of us saw and loved.

Re-doing them now presents great problems. For instance, "Mrs. Miniver" was a stiff-upper-lip British war tale whose timeliness is now dissipated. "Let's take 'Body and Soul,'" said Susskind. "It was a good movie with John Garfield but that whole depression culture is gone. The depression which was the goad that made the kid rise in the fight game is all gone.

"What Eliot Asinof has done in adapting the script is to make our hero a Puerto Rican, living here in poverty. We've created a whole new world for him to move around in. It's similar to the world of the original hero but it makes more sense today. General Mills bought these great properties to be modernized, to be cast differently if we have to, to have the outlook changed for today's audience. Today sponsors are looking for pre-sold properties and you can't really blame them. The stakes are so large in television and the special is such a one-shot business. After all, the movies have always looked for pre-sold properties such as books and plays that have been hits in another medium."

The Susskind office gets about eighty original manuscripts a week, all of which are read, and most of which, according to Mr. Susskind, are dreadful. "Almost 100 per cent of them are concerned with aberrations of human behavior — dope addicts, homosexuals, alcoholics. One script arrived on birchbark in a seachest. The reader got splinters."

The sponsors will not run any risks on new stories. Not only that but a sponsor of a gay musical will even complain if the show before him is too grim and sometimes he can succeed in getting it off the air so that the viewer will arrive at his musical in the proper frame of mind.

Susskind still fiercely defends the doing of classics on TV, arguing that it's the only exposure to classics for today's illiterate generation which simply doesn't read. He's particularly proud of an adaptation of "Don Quixote" that his office will do this year. "I've read 500 originals and none of them compare with this script of 'Don Quixote.'"

Cervantes could even elbow Charlotte Bronte out of Mr. Susskind's affections and take his place at the head of the table.

MINT-TEA TREAT—Just pour six cups of boiling water over four tea bags and ½ cup of mints in your china or pottery teapot. Peppermint, lime or lemon flavored mints give the most refreshing taste. Cover and let tea steep three to five minutes. Because mints are made of pure sugar, you'll find they dissolve quickly in the boiling brew. To serve, strain and pour tea over crushed ice in tall glasses.

Barbecued Chateaubriand With Satellite Sauce

Curiosity about outer space may increase our appetite for adventure, but earthly appetites for rich, juicy steak in the summertime seem to take on cosmic proportions, too. Here is a star of the barbecue which will bring a twinkle to the eyes of all beholders: the family-size Chateaubriand, which can be carved and served in slices with Satellite Sauce for elegant entertaining or as French-dip sandwiches for a more informal gathering. Any one of the beef cuts listed below, prepared with meat tenderizer to insure juiciness, tenderness, and fullness of flavor, makes a heavenly barbecue for family and friends.

Choose one of the following cuts, approximately 2 inches thick—weighing 3 to 4 pounds, for a family-size Chateaubriand:

1. Top round
2. Sirloin tip
3. Bottom round
4. Heel of round
5. Round bone chuck

Ingredients (for 6 servings):

1 family-size steak, selected from cuts above

For Satellite Sauce:

1 cup tomato sauce
½ cup California red wine
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 teaspoon Meat Tenderizer
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 tablespoon Worcestershire
1 clove garlic, pressed or minced
¼ cup fresh chopped parsley

In Advance:

1. Sprinkle both sides of steak with seasoned meat tenderizer as you would salt; do not add salt.
2. Work in deeply at one-inch intervals with sharp kitchen fork, to insure penetration of the tenderizer and seal in juices and flavor.
3. Let stand at room temperature 1 hour, or cover loosely and refrigerate overnight.
4. Combine all ingredients for sauce except parsley and simmer 5 minutes. Cool, then refrigerate until barbecue time.

At Barbecue Time:

1. The barbecue fire can be started easily with a charcoal lighter in the new aerosol can. Set grill 2 inches above coals.
2. Reheat Satellite Sauce, adding parsley; have handy at side of grill.
3. When charcoal is gray, shot with a ruddy glow, brush steak with Satellite Sauce and place on grill; cook 35 minutes for rare, 38 minutes for medium, frequently turning and basting with sauce.
4. When steak is finished, remove from grill; let stand on meat board 5 minutes; then carve in diagonal slices against the grain, about ¼ inch thick.
5. To serve, ladle Satellite Sauce over each serving. If you wish to serve the steak slices in French-dip sandwiches, have hard-crusted French rolls ready—heated and cut in half; dip each half of roll into sauce, place steak slices generously on rolls, and serve with crisp pickle slices. More sauce can also be ladled over the sandwiches if they are to be served open-faced.

Accompaniments to put in orbit around the steak are a huge relish tray of crisp summer vegetables — green onions, carrots, celery, radishes; hot corn on the cob—wrapped in foil and roasted on the grill; and ice-cold watermelon cut in long, thin wedges and served on a stick. All of it is finger food—a necessity for a down-to-earth barbecue-picnic

Zippy Sandwiches

For especially tasty sandwiches, try sprinkling salt on the bread before it is buttered, instead of salting after the filling is added. Pre-salting of the bread brings out the flavor of the bread as well as the filling.

Be sure to bring a meringue, spread over a pie filling, well out to the edge of the crust before browning in the oven.

Cheese Sauce For Frozen Vegetables

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1½ tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon dry mustard
1 cup milk
½ cup grated sharp cheese

Melt butter or margarine in saucepan or top part of double boiler over low heat or over boiling water. Mix flour, salt, pepper and mustard and stir into melted shortening. Stir in milk and continue stirring while cooking over low heat until thickened. Melt grated cheese evenly into sauce. Serve with frozen cooked vegetables. Add broiled bacon curls if desired.

A combination of frozen fruits of contrasting color tops off this vegetable and cheese meal to perfection. Or, if desired, a frozen fruit dessert pie, just baked and still warm and fragrant, is wonderful.

Washington Routs Panama In Legion Regional, 20-3

Bob McCarthy Whiffs 17 For Gaslight Post

Parkersburg, W.Va., Stays In Tourney, Tops Delaware, 4-2

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Washington buried Panama 20-3 Thursday as winning righthander Bob McCarthy struck out 17 in the American Legion Junior Baseball Regional Tournament here.

Parkersburg, W. Va., stayed alive in the double elimination playoffs by downing Wilmington, Del., 4-2. Wilmington was eliminated. A sterling pitching performance also featured that game as Parkersburg reliefer Larry Wilson proved tough in clutches.

McCarthy, a 17-year-old junior at St. Johns high in the capital, gave up only one run to the youngsters south of the border, until they pushed across a harmless pair in the ninth inning. He yielded five hits and walked seven but most of the time forced the Panamanians to swing futilely at the air.

Defending champion Washington was led by Jim Reich who batted in six runs with a double and two singles. Ken Claro's three - run homer, featured the eight-run second inning. Eight errors marred Panama's showing.

In the second game, Wilson relieved Chuck Brown on the mound in the fourth with the bases loaded and one out. He got the next hitter on a pop up and struck out the following batter, then shut out the Delaware team the rest of the way.

Mike Hayden rapped two singles and had an RBI for the Mountaineer State team.

Both Delaware runs were driven in by Dave Morris.

Frick Upholds Yankee Protest

CHICAGO (UPI) — Protests by the New York Yankees against playing a night game with the Chicago White Sox were upheld Thursday by Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick.

Frick notified White Sox President Bill Veeck that the Yankees were within their rights in insisting that the game be played in the afternoon.

The Yankee protest marked the first time that players had expressed formal indignation and insisted on enforcement of the rule which calls for mutual agreement when a night game is scheduled on the final day of a series.

Frick agreed with a previous ruling by American League President Joe Cronin that the game, a replay of a 4-4 six-inning affair rained out July 29, should be rescheduled for the afternoon of Aug. 24. He said both sides must be in agreement and the Yankees obviously were against Veeck's planned night game on that date.

The Yanks are scheduled for a night game at Cleveland, Aug. 25.

Covington Injured

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Wes Covington of the Milwaukee Braves twisted his right ankle sliding into second base in the third inning of Thursday night's game with the San Francisco Giants. He was carried from the field on a stretcher and taken to a hospital for X rays.

Moore, Bassey Split $47,000

By JOE ST. AMANT

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —World featherweight champion Davey Moore, the Springfield, Ohio, sharpshooter, and twice-beaten Hogan (Kid) Bassey divided a melon of slightly more than $47,000 Thursday and the Nigerian battler prepared to return home to possible retirement from the ring.

Bassey "retired" Wednesday night after a 10-round battle during which he was an often-hit target of Moore's rifle-shot left hook.

As the bell sounded for the start of the 11th round, the chocolate-colored African told referee Frankie Van, "No. . .no more."

Under California Athletic Commission rules Van called it an 11 round kayo by Moore.

Eye Closed, Nose Cut

Bassey's right eye was closed by a cut along his nose and he said he hurt his right hand in the fifth round and could not punch with it from then on.

A crowd of paying customers tossed a gross of $46,248.22 into the Olympic Auditorium till to watch the rematch between the little fellows.

Moore won the 126-pound title from Bassey last March 18 at the same arena when the Nigerian failed to come out for the 13th round because of cuts over his eyes.

The net gate, according to Olympic promoters, was $38,796.

Thus each fighter received approximately $23,638.

Deane Beman Wins Trans-Miss Match

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Defending champion Jackie Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, hitting with overpowering strength off the tee, led a corps of favorites into the third round of the Trans - Mississippi Amateur Golf Tournament Thursday.

The muscular young Walker Cupper crushed Earl Larson, a 47-year-old Minneapolis attorney, 7 and 6, in the lead off match of the morning round.

British amateur champion Deane Beman of Silver Spring, Md., also advanced into the afternoon round in a 3 and 2 struggle with Minneapolis veteran Ade Simonsen.

Rio pleaded guilty in Ann Arbor Municipal Court last November to a charge of engaging in an illegal occupation.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — X-rays showed Thursday that Gene Conley of the Philadelphia Phillies suffered a fracture in his pitching hand when he was struck by a ball hurled by Glen Hobbie of the Chicago Cubs in a game last night.

Washington Routs Panama In Legion Regional, 20-3

Bob McCarthy Whiffs 17 For Gaslight Post

Parkersburg, W.Va., Stays In Tourney, Tops Delaware, 4-2

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Washington buried Panama 20-3 Thursday as winning righthander Bob McCarthy struck out 17 in the American Legion Junior Baseball Regional Tournament here.

Parkersburg, W. Va., stayed alive in the double elimination playoffs by downing Wilmington, Del., 4-2. Wilmington was eliminated. A sterling pitching performance also featured that game as Parkersburg reliefer Larry Wilson proved tough in clutches.

McCarthy, a 17-year-old junior at St. Johns high in the capital, gave up only one run to the youngsters south of the border, until they pushed across a harmless pair in the ninth inning. He yielded five hits and walked seven but most of the time forced the Panamanians to swing futilely at the air.

Defending champion Washington was led by Jim Reich who batted in six runs with a double and two singles. Ken Claro's three - run homer, featured the eight-run second inning. Eight errors marred Panama's showing.

In the second game, Wilson relieved Chuck Brown on the mound in the fourth with the bases loaded and one out. He got the next hitter on a pop up and struck out the following batter, then shut out the Delaware team the rest of the way.

Mike Hayden rapped two singles and had an RBI for the Mountaineer State team.

Both Delaware runs were driven in by Dave Morris.

Frick Upholds Yankee Protest

CHICAGO (UPI) — Protests by the New York Yankees against playing a night game with the Chicago White Sox were upheld Thursday by Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick.

Frick notified White Sox President Bill Veeck that the Yankees were within their rights in insisting that the game be played in the afternoon.

The Yankee protest marked the first time that players had expressed formal indignation and insisted on enforcement of the rule which calls for mutual agreement when a night game is scheduled on the final day of a series.

Frick agreed with a previous ruling by American League President Joe Cronin that the game, a replay of a 4-4 six-inning affair rained out July 29, should be rescheduled for the afternoon of Aug. 24. He said both sides must be in agreement and the Yankees obviously were against Veeck's planned night game on that date.

The Yanks are scheduled for a night game at Cleveland, Aug. 25.

Covington Injured

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Wes Covington of the Milwaukee Braves twisted his right ankle sliding into second base in the third inning of Thursday night's game with the San Francisco Giants. He was carried from the field on a stretcher and taken to a hospital for X rays.

Moore, Bassey Split $47,000

By JOE ST. AMANT

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —World featherweight champion Davey Moore, the Springfield, Ohio, sharpshooter, and twice-beaten Hogan (Kid) Bassey divided a melon of slightly more than $47,000 Thursday and the Nigerian battler prepared to return home to possible retirement from the ring.

Bassey "retired" Wednesday night after a 10-round battle during which he was an often-hit target of Moore's rifle-shot left hook.

As the bell sounded for the start of the 11th round, the chocolate-colored African told referee Frankie Van, "No. . no more."

Under California Athletic Commission rules Van called it an 11 round kayo by Moore.

Eye Closed, Nose Cut

Bassey's right eye was closed by a cut along his nose and he said he hurt his right hand in the fifth round and could not punch with it from then on.

A crowd of paying customers tossed a gross of $46,248.22 into the Olympic Auditorium till to watch the rematch between the little fellows.

Moore won the 126-pound title from Bassey last March 18 at the same arena when the Nigerian failed to come out for the 13th round because of cuts over his eyes.

The net gate, according to Olympic promoters, was $38,796.

Thus each fighter received approximately $23,638.

Deane Beman Wins Trans-Miss Match

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Defending champion Jackie Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, hitting with overpowering strength off the tee, led a corps of favorites into the third round of the Trans - Mississippi Amateur Golf Tournament Thursday.

British amateur champion Deane Beman of Silver Spring, Md., also advanced into the afternoon round in a 3 and 2 struggle with Minneapolis veteran Ade Simonsen.

Senators Lose To Grant 11th Straight Time

Indians Score 6-1 Win; Pedro Ramos Loses 15th Game

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Jim Grant extended his amazing jinx over the Washington Senators to 11 straight games Thursday by pitching the Cleveland Indians to a three-hit, 6-1 victory.

Woodie Held's 23rd homer of the year with one on in the seventh broke a 1-1 tie in Grant's duel with Pedro Ramos. Ramos, who suffered his 15th defeat, left for a pinch hitter in the eighth and the Indians scored their final three runs in that frame off Dick Hyde.

Grant, since joining the Tribe a year ago, never has lost to the Senators. He beat them five consecutive times last season in compiling a 10-10 record and has picked up six of his eight victories this year at Washington's expense.

The sophomore right hander, given a 1-0 lead in the third on Ed Fitzgerald's homer, retired the first 12 men to face him before Julio Becquer's leadoff single in the fifth. The Senators tied the score in the sixth on a walk to Billy Consolo, Ramos' sacrifice and Bob Allison's double.

Becquer also got the third hit off Grant, a single in the seventh. Against Hyde, the Indians gave Grant a cushion on singles by Vic Power, Minnie Minoso and Tito Francona, Rocky Colavito's long foul fly that scored a man from third, and shortstop Zorro Versalles' error.

Even Up Series, Final Set Monday

Avening an 11-0 licking on Tuesday, the B.P.O. Elks came back with a 14-hit assault to wallop the Loyal Order of Moose yesterday at Stitcher Field by the score of 8-0 and evened up their Rocking Chair Softball League semi-final playoff series at one-all.

Jack Connolly, Bob Pence and Johnny Cox shared nine of the 14 hits while Connolly turned in several nice running catches in left field and Cox played a bang-up game at short. Connolly slammed a triple and Pence rapped a two-bagger.

The Elks collected nine hits off Dick Klavuhn, who retired in the fourth in favor of Webb Hull.

Bill Underdonk, Elks' ace, yielded only six hits, two of which were credited to Manager Woody Woodson.

Bob Cerv Hits Three Homers But KC Loses

Boston Captures 11-10 Slugfest

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Bob Cerv hit three home runs Thursday for Kansas City but Boston beat out a steady barrage of base hits that gave the Red Sox an 11-10 victory.

It took the combined relief pitching talents of Mike Fornieles and Tom Brewer to stave off the A's in the eighth and ninth innings.

Fornieles gave up Cerv's third home run in the eighth but he managed to get out with Boston still ahead at 11-10. But when Frank House opened the last of the ninth with a double, Brewer came in to choke off the budding rally. He grabbed Wayne Terwilliger's bunt and threw House out at third and struck out Hal Smith. Then after giving up a single to Bill Tuttle, he struck out Russ Snyder to end the game.

Cerv drove in six runs with his three homers. There were two five-run innings, one for Boston and one for the A's. Eleven pitchers were put on parade, six for the Athletics and five for Boston. There were 29 hits, 12 bases on balls, three wild pitches, a passed ball and a balk.

The victory went to Earl Wilson, the third Boston pitcher, who also drove in three runs with a double and single.

The loser was Tom Sturdivant, who took the brunt of a five-hit, five-run Boston attack in the seventh inning.

Dempsey Vs. Louis

NEW YORK (UPI) — Would Jack Dempsey or Joe Louis have won, had they met in their primes? The answer may have been indicated when fat Tony Galento imitated Dempsey's bob-weave on June 28, 1939, staggered Louis in the first round and floored him in the third; but came up for air in the fourth and was knocked out.

Chicago Uses Seven Hurlers But Loses, 7-6

Baltimore Gets 13 Hits; Wilhelm Posts 12th Win

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Baltimore Orioles batted against all but three of the Chicago White Sox's pitchers Thursday and combed the seven hurlers for 13 hits and a 7-6 triumph to cut the league-leading Chisox's margin over the runner-up Cleveland Indians to 2½ games.

Hoyt Wilhelm worked six innings for the winners, giving up five hits and four runs, only two of them earned, to win his 12th game. Billy Loes went the final three frames, allowing five hits also and two runs.

Baltimore climbed on Sox starter Barry Latman for two singles, a double and a sacrifice fly to score three runs in the first inning with the aid of one error. Latman allowed another run on a double and a single before he was replaced by Rudolfo Arias in the third.

The Orioles next tagged Ray Moore for a run in the fifth on two walks around a single plus a forceout and netted their final pair on two singles, a walk and another single off Ken McBride in the seventh.

Other Sox pitchers were Turk Lown, Gerry Staley and Bob Shaw, while the only moundsmen who didn't get into action were Early Wynn, Billy Pierce and Dick Donovan. Latman suffered his fifth defeat.

Two of the Sox runs resulted from Wilhelm's butterfly pitches. In the fourth, Billy Goodman was safe at first after striking out on one of the knuckle baller's offerings, which rolled to the backstop, and scored on Jim McAnany's single. In the sixth, Luis Aparicio went from first to third on a wild pitch which rolled to the backstop and scored on a passed ball.

Colts To Meet Giants Tonight In Cotton Bowl

50,000 May Witness Exhibition Contest

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)— The champion Baltimore Colts and New York Giants, both keyed up at the chance to "relive" their 23-17 overtime championship thriller of last season, tangle in a National Football League exhibition game in the Cotton Bowl Friday night.

Between 50,000 and 60,000 fans are expected for the contest which will be videotaped for national telecasts (CBS) later in the evening.

Coach Weeb Ewbank of the Colts and Jim Lee Howell of the Giants brought their clubs to town Wednesday and held light workouts in the bowl Thursday afternoon.

Ewbank said it was very doubtful if either back Alan Ameche or end Raymond Berry would see action due to knee injuries suffered in last week's victory over the college all-stars. Neither injury appears serious, but that he didn't want to run the risk of antagonizing them.

The Giants also had a doubtful starter in end Kyle Rote, nursing a hip bruise.

Howell said he planned to start George Shaw, obtained from the Colts since last season, at quarterback against the Colts' Johnny Unitas, the man who beat Shaw out of his job with the champions.

Kroll, Goalby, Palmer Shoot 66s At Akron

Fifty Better Par In Opening Round

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The $22,000 Rubber City open turned into a par-busting spree Thursday for America's touring golf professionals.

Fifty of the starting field of 132 matched or bettered the card over the 6,620-yard, par 71 Firestone Country Club course.

Out front at the end of the first day's play in quest of the $2,800 first prize were Ted Kroll of Sarasota, Fla., who hasn't won a tournament since he took the world title in 1956; Arnold Palmer of Ligonier, Pa., the former Masters champion who won here in 1957; and Bob Goalby of Crystal River, Fla.

Each had a 66 — five under par, but all three had plenty of talent snapping at their heels. Six others were deadlocked at 67; six more at 68; 13 at 69 and a dozen at 70.

In the 67 deadlock were Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa., Bill Casper Jr. of Apple Valley, Calif., Tom Nieporte of Bronxville, N.Y., Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla., Bill Parker of Tulsa, Okla.; and Tony Lema of San Leandro, Calif.

Von Clay To Fight Sonny Ray Tonight

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Von Clay, promising light heavyweight whose name and attitude is much like that of a Hessian mercenary, will risk his undefeated record Friday night when he meets sixth-ranked Sonny Ray of Chicago in a nationally-televised 10-round bout.

The 20-year-old West Philadelphia battler, who has scored seven knockouts in compiling a 9-0-1 record, said he didn't start boxing to become a champion—just to make money.

But the real money is at the top of any division and that is the direction in which the hungry youngster hopes to take a giant stride when he meets the more experienced Ray.

The windy city campaigner, who boasts a 19-5-5 log, can't afford to take the unranked fledgling lightly for Clay stopped veteran Clarence Hinnant in his last outing.

Cleveland Whittles Lead Of White Sox To 2½ Games

Senators Lose To Grant 11th Straight Time

Indians Score 6-1 Win; Pedro Ramos Loses 15th Game

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Jim Grant extended his amazing jinx over the Washington Senators to 11 straight games Thursday by pitching the Cleveland Indians to a three-hit, 6-1 victory.

Woodie Held's 23rd homer of the year with one on in the seventh broke a 1-1 tie in Grant's duel with Pedro Ramos. Ramos, who suffered his 15th defeat, left for a pinch hitter in the eighth and the Indians scored their final three runs in that frame off Dick Hyde.

Grant, since joining the Tribe a year ago, never has lost to the Senators. He beat them five consecutive times last season in compiling a 10-10 record and has picked up six of his eight victories this year at Washington's expense.

The sophomore right hander, given a 1-0 lead in the third on Ed Fitzgerald's homer, retired the first 12 men to face him before Julio Becquer's leadoff single in the fifth. The Senators tied the score in the sixth on a walk to Billy Consolo, Ramos' sacrifice and Bob Allison's double.

Becquer also got the third hit off Grant, a single in the seventh. Against Hyde, the Indians gave Grant a cushion on singles by Vic Power, Minnie Minoso and Tito Francona, Rocky Colavito's long foul fly that scored a man from third, and shortstop Zorro Versalles' error.

Even Up Series, Final Set Monday

Avening an 11-0 licking on Tuesday, the B.P.O. Elks came back with a 14-hit assault to wallop the Loyal Order of Moose yesterday at Stitcher Field by the score of 8-0 and evened up their Rocking Chair Softball League semi-final playoff series at one-all.

Jack Connolly, Bob Pence and Johnny Cox shared nine of the 14 hits while Connolly turned in several nice running catches in left field and Cox played a bang-up game at short. Connolly slammed a triple and Pence rapped a two-bagger.

The Elks collected nine hits off Dick Klavuhn, who retired in the fourth in favor of Webb Hull.

Bill Underdonk, Elks' ace, yielded only six hits, two of which were credited to Manager Woody Woodson.

The "rubber" game in the Elks-Moose series is set for Monday at 6 p. m., at Stitcher Field.

Today the V.F.W. and K. of C. meet at Stitcher Field in the third and deciding game of their series at 6 p. m. Yesterday's score:

Moose	000 000 0—0 6	3

Bob Cerv Hits Three Homers But KC Loses

Boston Captures 11-10 Slugfest

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Bob Cerv hit three home runs Thursday for Kansas City but Boston beat out a steady barrage of base hits that gave the Red Sox an 11-10 victory.

It took the combined relief pitching talents of Mike Fornieles and Tom Brewer to stave off the A's in the eighth and ninth innings.

Fornieles gave up Cerv's third home run in the eighth but he managed to get out with Boston still ahead at 11-10. But when Frank House opened the last of the ninth with a double, Brewer came in to choke off the budding rally. He grabbed Wayne Terwilliger's bunt and threw House out at third and struck out Hal Smith. Then after giving up a single to Bill Tuttle, he struck out Russ Snyder to end the game.

Cerv drove in six runs with his three homers. There were two five-run innings, one for Boston and one for the A's. Eleven pitchers were put on parade, six for the Athletics and five for Boston. There were 29 hits, 12 bases on balls, three wild pitches, a passed ball and a balk.

The victory went to Earl Wilson, the third Boston pitcher, who also drove in three runs with a double and single.

The loser was Tom Sturdivant, who took the brunt of a five-hit, five-run Boston attack in the seventh inning.

Dempsey Vs. Louis

NEW YORK (UPI) — Would Jack Dempsey or Joe Louis have won, had they met in their primes? The answer may have been indicated when fat Tony Galento imitated Dempsey's bob-weave on June 28, 1939, staggered Louis in the first round and floored him in the third; but came up for air in the fourth and was knocked out.

Chicago Uses Seven Hurlers But Loses, 7-6

Baltimore Gets 13 Hits; Wilhelm Posts 12th Win

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Baltimore Orioles batted against all but three of the Chicago White Sox's pitchers Thursday and combed the seven hurlers for 13 hits and a 7-6 triumph to cut the league-leading Chisox's margin over the runner-up Cleveland Indians to 2½ games.

Hoyt Wilhelm worked six innings for the winners, giving up five hits and four runs, only two of them earned, to win his 12th game. Billy Loes went the final three frames, allowing five hits also and two runs.

Baltimore climbed on Sox starter Barry Latman for two singles, a double and a sacrifice fly to score three runs in the first inning with the aid of one error. Latman allowed another run on a double and a single before he was replaced by Rudolfo Arias in the third.

The Orioles next tagged Ray Moore for a run in the fifth on two walks around a single plus a forceout and netted their final pair on two singles, a walk and another single off Ken McBride in the seventh.

Other Sox pitchers were Turk Lown, Gerry Staley and Bob Shaw, while the only moundsmen who didn't get into action were Early Wynn, Billy Pierce and Dick Donovan. Latman suffered his fifth defeat.

Two of the Sox runs resulted from Wilhelm's butterfly pitches. In the fourth, Billy Goodman was safe at first after striking out on one of the knuckle baller's offerings, which rolled to the backstop, and scored on Jim McAnany's single. In the sixth, Luis Aparicio went from first to third on a wild pitch which rolled to the backstop and scored on a passed ball.

Colts To Meet Giants Tonight In Cotton Bowl

50,000 May Witness Exhibition Contest

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)— The champion Baltimore Colts and New York Giants, both keyed up at the chance to "relive" their 23-17 overtime championship thriller of last season, tangle in a National Football League exhibition game in the Cotton Bowl Friday night.

Between 50,000 and 60,000 fans are expected for the contest which will be videotaped for national telecasts (CBS) later in the evening.

Coach Weeb Ewbank of the Colts and Jim Lee Howell of the Giants brought their clubs to town Wednesday and held light workouts in the bowl Thursday afternoon.

Ewbank said it was very doubtful if either back Alan Ameche or end Raymond Berry would see action due to knee injuries suffered in last week's victory over the college all-stars. Neither injury appears serious, but that he didn't want to run the risk of antagonizing them.

The Giants also had a doubtful starter in end Kyle Rote, nursing a hip bruise.

Howell said he planned to start George Shaw, obtained from the Colts since last season, at quarterback against the Colts' Johnny Unitas, the man who beat Shaw out of his job with the champions.

Kroll, Goalby, Palmer Shoot 66s At Akron

Fifty Better Par In Opening Round

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The $22,000 Rubber City open turned into a par-busting spree Thursday for America's touring golf professionals.

Fifty of the starting field of 132 matched or bettered the card over the 6,620-yard, par 71 Firestone Country Club course.

Out front at the end of the first day's play in quest of the $2,800 first prize were Ted Kroll of Sarasota, Fla., who hasn't won a tournament since he took the world title in 1956; Arnold Palmer of Ligonier, Pa., the former Masters champion who won here in 1957; and Bob Goalby of Crystal River, Fla.

Each had a 66 — five under par, but all three had plenty of talent snapping at their heels. Six others were deadlocked at 67; six more at 68; 13 at 69 and a dozen at 70.

In the 67 deadlock were Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa., Bill Casper Jr. of Apple Valley, Calif., Tom Nieporte of Bronxville, N.Y., Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla., Bill Parker of Tulsa, Okla.; and Tony Lema of San Leandro, Calif.

Von Clay To Fight Sonny Ray Tonight

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Von Clay, promising light heavyweight whose name and attitude is much like that of a Hessian mercenary, will risk his undefeated record Friday night when he meets sixth-ranked Sonny Ray of Chicago in a nationally-televised 10-round bout.

The 20-year-old West Philadelphia battler, who has scored seven knockouts in compiling a 9-0-1 record, said he didn't start boxing to become a champion—just to make money.

But the real money is at the top of any division and that is the direction in which the hungry youngster hopes to take a giant stride when he meets the more experienced Ray.

The windy city campaigner, who boasts a 19-5-5 log, can't afford to take the unranked fledgling lightly for Clay stopped veteran Clarence Hinnant in his last outing.

Bob Friend Fans 11 As Pirates Beat St. Louis, 3 To 1

Bucs Rack Up 11 Blows, Beat Ernie Broglio

Friend's Whiffing Total Is One Short Of Adams' Record

By JOHN CARROLL

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Bob Friend, displaying the form that made him a 22 - game winner a year ago, fanned 11 batters Thursday pitching the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 3-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. He gave up nine hits.

Friend's 11 strikeouts fell one short of tieing a club record for a nine-inning game, set by Babe Adams back in 1909. It was the 28th start of the year for the Pirate right hander, but marked only the third time he managed to go the distance. He has lost 15 games.

Scores 101st Victory

In recording his 101st major league triumph and sixth win this season, Friend ran into serious trouble only once. That was in the sixth inning, when the Cardinals scored their only run.

Pittsburgh backed Friend with an 11-hit attack off loser Ernie Broglio and reliever Lindy McDaniel to score once in the fourth inning and add the winning pair in the fifth.

Roberto Clemente opened the fourth with a single and reached second base on Dick Groat's one-bagger. Both runners advanced on a sacrifice bunt and Clemente scored on Don Hoak's grounder to first.

Groat Gets Triple

Groat and Clemente also were in on the act when Pittsburgh scored twice in the following inning. After Bob Skinner singled, Groat tripled him home and then scored himself on Clemente's single.

The only Cardinal run came on singles by Bill White and Ken Boyer plus Joe Cunningham's infield groundout.

The victory gave Pittsburgh a sweep of the abbreviated two-game series with St. Louis, but the Cardinals salvaged a suspended game, 8-6, in 10 innings, prior to Wednesday night's regularly scheduled contest.

$100,000 for Vacations

Mr. F. Schiavone

More people than ever are arranging to obtain vacation money from Aetna Finance Co., according to the Aetna manager.

"Vacation now—pay later" is an idea that's catching on, he stated. The Aetna office has set aside the largest sum in its history for this purpose.

Any amount from $25 to $1500 may be obtained, on signature or other plan. Loans also are available for expenses, consolidation of bills or other purpose. Only one visit necessary. Interested persons may call or see the Aetna manager.

Tiger Hurler Runs Strikeouts To 145, Leads Junior Loop

By LLOYD NORTHARD

DETROIT (UPI) — Frank Bolling and Gail Harris drove in five runs each Thursday to back up the five - hit pitching of Jim Bunning and carry the Detroit Tigers to an easy 14-2 victory over the New York Yankees.

Bunning struck out nine to take over the American League leadership in that department with 145 this season. He coasted behind a big lead piled up by his teammates in the first four innings when the Tigers shelled three New York hurlers for 11 runs.

Bolling contributed a pair of homers, his ninth and tenth of the year, plus a single and Harris rapped a triple, double and single. Charley Maxwell also connected for a two-run homer, his 27th of the season.

New York scored a run in the first when Bunning threw wildly past first on Bobby Richardson's bunt single. Richardson reached third and scored on a bunt by Tony Kubek. New York's other run came in the third on a double by Eli Grba and a single by Richardson.

Detroit scored twice off starter Gary Blaylock in the first on an error, a double by Al Kaline and a single by Kuenn.

Blaylock departed in the second when doubles by Harris and Rocky Bridges, a walk and a single by Kaline produced three more runs.

Bolling tagged Grba for a solo homer in the third and the Tigers batted around in a five-run fourth with Maxwell's homer and a full-house triple by Harris as the big blows.

Bolling's second homer came in the seventh after Kaline was hit by a pitched ball and Maxwell walked.

Bunning was credited with his 12th win against 10 losses while Blaylock was charged with his first loss since joining the Yankees last month. He hasn't won a game since coming from the National League.

Bob Friend Fans 11 As Pirates Beat St. Louis, 3 To 1

Bucs Rack Up 11 Blows, Beat Ernie Broglio

Friend's Whiffing Total Is One Short Of Adams' Record

By JOHN CARROLL

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Bob Friend, displaying the form that made him a 22 - game winner a year ago, fanned 11 batters Thursday pitching the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 3-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. He gave up nine hits.

Friend's 11 strikeouts fell one short of tieing a club record for a nine-inning game, set by Babe Adams back in 1909. It was the 28th start of the year for the Pirate right hander, but marked only the third time he managed to go the distance. He has lost 15 games.

Scores 101st Victory

In recording his 101st major league triumph and sixth win this season, Friend ran into serious trouble only once. That was in the sixth inning, when the Cardinals scored their only run.

Pittsburgh backed Friend with an 11-hit attack off loser Ernie Broglio and reliever Lindy McDaniel to score once in the fourth inning and add the winning pair in the fifth.

Roberto Clemente opened the fourth with a single and reached second base on Dick Groat's one-bagger. Both runners advanced on a sacrifice bunt and Clemente scored on Don Hoak's grounder to first.

Groat Gets Triple

Groat and Clemente also were in on the act when Pittsburgh scored twice in the following inning. After Bob Skinner singled, Groat tripled him home and then scored himself on Clemente's single.

The only Cardinal run came on singles by Bill White and Ken Boyer plus Joe Cunningham's infield groundout.

The victory gave Pittsburgh a sweep of the abbreviated two-game series with St. Louis, but the Cardinals salvaged a suspended game, 8-6, in 10 innings, prior to Wednesday night's regularly scheduled contest.

Tiger Hurler Runs Strikeouts To 145, Leads Junior Loop

By LLOYD NORTHARD

DETROIT (UPI) — Frank Bolling and Gail Harris drove in five runs each Thursday to back up the five - hit pitching of Jim Bunning and carry the Detroit Tigers to an easy 14-2 victory over the New York Yankees.

Bunning struck out nine to take over the American League leadership in that department with 145 this season. He coasted behind a big lead piled up by his teammates in the first four innings when the Tigers shelled three New York hurlers for 11 runs.

Bolling contributed a pair of homers, his ninth and tenth of the year, plus a single and Harris rapped a triple, double and single. Charley Maxwell also connected for a two-run homer, his 27th of the season.

New York scored a run in the first when Bunning threw wildly past first on Bobby Richardson's bunt single. Richardson reached third and scored on a bunt by Tony Kubek. New York's other run came in the third on a double by Eli Grba and a single by Richardson.

Detroit scored twice off starter Gary Blaylock in the first on an error, a double by Al Kaline and a single by Kuenn.

Blaylock departed in the second when doubles by Harris and Rocky Bridges, a walk and a single by Kaline produced three more runs.

Bolling tagged Grba for a solo homer in the third and the Tigers batted around in a five-run fourth with Maxwell's homer and a full-house triple by Harris as the big blows.

Bolling's second homer came in the seventh after Kaline was hit by a pitched ball and Maxwell walked.

Bunning was credited with his 12th win against 10 losses while Blaylock was charged with his first loss since joining the Yankees last month. He hasn't won a game since coming from the National League.

Polio Vaccine Supplies Low In Cumberland Area

Drug stores in the Cumberland area have been unable to obtain Salk polio vaccine for the past three weeks due to the critical need for the vaccine in the Midwest and other areas where there have been epidemic-like outbreaks of polio.

The Allegany County Health Department said it has on hand a supply for normal needs. One drug store reported it has had an order for 1,800 shots of the vaccine but the drug manufacturers say they are unable to fill it due to the drain from the critical areas of the nation for the vaccine.

A similar situation exists in the Bedford County area where the death of a Mann's Choice boy, Gregory Carpenter, recently, caused doctors to be flooded with requests for polio vaccinations.

Sheldon Ickes, a Bedford druggist, said recently he shipped back about 600 doses of the Salk vaccine because it had become outdated and no one had called for it.

Dr. N. A. Timmins, Bedford County medical director, said that prior to the death of the Carpenter boy the demand for Salk vaccine in the county was practically negligible.

Gregory, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Carpenter, was stricken with polio on Monday, August 3, and died the following Saturday in Johnstown Memorial Hospital of paralytic polio.

Another Bedford County child, Carl Weyant, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Weyant of New Paris Rt. 1, was stricken July 30 with the dread disease, and is a patient in the Johnstown hospital. His condition is listed as satisfactory.

The Carpenter and Weyant cases are the only two reported in the county this year, and are the first since Kathy Eichelberger of Langdondale was stricken more than a year ago.

The Carpenter boy had received three shots of the vaccine, but the Weyant boy had not been vaccinated.

Ickes said that area physicians acquired about 360 shots of the vaccine during last week, exhausting his supply. He said, however, that a shipment of about 900 doses should be in Bedford by August 28.

According to Dave Leuin, chairman of the Bedford County chapter of the March of Dimes, the country's major suppliers of the vaccine are shipping the bulk of the serum to Iowa, Missouri, and Arkansas where polio has been hitting in epidemic proportions.

Among the major suppliers of the vaccine are the Pittman Moore, Lilly, and Parke-Davis companies.

Fisher Drug Store in Bedford has been out of the vaccine for more than three weeks, but expects to have a new supply of the serum in a short time.

Local Baptist Minister Accepts Florida Call

Rev. Cornelius B. Davis, pastor of Second Baptist Church located at the intersection of Grand Avenue and Oldtown Road, has resigned his post here and will leave Monday for his new position as pastor of First Baptist Church in Live Oak, Florida.

Serving as pastor here for the past 4½ years, Mr. Davis became well-known locally as well as state-wide. He has been on the State Mission Board, serving as president this year, and is past president of the South Cumberland Ministerial Association. Rev. Davis has spoken at numerous assemblies and conventions throughout the state during his stay here.

While he was pastor of Second Baptist, the church added 401 members to the congregation and its financial contributions doubled. Gifts to world missions increased from 17 to 25 per cent over the past five years.

A graduate of the University of Georgia and Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky., Rev. Davis was pastor of Baptist Church in Madison, Ind., prior to coming to Cumberland. He is a native of Georgia.

Rev. Mr. Davis is married to the former Miss Barbara Jean Morgan, of Orlando, Fla., and is the father of two girls, Mary Chris, 2½, and Mae Beth, one-year-old. The family has been living at 6 Arch Street.

A service of appreciation will be held at the church today at 7:30 p. m. by members of the congregation for Rev. and Mrs. Davis.

Special Education Here Is Discussed

A general discussion of the special education program in Allegany County was discussed at a conference here yesterday in the office of Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

Participating with Mr. Webster in the discussion were Dr. Geneva Ely Flickinger, who is the state supervisor of special education, and Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel in the county public schools, who has been coordinating the county special education efforts the past year.

Allegany County has been without a supervisor of special education since Miss M. Jean Camper resigned in July 1958.

Tax Bills Are Being Processed

Workers in the City Collector and Finance offices are busy at work on 1959-1960 tax statements.

If all goes well, the tax bills will be placed in the mails here about the middle of next month.

The statements, on yellow paper, were received from the printers on Wednesday and by yesterday several hundred bills were processed.

The City Collector's office places the addresses and assessments on the bills and the Finance office tabulates the tax due at the rate of $1.56 on each $100 of assessable property.

The tax levy was set this Monday and the city is set up to complete processing all of the property tax bills within 30 days.

Some savings can be made if the tax bills are out early, as city officials occasionally have to borrow to meet operating expenses, due to the time lag between the beginning of the fiscal year July 1 and the setting of the levy and the beginning of tax collections.

Bank Group Officers To Meet Next Week

Cumberland Conference officers of the Association for Bank Audit, Control and Operation will meet Monday with Sam F. DiCara, NABAC organization director, to make plans for conference activities.

The local officers are J. Joseph Howell, president, cashier of First National Bank at Barton; Mrs. Angela W. McClure, vice president, assistant cashier at Second National Bank of Cumberland; and Reginald Kyle, secretary-treasurer, Lonaconing Branch of the Liberty Trust Company.

Horace Greeley ran for President on the Liberal Republican and Democratic party tickets in 1872.

Arnel Fabrics To Be Shown

A 10-foot tree with 3,000 leaves of Arnel fabrics will constitute the main exhibit of Chemcell Fibres, Ltd., Montreal, at the Canadian National Exhibition, to be held in Toronto, August 26-September 12.

Resembling the face and figure of a woman, the tree will serve as a visual description of Arnel's origin and position in the Canadian fashion industry, according to Margaret McCleary, the company's advertising manager.

Six mannequins, dressed in latest Arnel fashions in sportswear, dresses and suits, will revolve around the tree, while additional merchandise in the men's wear and children's fields will be shown on a wrought-iron fence encasing the booth.

The Celanese Corporation of America manufactures Arnel at the Amcelle plant of the firm.

The fertile fronds of the ostrich fern resemble somewhat an ostrich plume.

Railroad Stocks Run Up Top Gain Since Dec. 1957

NEW YORK (UPI) — Railroad stocks, a big question mark in recent days ran up their best gain since December, 1957 Thursday to pace the stock market in a $5 billion recovery.

The rise, achieved without benefit of heavy volume as were recent declines, was helped along by renewed optimism for an early steel strike settlement.

Buying developed when Chief Federal Mediator James Finnegan began a closed door meeting with top negotiators for both the steel industry and union following issuance of a factual report on the steel labor situation by Labor Secretary James Mitchell.

Steel stocks, and issues of aluminum companies were big movers along with the rails. The carriers, whose carloadings have been hurt by the steel strike, were given an added lift late in the session when directors of Southern Pacific proposed a three-for-one stock split and increased dividend.

Southern Pacific itself ran up nearly 6 points and there were gains around 2 points in Rock Island, Illinois Central, New York Central, Norfolk & Western.

Steel gains ranged past 4 points in Youngstown Sheet & Tube, 3 points each in U. S. Steel and Bethlehem, the last the day's most actively traded issue.

Alcoa ran up 4½ points, Reynolds Metals 4¼, Kaiser 2⅝ points in the aluminums.

Virtually all industrial groups showed good gains and a few individual issues responded to corporate announcements.

Auto shares showed gains ranging to 1¾ points in American Motors, one of the day's most active issues. Chrysler and Ford each added close to a point and General Motors was up 1⅜.

Oils were among the best movers with gains of 2⅝ in Texaco, over a point in Standard of California and Jersey Standard. Gains in chemicals ranged to 2 points or more in Eastman, Union Carbide and Olin Mathieson.

Electronics had gains running to 9½ points in high priced International Business Machines, more than 3 points each in Ampex and Motorola but two of the day's widest losses also appeared in this group—Texas Instruments off 4¼ and Zenith with a 3 point loss.

Turnover for the session dipped to 2,450,000 shares from Wednesday's 3,050,000-share total.

Of a total 1,179 issues appearing on the tape, 810 were higher, only 190 lower.

Stocks on the American Exchange recovered a good part of Wednesday's loss on reduced turnover Thursday.

Leading the upswing were Heli-Coil, Fairchild Camera and Fuller, all up 4 points or more.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Last-minute selling eased wheat and rye futures, but other grains closed mostly higher Thursday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was off ⅛ to ¾; corn unchanged to up ¼; oats up ⅛; new oats off ¼ to up ⅜; rye off ¼ to 2¼; soybeans up ¼ to ½, and lard up 12 to 18 points.

Wheat trade was light. The 1960 futures were weak. Traders found nothing in the news to stimulate an interest in the market. Some early mill buying was reported.

Corn was little changed. Export houses sold September. Other cash interests and commission houses took the offerings. There was good buying of September against sales of December. Commercial trade was mixed. Orders to buy May and sell December at 5½ cents difference again appeared. Export subsidies were granted on 222,500 bushels of oats. All other bids were rejected.

Oats were firm. Commission houses bought moderate amount of September and December.Offerings were light.

Rye grew stronger after a steady start, but weakened at the close. The Winnipeg Market was also strong.

Soybeans advanced on early short covering. Commercial houses were fair buyers of November, enabling the market to maintain a strong tone. Local traders were on both sides of the market. Hot and dry weather in the crop areas caused some comment among traders.

Oils were higher, but meals were lower.

No export sales were reported.

Outside markets were mostly higher.

Railroad Stocks Run Up Top Gain Since Dec. 1957

NEW YORK (UPI) -- Railroad stocks, a big question mark in recent days ran up their best gain since December, 1957 Thursday to pace the stock market in a $5 billion recovery.

The rise, achieved without benefit of heavy volume as were recent declines, was helped along by renewed optimism for an early steel strike settlement.

Buying developed when Chief Federal Mediator James Finnegan began a closed door meeting with top negotiators for both the steel industry and union following issuance of a factual report on the steel labor situation by Labor Secretary James Mitchell.

Steel stocks, and issues of aluminum companies were big movers along with the rails. The carriers, whose carloadings have been hurt by the steel strike, were given an added lift late in the session when directors of Southern Pacific proposed a three-for-one stock split and increased dividend.

Southern Pacific itself ran up nearly 6 points and there were gains around 2 points in Rock Island, Illinois Central, New York Central, Norfolk & Western.

Steel gains ranged past 4 points in Youngstown Sheet & Tube, 3 points each in U. S. Steel and Bethlehem, the last the day's most actively traded issue.

Alcoa ran up 4½ points, Reynolds Metals 4¼, Kaiser 2⅝ points in the aluminums.

Virtually all industrial groups showed good gains and a few individual issues responded to corporate announcements.

Auto shares showed gains ranging to 1¾ points in American Motors, one of the day's most active issues. Chrysler and Ford each added close to a point and General Motors was up 1⅜.

Oils were among the best movers with gains of 2⅝ in Texaco, over a point in Standard of California and Jersey Standard. Gains in chemicals ranged to 2 points or more in Eastman, Union Carbide and Olin Mathieson.

Electronics had gains running to 9½ points in high priced International Business Machines, more than 3 points each in Ampex and Motorola but two of the day's widest losses also appeared in this group—Texas Instruments off 4¼ and Zenith with a 3 point loss.

Turnover for the session dipped to 2,450,000 shares from Wednesday's 3,050,000-share total.

Of a total 1,179 issues appearing on the tape, 810 were higher, only 190 lower.

Stocks on the American Exchange recovered a good part of Wednesday's loss on reduced turnover Thursday.

Leading the upswing were Heli-Coil, Fairchild Camera and Fuller, all up 4 points or more.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Last-minute selling eased wheat and rye futures, but other grains closed mostly higher Thursday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was off ¼ to ¾; corn unchanged to up ¼; oats up ⅛; new oats off ¼ to up ⅜; rye off ¼ to 2¼; soybeans up ¼ to ½, and lard up 12 to 18 points.

Wheat trade was light. The 1960 futures were weak. Traders found nothing in the news to stimulate an interest in the market. Some early mill buying was reported.

Corn was little changed. Export houses sold September. Other cash interests and commission houses took the offerings. There was good buying of September against sales of December. Commercial trade was mixed. Orders to buy May and sell December at 5½ cents difference again appeared. Export subsidies were granted on 222,500 bushels of oats. All other bids were rejected.

Oats were firm. Commission houses bought moderate amount of September and December.Offerings were light.

Rye grew stronger after a steady start, but weakened at the close. The Winnipeg Market was also strong.

Soybeans advanced on early short covering. Commercial houses were fair buyers of November, enabling the market to maintain a strong tone. Local traders were on both sides of the market. Hot and dry weather in the crop areas caused some comment among traders.

Oils were higher, but meals were lower.

No export sales were reported.

Outside markets were mostly higher.

Bicycle Hits Truck; Two In Hospital

Boys, 6 And 8, 'Satisfactory'

Two local young boys were hospitalized yesterday with injuries sustained when a bicycle they were riding collided with a truck on Bond Street.

Michael Parker, 8, of 142 Independence Street, and Charles Miller, 6, of 209 Independence Street, were admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital, where their condition last night was reported "satisfactory." They suffered possible head injuries, attaches said.

City police said the two lads were riding a bicycle down an unnamed alley off the 200 block of Columbia Street in the direction of Bond Street.

Ezra Clay Davis, 38, of RD 2, Williams Road, driving a pickup truck south on Bond Street, noticed the two boys coming toward the truck.

He stopped the truck, but the bicycle ran into the vehicle.

Police said the accident was unavoidable and no charges will be preferred.

Police Detective Kenneth Morrissey and Officer James Morris took the Miller boy to the hospital. The Parker boy was taken to the hospital by his parents.

The accident occurred about 4:40 p. m.

Fleming Plans To Meet School Guard Today

Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming will meet with members of the School Safety Patrol today at 10 a.m. in City Hall to discuss the discontinuance of the patrol by the Cumberland Police Department due to lack of funds.

The patrol was instituted here in January of 1956. Commissioner Fleming said yesterday that with the announcement Wednesday of the city budget for the coming year no appropriation was made for the crossing guards.

Commissioner Fleming said that in his budget request he had asked for money to retain five women for the guard detail. However, the money was not appropriated and the patrol must be discontinued.

The commissioner noted that a similar situation arose at budget time last year, and although not a penny was appropriated for the women, he "cut corners" in order to continue the service.

The commissioner observed that the financial picture is different in the Police Department this year. The department is badly in need of four police cars, other costly items and new uniforms.

The uniforms were scheduled to be purchased last year, but due to the addition of the guards on the department's budget they were not purchased.

The women talked to Mayor J Edwin Keech yesterday and the mayor advised them that since there was no money appropriated he is unable to help them. The women indicated they were going to make a public statement concerning the matter.

Commissioner Fleming said the Police Department plans to contact the various parent-teacher associations and urge them to continue or organize School Boy Patrols. The department will make available several officers to the schools for instructions and help in organizing the patrols.

The crossing guard detail was organized on January 18, 1956 with six women. They are paid at the rate of $1.25 per hour.

The force was increased to 12 women in 1957, but had to be reduced to six last year due to lack of money.

Commissioner Fleming said that the department feels that there are enough officers available to handle the most dangerous intersections during the school year.

Paint Flood Gauges

Many Tri-State Women, Girls Share Fair Money

Unusual Prize Winners Noted At Local Fair

An 86-year-old woman who lives on the west side of Martin Mountain is the winner of a $3 first prize for her crocheted tablecloth entered in the Cumberland Fair.

She is Miss Hattie Wilson, RFD 2, Flintstone. It was her first Fair entry.

Glenn K. Davis, 515 Dreyer Avenue, proved once again this week that he can bake with the women. He won first place awards with his Swedish tea rings and sticky buns, along with three seconds. The past three years he entered coffee cake and walked off with blue ribbons each time.

Mrs. Martin M. Gordon, chief clerk at the Fair, said considerable interest is shown each year in the competition for white bread honors. Last year a school girl beat all of the housewives. This year, Mrs. Jean Shipley, RFD 2, Baltimore Pike, won the $2 premium.

In the household competition, Sister Gilberta of the Ursuline nuns won a $1 second prize for her pillowcase entry.

Mrs. Gordon commented that in the vegetable competition a number of comparatively small-scale home gardeners have submitted entries at Fairgo. One of the best known of these gardeners is retired Chief Judge George Henderson who won a third place ribbon with his tomatoes.

In the household competition for clothing and needlework, seven women will receive $10 or more in cash for their prize-winning exhibits. The biggest winner is Mrs. Forrest Snider, 638 Hill Top Drive, who will receive $23.75 in cash for her nine firsts, five seconds and one third-prize winner.

Others in this department in line for $10 or more are Mrs. C. R. Airesman, RFD 3, Somerset, Pa., $17; Mrs. Edwin Eckhart, 91 Pine Street, Frostburg, $15.50; Mrs. William Gardner, RFD 3, Somerset, Pa., $11.75; Mrs. Orville Petenbrink, RFD 1, $11.50; Miss Peggy Wills, 19 Front Street, Lonaconing, $10.75, and Mrs. John Pfeiffer, RFD 4, $10.

In the household competition for canned vegetables, fruits, meats, jellies, jams and pickles, seven women also won $10 or more. Mrs. Charles Wright, RFD 1, was the leader with $17.50. Following her were Mrs. Ruthella Fey, RFD 3, $15; Mrs. Albert Smouse, RFD 3, $14.25; Mrs. C. R. Airesman, RFD 3, Somerset, Pa., $13.75; Mrs. W. A. Judy, Cresaptown, $11.75; Mrs. Winnie Brode, RFD 4, $10.75, and Mrs. Guy Stanton, Grantsville, $10.

Forty-four girls will share $284.75 in premium money for their exhibits in the 4-H girls' food preservation competition. Eight of them will receive $10 or more. Biggest winner among the eight is Dorothy Robertson of Lonaconing, who will receive $35 for her 17 winners. She had 11 first places, four seconds and two thirds.

Other big winners among the 4-H girl canners are Donna Simpson, RFD 3, Keyser, $33.50 for 22 prizes, seven of them firsts; Judy Buckel, Bittinger, $22.75 for 14 prize winners; Elsie May Robertson, Lonaconing, $13.25; Nancy Ward, Box 56, Keyser, also $13.25; Catherine Inskeep, Lonaconing, $12.50; Elaine Bridges, RFD 3, Bedford Road, $12, and Cheryl Van Pelt, RFD 3, Keyser, $10.50.

In the 4-H girls' clothing and needlework competition, 59 girls will share $169.25. Only three are entitled to more than $10. They are Judy Buckel, Bittinger, $21 for four firsts, two seconds and one third; Kay Trost, Lonaconing, $13.50, and Donna Simpson, RFD 3, Keyser, $11.25.

Health Unit Maintains Polio Shot Schedule

Program Confined To Regular Clinics

In spite of a temporary shortage in Salk polio vaccine, the Allegany County Health Department has been able to keep its polio immunization program on schedule.

A spokesman reported yesterday that supplies have been adequate to meet the needs of the current program.

At present, the department provides polio shots only in its child health and pre-natal clinics.

During July, the department gave 399 polio vaccine shots at its clinics.

The number rose to 564 last month as news of the rise in polio spread and the total is expected to pass the 800 mark this month.

The current Health Department program is quite small compared to previous years as a result of the department's efforts to cut back what it terms an unsupervised school immunization program in favor of doctor's office or health department clinics.

Coverage Is Good

As a result of past "crash programs" sponsored by the Health Department in public and parochial schools, added to the work of family physicians, about 87 per cent of the youths of the county were given the protection offered by three or four shots of Salk polio vaccine.

The protection is excellent but far from perfect. Studies made by the U. S. Public Health Service on 1958 polio cases show that paralytic polio has been reduced about 75 per cent for those who have received the basic series of three injections. In some age groups the protection ran as high as 90 per cent.

Second Graders Best

Best protected of all are the children who entered the first grade last year, as 96.8 per cent of them received the three-shot protection, 30 per cent of them in the school program.

The current Health Department policy, as stated in a recent survey report, is for the Health Department to play its essential role through its clinics.

The survey said, "It is hoped that discouraging of school immunizations in favor of immunizations of the young infant, combined with an effort of the physicians to meet some of the economic obstacles and, hopefully, an improved physician distribution in the coming years, will lead to increased numbers of children getting the protection they need at the right age from the doctor who sees to all their medical needs as well."

Firemen Plan Joint Drill

Volunteer firemen of Bowling Green and Cresaptown will hold a drill Sunday at 1:30 p. m. at an unoccupied house on the Mason farm along U. S. Route 220.

Fire Chief Allan Deffinbaugh and Fire Chief Louis Winters of Cresaptown will be in charge of the drill.

The house, given to the firemen for training purposes by the Mason family, is located near a farm pond. The volunteers plan to set the house on fire and conduct various drills on fire fighting.

They will use various ladder evolutions and pumping methods to quench the blaze in the two-story frame dwelling. Gas mask drills also will be held.

Oldtown Bridge Will Be Closed For Night Repairs

This eight-hour closing each night is necessary for repairs, the bridge manager reports.

Best Tractor Operator

Miltenberger Wins Tractor Driving Title

John Miltenberger of Ridgeley, who was the runner-up in 1958, yesterday won the annual 4-H tractor operators' contest at the 42d annual Cumberland Fair.

Assistant County Agent James B. Arnold, who directed the contest, said that Miltenberger, who is 21 years old, is in his final year of eligibility for the contest. He now is eligible for the state competition at the Timonium Fair. For winning, the Ridgeley youth received a $15 premium.

Tom Funkhouser of Spring Gap finished second in the competition among 11 boys. His premium is $12.

Eight awards were given in the contest. Those finishing behind Funkhouser were Jim Heavner, Bedford Road, $10 third prize; Louis Miltenberger, Ridgeley, cousin of the winner, $8 fourth prize; Paul Miltenberger, brother of Louis, $5 fifth prize; George Mullenix, Oldtown Road, $5 sixth prize; Merwin Hast III, Union Grove, $5 seventh prize; George Raines, $5 eighth prize.

The contest consisted of four parts. First, each contestant spotted the drawbar, drove tractor from starting line over to machine to be pulled and fastened tongue of machine to tractor. Secondly, each contestant drove the tractor with machine hitched over an obstacle course which simulated road and gates. The third test was backing of the machine. Finally, each boy belted his tractor to a machine and ran the machine long enough to determine how well it is done.

Assisting Mr. Arnold in the conduct of the contest were County Agent Joseph M. Steger, Martin M. Gordon of the Soil Conservation Service; Rankin Lusby, Garrett County assistant agent; Kenneth M. Malone, vocational agriculture teacher at Flintstone High School; Edward Miller and Fred Loar, both of Midland, who were the 1956 and 1958 state tractor driving champions, respectively.

Other participants in the contest held on the track in front of the grandstand were Donald Irons and Larry Robey, both of Spring Gap, and John Smith of Oldtown.

C Of C Industrial Head Takes New Castle Post

Thomas W. Morris, industrial promotion director of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, has resigned to accept a position in New Castle, Pa., according to Earl D. Chaney, president.

Mr. Morris will assume the responsibilities of executive vice president of the Greater New Castle Association and the direction of the industrial development program of the Greater New Castle Development Corporation on October 1.

Before coming to Cumberland in March 1957, he headed the Chamber of Commerce and industrial activities of Pottsville, Pa., and the Chamber of Commerce of Houlton, Maine.

During his tenure here, features of the Cumberland area which make it attractive to industry have been presented to some 300 manufacturers. The story was delivered in personal visits to 121 of these companies.

A file of pertinent information on 4,200 manufacturing companies with net worth in excess of $1,000,000 has been compiled and subdivided into geographical sections. A file on available buildings has been maintained on a current basis.

The promotional materials used with prospects have been brought up to date to describe the culturral, recreational and living accommodations of the community. Data on the area, its markets, transportation, labor, sites, utilities, housing and general statistics have also been revised and reproduced in an attractive format.

The continuation of the Cumberland area industrial development program has been assured and strengthened by the activation of the Cumberland Industrial Development Company, the Chamber said. With the industrial promotion fund currently being raised, this effort will be underwritten for another three to four years, and in CIDC the area will have the means to help finance plants for desirable industries. (A meeting of CIDC members to elect a board of directors will be called soon.)

"My family and I have enjoyed our living and our work in Cumberland," Mr. Morris said in submitting his resignation. "Emotionally, we would prefer to remain here. The New Castle opportunity, however, appears too good to refuse."

Mrs. Morris, while in Cumberland, has been employed as a dietitian at Memorial Hospital and Miners Hospital.

A daughter, Alice, graduated from Allegany High School this June. She will enter the University of Maryland in September.

A son, John, and a daughter, Virginia, are a junior and a sophomore at Grinnell College, Grinnell, Iowa. John will spend the coming year at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, in studies toward a degree at Grinnell College.

Although nobody had any doubts about the outcome, the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors made the defeat of the proposed LaVale area fire tax official yesterday afternoon with its canvass of the results.

Matthew J. Mullaney, president of the Board of Election Supervisors, said the vote remained unchanged with 633 against and 276 for the proposal. Only three of the five voting machines placed at the LaVale Fire Hall were used as less than 40 per cent of the 2,298 eligible voted.

LaVale Fire Safety Group To Be Formed

The fire prevention committee of LaVale Volunteer Fire Company is attempting to organize a fire safety committee of interested residents of the community.

An organizational meeting will be held this evening at 8 o'colck in the meeting room at the fire hall.

The volunteers are seeking additional help from residents of LaVale in order that a more thorough fire prevention program may be carried out.

Plans for Fire Prevention Week in October will be discussed. Merchants are being asked to attend the meeting. Firemen hope they will have window displays during that week.

Among the activities to be discussed will be fire instructions for baby sitters. As usual, the volunteers will have an inspection of schools and encourage fire prevention among children.

The firemen want the cooperation of the residents in order that better fire prevention in the home and business places will be realized.

Permit Disapproved; Applicant Appeals

City Engineer Charles Nuzum has disapproved a building permit sought by a local resident who later filed an appeal to the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Zimowski said he was not at the garage at the time but that someone threw something over the sailor to put out the flames.

Diggs was rushed to the hospital for treatment. The sailor, who is home on leave was admitted to the hospital about 9:30 a. m.

Bicycle Hits Truck; Two In Hospital

Boys, 6 And 8, 'Satisfactory'

Two local young boys were hospitalized yesterday with injuries sustained when a bicycle they were riding collided with a truck on Bond Street.

Michael Parker, 8, of 142 Independence Street, and Charles Miller, 6, of 209 Independence Street, were admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital, where their condition last night was reported "satisfactory." They suffered possible head injuries, attaches said.

City police said the two lads were riding a bicycle down an unnamed alley off the 200 block of Columbia Street in the direction of Bond Street.

Ezra Clay Davis, 38, of RD 2, Williams Road, driving a pickup truck south on Bond Street, noticed the two boys coming toward the truck.

He stopped the truck, but the bicycle ran into the vehicle.

Police said the accident was unavoidable and no charges will be preferred.

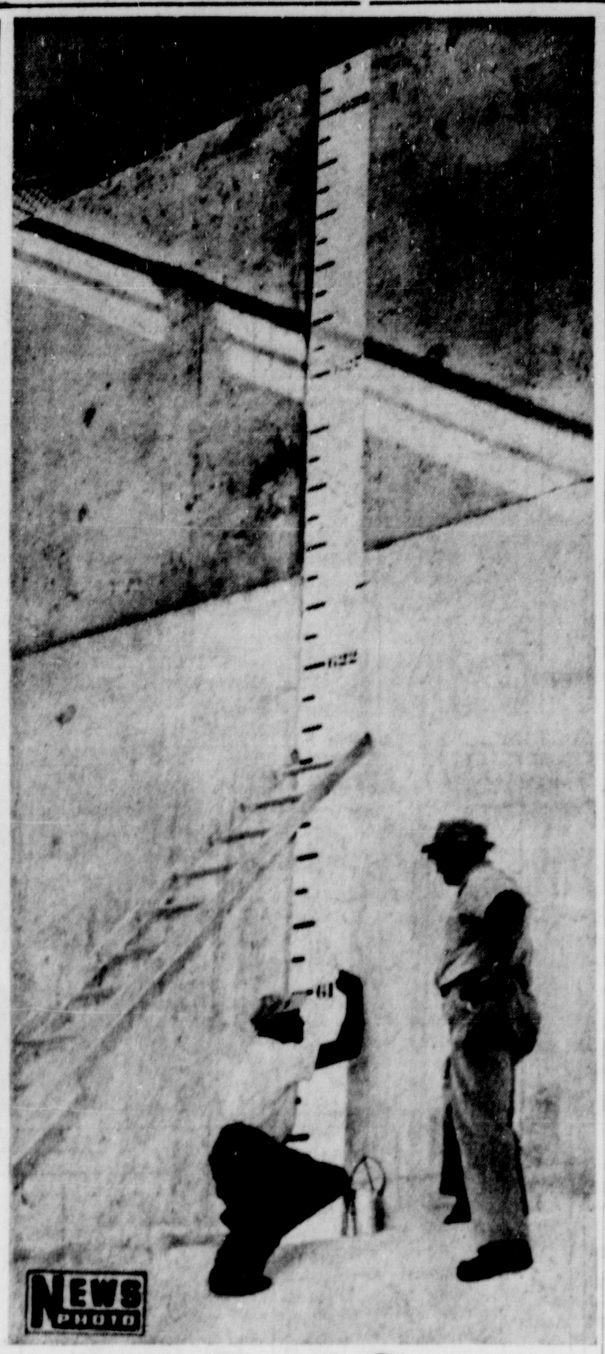
The accident occurred about 4:40 p. m.



Paint Flood Gauges

Paul S. Miller, a member of the city's flood maintenance crew, paints the figures on a flood control gauge upstream of the Market Street Bridge as Roy Maphis, foreman, looks on. The figures refer to feet above sea level and the 632 mark near the top of the gauge is about 26 feet above the bed of Wills Creek. Readings of the height of the water will be used to calculate the volume of water moving down the creek and river, and will help predict flood dangers downstream. About 10 gauges will be painted at strategic points, and the most convenient will be at the Baltimore Street Bridge.

Fleming Plans To Meet School Guard Today

Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming will meet with members of the School Safety Patrol today at 10 a.m. in City Hall to discuss the discontinuance of the patrol by the Cumberland Police Department due to lack of funds.

The patrol was instituted here in January of 1956. Commissioner Fleming said yesterday that with the announcement Wednesday of the city budget for the coming year no appropriation was made for the crossing guards.

Commissioner Fleming said that in his budget request he had asked for money to retain five women for the guard detail. However, the money was not appropriated and the patrol must be discontinued.

The commissioner noted that a similar situation arose at budget time last year, and although not a penny was appropriated for the women, he "cut corners" in order to continue the service.

The commissioner observed that the financial picture is different in the Police Department this year. The department is badly in need of four police cars, other costly items and new uniforms.

The uniforms were scheduled to be purchased last year, but due to the addition of the guards on the department's budget they were not purchased.

The women talked to Mayor J. Edwin Keech yesterday and the mayor advised them that since there was no money appropriated he is unable to help them. The women indicated they were going to make a public statement concerning the matter.

Commissioner Fleming said the Police Department plans to contact the various parent-teacher associations and urge them to continue or organize School Boy Patrols. The department will make available several officers to the schools for instructions and help in organizing the patrols.

The crossing guard detail was organized on January 18, 1956 with six women. They are paid at the rate of $1.25 per hour.

The force was increased to 12 women in 1957, but had to be reduced to six last year due to lack of money.

Commissioner Fleming said that the department feels that there are enough officers available to handle the most dangerous intersections during the school year.

Miltenberger Wins Tractor Driving Title

John Miltenberger of Ridgeley, who was the runner-up in 1958, yesterday won the annual 4-H tractor operators' contest at the 42d annual Cumberland Fair.

Assistant County Agent James B. Arnold, who directed the contest, said that Miltenberger, who is 21 years old, is in his final year of eligibility for the contest. He now is eligible for the state competition at the Timonium Fair. For winning, the Ridgeley youth received a $15 premium.

Tom Funkhouser of Spring Gap finished second in the competition among 11 boys. His premium is $12.

Eight awards were given in the contest. Those finishing behind Funkhouser were Jim Heavner, Bedford Road, $10 third prize; Louis Miltenberger, Ridgeley, cousin of the winner, $8 fourth prize; Paul Miltenberger, brother of Louis, $5 fifth prize; George Mullenix, Oldtown Road, $5 sixth prize; Merwin Hast III, Union Grove, $5 seventh prize; George Raines, $5 eighth prize.

The contest consisted of four parts. First, each contestant spotted the drawbar, drove tractor from starting line over to machine to be pulled and fastened tongue of machine to tractor. Secondly, each contestant drove the tractor with machine hitched over an obstacle course which simulated road and gates. The third test was backing of the machine. Finally, each boy belted his tractor to a machine and ran the machine long enough to determine how well it is done.

Other participants in the contest held on the track in front of the grandstand were Donald Irons and Larry Robey, both of Spring Gap, and John Smith of Oldtown.

Many Tri-State Women, Girls Share Fair Money

Unusual Prize Winners Noted At Local Fair

An 86-year-old woman who lives on the west side of Martin Mountain is the winner of a $3 first prize for her crocheted tablecloth entered in the Cumberland Fair.

She is Miss Hattie Wilson, RFD 2, Flintstone. It was her first Fair entry.

Glenn K. Davis, 515 Dreyer Avenue, proved once again this week that he can bake with the women. He won first place awards with his Swedish tea rings and sticky buns, along with three seconds. The past three years he entered coffee cake and walked off with blue ribbons each time.

Mrs. Martin M. Gordon, chief clerk at the Fair, said considerable interest is shown each year in the competition for white bread honors. Last year a school girl beat all of the housewives. This year, Mrs. Jean Shipley, RFD 2, Baltimore Pike, won the $2 premium.

In the household competition, Sister Gilberta of the Ursuline nuns won a $1 second prize for her pillowcase entry.

Mrs. Gordon commented that in the vegetable competition a number of comparatively small-scale home gardeners have submitted entries at Fairgo. One of the best known of these gardeners is retired Chief Judge George Henderson who won a third place ribbon with his tomatoes.

In the household competition for clothing and needlework, seven women will receive $10 or more in cash for their prize-winning exhibits. The biggest winner is Mrs. Forrest Snider, 638 Hill Top Drive, who will receive $23.75 in cash for her nine firsts, five seconds and one third-prize winner.

Others in this department in line for $10 or more are Mrs. C. R. Airesman, RFD 3, Somerset, Pa., $17; Mrs. Edwin Eckhart, 91 Pine Street, Frostburg, $15.50; Mrs. William Gardner, RFD 3, Somerset, Pa., $11.75; Mrs. Orville Petenbrink, RFD 1, $11.50; Miss Peggy Wills, 19 Front Street, Lonaconing, $10.75, and Mrs. John Pfeiffer, RFD 4, $10.

Judy, Cresaptown, $11.75; Mrs. Winnie Brode, RFD 4, $10.75, and Mrs. Guy Stanton, Grantsville, $10.

Forty-four girls will share $284.75 in premium money for their exhibits in the 4-H girls' food preservation competition. Eight of them will receive $10 or more. Biggest winner among the eight is Dorothy Robertson of Lonaconing, who will receive $35 for her 17 winners. She had 11 first places, four seconds and two thirds.
